

We Offer $100 Reward

A new low in despicable acts has been visited upon the community. Sometime between Tuesday night and Wednesday morning of this week, a 30-pound fawn was taken from the Forsyth Zoo and slaughtered, apparently for the few pounds of meat its hind-quarters would provide.

What kind of depraved individual or individuals would stoop so low as to slaughter a defenseless animal? What idiot or idiots are running around on the loose in our community?

We at the Freeman are outraged

by this senseless act and therefore are offering a $100 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible. Anyone with information regarding this situation can call the Kingston Police Department at 331-1671.

It is almost incomprehensible to us that someone could have been that hungry as to have to slaughter this nearly domesticated animal for food. And, if this does prove to be the case, we should all take stock of ourselves and the system in which we live. There has got to be a better way.

New Twist to Fawn Case

KINGSTON
The case of the theft of a seven-month-old fawn from Kingston's Forsyth Park Zoo earlier this week took on several new twists Thursday afternoon as the carcass of the 30-pound animal was discovered in a wooded area just beyond the zoo's outer fence by a Freeman photographer.

The fallow deer fawn had apparently been beaten on the head with a broken baseball bat and its two hind legs were missing, possibly taken for food.

The butchered carcass was discovered by Freeman photographer Robert Haines who had gone to the park shortly after 3 p.m. to take a picture of another slaughtered deer found in the park which was at first thought to be the fawn.
The remains of the first deer, now believed to be a wild white-tailed buck, were found earlier Thursday afternoon by zookeeper Robert Horvers. All that remained of the first deer were the decomposed head and the skin. A broken baseball bat with clumps of deer hair clinging to it was found nearby, and it was concluded that the remains were that of the fawn.

Haines, noting that the carcass he was to photograph was extensively decomposed, traced a trail of blood from the zoo's outer fence and found the fawn in a shallow hole beneath a piece of plywood.

"For all the work they went to, what they took off the fawn just doesn't make sense," Horvers said of the killing of the small animal.

Kingston Police Department detectives are investigating the incident.

Cry From Joy Bridge: 'We Want To Work'

UNION PICKETERS AT PROJECT SITE

By Jon Powers

TOWN OF WOODSTOCK

There is nothing particularly awesome or significant about Joy Bridge in the Town of Woodstock. Located off the main stream of traffic, its rusted iron girders arch unobtrusively over the Sawkill Creek. Below, the waters tumble over rocks and boulders in a picturesque, but not spectacular fashion.

But despite its rather ordinary stature, Joy Bridge has become, this week, something of a symbol for the pressures and frustrations of long months of unemployment and the prospect of even harder times ahead. While a small crew of men pour the concrete that will, by this summer, support a new bridge, a larger contingent of union members march angrily in protest.

The picket line was formed Tuesday; by Thursday, it had grown to 75 unemployed union workers. Union organizers say they'll expand their protest to the Phoenicia Bridge project next week, and continue picketing until both jobs are completed.

On one level, the Joy Bridge protest—reflects a basic issue in management-labor relations: the contractor—James Berardi of Kingston—is using nonunion labor, and the unions don't like that one bit. Beyond that, the protest becomes complicated by allegations of incompetency, conflict of interest and illegality.

There is nothing—no law, no statute, no policy—that requires Berardi to hire union labor. As a private businessman, he is entitled to employ those people he believes can perform the work most efficiently and most economically.

Union leaders acknowledge Berardi's legal right to hire whomever he chooses, but they argue that the contractor could show some compassion for tradesmen who are among the nation's most chronically unemployed.

They are equally upset with the Ulster County Legislature for awarding Berardi the contract in the first place. "We're all taxpayers too," said one member of the Ironworkers Local. "We have families to feed and clothes to buy and taxes to pay, but we can't get work because the politicians are hiring nonunion contractors."

Clarence Terpening, a representative for the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters, emphasized that the county isn't saving money by hiring nonunion labor. "The contractor is required to pay the prevailing wage, whether he's using union or nonunion help," he said, "and everyone is supposed to get the same benefits."

Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature, says the county has no choice. "State law requires that we award a contract to the lowest responsible bidder," he said. "That's required by the state, not the county." Berardi submitted a bid in January that was $8,000 lower than the nearest bidder and some $30,000 below original cost estimates for the project.

The union people, not unexpectedly, insist that they can do the job better; that they have a degree of training and experience that can't be matched by independent, nonunion laborers.

There are other issues involved, including one that particularly angers the union picketers. They charged Thursday that an employee of the Ulster County Highway Department—and a member of the Ulster County unit of the Civil Service Employees Association—was driving one of Berardi's trucks and crossing the union picket line. They also charge that county engineers are working on the bridge project.

CSEA president Thomas Phillips said he doubts the allegation is true. "Our policy has always been to honor another union's picket line, just as we would expect them to honor ours," he said, "but I will certainly look into it."

But the major issue for most of the union men is a personal one: it reflects the embarrassment of collecting unemployment insurance week in and week out, the frustration of amenities they cannot afford, the disappointment of family trips and vacations that must be postponed, the fear that they'll still be out of work when the money runs out altogether. Unemployment is big business in Ulster County these days and humble Joy Bridge, at least until something better comes along, has become its trademark.

Cambo Report 'Ridiculous'

BANGKOK, Thailand — Radio Phnom Penh said today a U.S. warplane killed at least 15 persons Wednesday in a bombing raid on the Cambodian town of Siem Reap.

A U.S. military spokesman in Bangkok said the "report is ridiculous and completely without truth."

In Washington, Maj. Duane Austin, duty officer at the Pentagon, said, "I have no word on anything like that. I am totally unaware of it."

View Not Shared

SALISBURY, Rhodesia — A black nationalist leader says veteran British diplomat Lord Greenhill may change the course of deadlocked negotiations with Rhodesia's white minority government, but many blacks don't seem to think so.

Hundreds of black demonstrators streamed into Salisbury's central square Thursday, demanding Britain end its "interference" in current nationalist attempts to win majority rule in the former British colony.

The shouting but orderly demonstrators, most of them women and many with babies tied to their backs, waved placards condemning Greenhill's arrival earlier in the day.

Isabel Taking Off

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — President Isabel Peron has decided to leave the capital for a brief vacation after surviving a congressional move to impeach her. Opposition congressmen warned a military coup was imminent.

The presidential press office announced Mrs. Peron planned to leave today for a four-day vacation at the fashionable beach resort of Mar del Plata, 250 miles south of Buenos Aires.

The First Think Tank

NEW YORK — A multi-million dollar think tank for super scholars in the humanities will rise at Research Triangle Park in North Carolina, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences reported today in New York.

The National Humanities Center will open in 1978. Initial funding of $4.5 million has been obtained from corporations, foundations and the state of North Carolina.

The center will invite distinguished postdoctoral fellows in the humanities, plus government officials, journalists and writers, to tackle urgent problems facing society.

Yanks Head for Home

ATHENS, Greece — Two freed American government employees and their families left for Washington today without discussing any details of their four-month abduction by Lebanese guerrillas.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said Charles Gallagher and William Dykes, accompanied by their wives, four of Gallagher's children and two Gallagher family dogs, left on a commercial flight headed toward Rome and then the United States.

Raises For County

By Lynn Mulvaney

KINGSTON

Cost of living wage increases of $1.12 million were approved Thursday night for Ulster County employees as well as their bosses, retroactive to Jan. 1.

At a special meeting of the Ulster County Legislature, the board approved the pay boosts by a party line 17 to 7 vote with Republicans favoring the measure and Democrats against because they wanted additional time to discuss the raises for department heads. Seven legislators were absent and two abstained.

Initially the board planned to vote only on a seven per cent increase for employees but legislators were bombarded this week with letters from department heads seeking a similar cost of living increase.

It was Legislator Lester C. Elmendorf, R-Dist. 5, who moved to give department heads, other than elected officials, a seven per cent increase for those receiving $15,000 annually; six per cent for those earning between $15,000 and $25,000 and five per cent for those receiving $25,000 or more a year.

That amendment, although it passed, met considerable opposition from the Democrats, with John Dwyer, D-City, questioning whether it was in order and suggesting that action on it be delayed in view of the fact that seven members were absent.

The cost of living increases will cost the county $1,088,000 for the regular employees and an additional $41,000 for the department heads.

Majority Leader Ernest J. Gardner, R-Dist. 5, favored the raises for bosses saying that without increases for them, some would be earning less than people working under them.

While agreeing with the spirit of the proposals and the increases for employees, Minority Leader Louis M. Klein, D-Dist. 6, voted against the raises on the grounds that "time and time again" during budget discussions, he was not appraised of any intent to increase department heads' salaries this year. He felt an executive session to discuss the pay boosts was in order and he suggested that one appointee, June Davidson, assistant county clerk, would get a "double" increase.

'Loan Plot' Thickens

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON

The controversy surrounding the fiscal affairs of the Ulster County Community Action Committee took a new turn today with the announcement by UCCAC Board Chairman James Billups that he returned the $5,000 he borrowed for a mini-bike program on Sept. 10 last year, conflicting with previous reports that the money was returned in two installments, in November and December of 1975.

Billups originally borrowed the money on June 17. He told the Freeman today that he returned "the entire amount" on Sept. 10 and said he has receipts to back up his statement.

"I fulfilled my obligation," Billups said. He said he turned the money over to David Joseph on Sept. 10. He declined to comment on reports that the money did not reach UCCAC until November ($2,000 in small bills) and December ($3,000 by way of a cashier's check).

"You'll have to ask Dave about that," said Billups. Efforts today to reach Joseph, fired by the UCCAC board two months ago, proved futile.

UCCAC's finance officer, Mary Lou Rowland, wasn't available for comment either.

Billups also said that there was no connection between IBM, the YMCA and the mini-bike program. "It was completely separate," he said. "It was never intended to be an IBM or YMCA program."

Billups said further that he did not tell UCCAC or Joseph that he needed the money to cover an incoming IBM grant although he allows that may have been Joseph's understanding of the situation. "We (he and Joseph) talked a lot about the IBM-sponsored program. I guess there was some connection with Dave," Billups said.

Billups said that the mini-bike program he planned last year "never got off the ground," that it was funded through "private sources" and that "there was no money spent" on it.

The YMCA's mini-bike program was started in 1972 by Billups and was made possible by the donation of 16 mini-bikes by the Honda Corporation.

(Legislature also tabled the $11,000 share for the UCCAC. Story on Page 18.)

Store Manager Indicted

By Matt Spireng

NEW PALTZ

The manager of a New Paltz tire store was named Thursday in a three-count felony indictment handed up by the January term Ulster County Grand Jury for his alleged involvement in the theft of a trailer and its contents from a Massachusetts freight terminal. The trailer and merchandise, valued at $100,000, were recovered Dec. 22 in Highland.

Indicted on two counts of first degree criminal possession of stolen property and one count of second degree grand larceny was Orlando ("Sonny") D'Esposito, 45, of Route 44/55, Clintondale, manager of Radial Ride Tire Inc., 87 North Chestnut Street, New Paltz.

D'Esposito was initially arrested Dec. 22 on one count of first degree criminal possession of stolen property following several days of around-the-clock surveillance by state police and FBI agents on the stolen trailer.

The trailer had been spotted five days previously parked near a vacant road stand just south of Highland off Route 9W. A computer check on the trailer showed it had been stolen sometime between Dec. 13 and 15 from the Pilot Freight Carriers Terminal in Seekonk, Mass., and surveillance was begun.

Two days later, police said, D'Esposito was observed removing items from the trailer and storing them in the road stand. Police continued surveillance for several days before arresting D'Esposito.

Authorities said the trailer contained small appliances, television sets, stereos, clothing and other items.

D'Esposito faced possible federal charges, but federal authorities said Thursday they have declined to prosecute in favor of action by the local authorities.

FLOYD PATTERSON

Patterson Is Named to Post

NEW PALTZ
Gov. Hugh L. Carey has appointed former two-time heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, 41, of New Paltz to the State Athletic Commission.

The position carries no salary; Patterson will be paid $110 a day while on commission business. His term expires Dec. 31, 1979.

He is joined on the three-member commission by James A. Farley Jr., the chairman and son of former U.S. Postmaster James A. Farley, and Manuel A. Gonzalez of the Bronx.

Patterson, his wife and two daughters have lived in New Paltz for a number of years. He has been active in numerous civic affairs in Ulster County, usually dealing with youth. Patterson helps operate a boxing club in New Paltz sponsored by Americans Mobilized Against Narcotics Abuse.

It was almost 20 years ago (Nov. 30, 1956) that Patterson knocked out Archie Moore to become the youngest heavyweight champion in history. He lost the title to Ingemar Johansson in June of 1959 and became the first heavyweight in history to regain the title the following year when he KO'd Johansson. Patterson lost his crown to Sonny Liston in 1962. His last fight was against Muhammad Ali in 1972.

In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. William Rutledge, who God called home one year ago, Feb. 28, 1975.

Dear Mother,

Tired of the hollow, the bare, the untrue,

Mother, Mother my heart calls for you!

Through a summer the grass has grown green.

Blossomed and faded, our faces between,

Yet with strong earning and passionate pain,

Long I tonight, for your presence again.

Love you in Heaven,

Daughter, LAURA

Democrats Taking Aim on Jimmy Carter's Candidacy

By UPI

Jimmy Carter's newly won frontrunner status suddenly has made him a popular target on the Democratic campaign trail.

Birch Bayh claimed Thursday that Carter, the winner of Tuesday's New Hampshire primary, sounds more like a Republican than a Democrat, and Henry Jackson said it's time the public knew "the truth" about the former Georgia governor.

Meanwhile, Ronald Reagan stumped Florida for his March 9 showdown with President

Ford there, George Wallace told a Boston crowd the Democratic party is moving closer to the positions he took a decade ago, and Sargent Shriver leaned on his Kennedy connections in Massachusetts.

Bayh, who finished third in New Hampshire, said in Boston he has "some very basic differences" with Carter. "We don't need a Democrat running around the country peddling Republican principles," Bayh said. "No Democratic nominee can run in November nor can we long survive as a party if we talk and act like Republicans."

Jackson, making his first primary race of the campaign, told a Boston news conference he wasn't involved in any "stop Carter" movement but he added, "this is the 'beginning to get the public the truth movement' and if the shoe fits, so be it."

Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel said he and many other Democratic governors oppose Carter's candidacy and have misgivings about things Carter did while representing Georgia at national governors conferences.

"People who can judge you best are people who have served with you in other capacities," said Mandel.

Reagan told a predominantly elderly crowd of 10,000 in St. Petersburg that President Ford's proposals to keep Social Security healthy were a "band-aid" approach.

Lester Maddox, whom Carter succeeded as governor, said he wasn't surprised by Carter's New Hampshire showing. "The news media has Carter pegged as a moderate conservative," Maddox said,

"but this is all baloney."

Maddox promised more anti-Carter appearances similar to the one he made last week in Manchester, N.H., as a one-man "Maddox truth squad."

Reagan's Florida campaign manager, Tommy Thomas, who had been predicting a 2 to 1 "landslide" win for the Californian, lowered his estimate. "I still say we'll win by a landslide," Thomas said.

"That's 55 per cent."

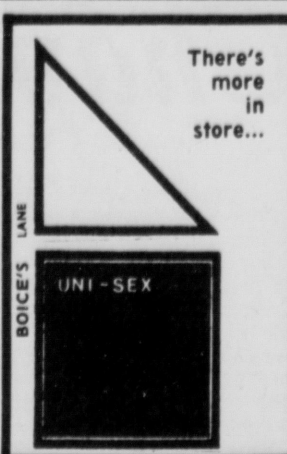

Wallace told a cheering crowd at Sutton, Mass., "when I came to Boston two weeks ago, I heard Mayor Kevin White saying what I had said 12 years ago."

Shriver, a brother-in-law of John F. Kennedy, said in New Bedford, Mass., he had felt close to Massachusetts for many years.

"A lot of these fellows are from Alabama and Georgia and a lot of other places," Shriver said. "It would be good to have someone in the White House who doesn't come here only every four years."

An "Askew '76 Committee" was formed by three Florida law school graduates, who registered it with the Federal Elections Commission to promote Florida Gov. Reubin Askew for the nomination. Askew has said he doesn't want to be president.

Doctor in Patty's Corner

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst thought of herself as an "outlaw" after she was forced by her kidnapers to help rob a bank, says a psychiatrist testifying in her defense.

Dr. Martin Orne said the newspaper heiress played the role of bank robber out of fear of the Symbionese Liberation Army, but following the holdup her captors convinced her she had become a "common criminal."

"She was forced to commit a crime she knew was a crime," he said. "She had reached a point in time where there was no way back, she was stuck with that role. And there was no one she could tell she was just playing the role."

As time went on, the role became "more and more real" and by the time of her capture last fall she was "frozen" in it, the psychiatrist said.

Orne, whose testimony set the stage for a battle between attorneys over the admissibility of lie detector test results favorable to Miss Hearst, left the stand late Thursday.

He was followed by Dr. Robert Jay Lifton of Yale, who had barely begun testifying when court recessed until today. Lifton is the last of the defense's three psychiatrists, but the prosecution plans to call two of its own to knock down the brainwash defense.

Orne, a University of Pennsylvania clinical psychiatrist, told the jury at Miss Hearst's bank robbery trial that her position in the SLA showed she was pretending when she converted to revolutionary violence.

"She was the only private in an army of generals," he said. "If she had really gone over to them, she would have insisted on a promotion. It doesn't make sense for her to remain a private."

Miss Hearst's tape recorded messages would have been "far more compelling if she could have identified herself at least as Colonel Hearst," he argued.

During cross-examination, prosecutor David Bancroft asked if Miss Hearst might not have "got religion" and become a willing member of the terrorist band.

"People who get religion, as you put it, when they come back, they talk religion," Orne said.

Bancroft noted that in a jail conversation with a girl friend after her capture, Miss Hearst said she wanted to make a "revolutionary feminist" statement.

"I found only a little of a revolutionist and a lot of a feminist," Orne said of his examinations of Miss Hearst, adding that he thought she got some of her feminist views from her mother.

A Prod on Energy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has unveiled two new plans for boosting his power to set U.S. energy policy.

One would give him authority to set a deadline for federal agency review of how Alaska's natural gas riches will be shipped to the lower 48 states and, subject to congressional approval, the authority to pick between two competing routes.

That proposal requires a new law and will join 18 other measures that Ford is trying, with varying degrees of success, to push through Congress.

The other, which Ford can put into effect without congressional action, sets a strict quota on imports of liquefied natural gas.

Ford presented his proposals Thursday in a sweeping call for Congress, which has passed only one piece of major energy legislation in the past year, to get on with the task of freeing America from dependence on uncertain foreign energy supplies by 1985.

He urged Congress to deregulate domestic natural gas prices, saying removal of federal controls would halt a two-year downward production spiral and boost output 25 per cent by 1980.

He called for speedy passage of a new billion dollar, 15-year program to aid areas where development of federally-owned energy resources such as coal and oil shale threatens to turn small communities into boom towns.

Chapin, McLean at Vassar

POUGHKEEPSIE
Tune in to your local radio station and, on any day of the week, chances are your favorite disc jockey will be spinning a record by Don McLean and another by Harry Chapin. Switch on your homescreeen and the possibilities are great that either Harry Chapin or Don McLean will be singing on a variety or regular network television show.

But rarely offered is the opportunity to see and hear McLean and Chapin performing live together. Hudson Valley residents, however, will be able to do just that when the two superstars team in a benefit concert in Poughkeepsie this Saturday, Feb. 28. To help raise funds to repair the Hudson River sloop

Clearwater, McLean and Chapin will stage two shows tomorrow night (at 7:30 and 10:30 p.m.) in the Vassar College Chapel on the Poughkeepsie school's campus.

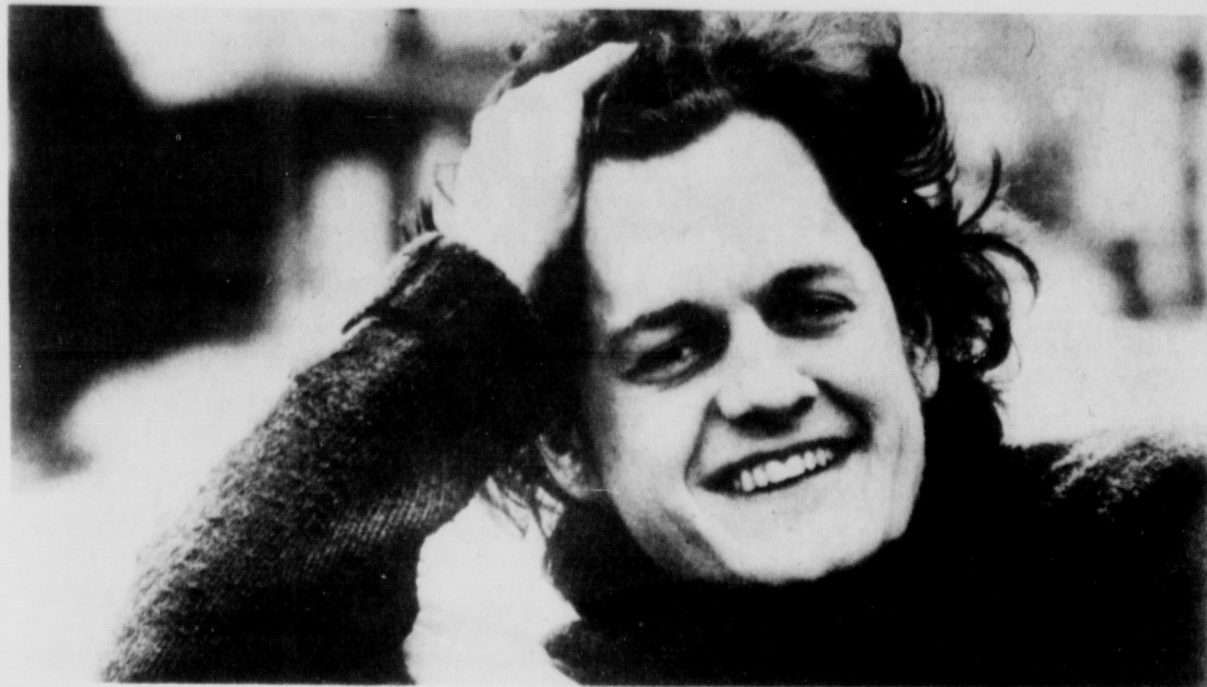

McLean, whose international following is lodged in the success of such songs as "American Pie" (written and sung by him) and "And I Love You So" (composed by him and recorded by Perry Como), has played to several sell-out concerts in Poughkeepsie previously. Chapin, whose fans have been legion since his first gold record, "Cat's in the Hat," hit the charts—and his stardom in the Broadway hit, "The Night That Made America Famous"—will be making his first in-person appearance in this area.

Those who attend one or the other of the two concerts will be treating themselves to a musically entertaining first for this area—and will be contributing to the highly worthwhile cause of helping to relaunch the dry docked Clearwater on the Hudson River for this year's Bicentennial celebration.

Sylvia Suzowsky

Harpsichord Recital at Holy Cross

KINGSTON

Sylvia Suzowsky will present a harpsichord recital Sunday, Feb. 29 at 3 p.m. at the Church of the Holy Cross in Kingston.

The first half of the program will be devoted to works of J.S. Bach beginning with a group of two and three-part Inventions, followed by the Italian Concerto and concluding with a group of Preludes and Fugues from the Well-Tempered Clavier.

After intermission, the program will consist of a group of Scarlatti Sonatas.

In her capacity as harpsichordist for the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, Ms. Suzowsky has performed with such diverse works as the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 and the deFalla Harpsichord Concerto. She has performed extensively as an ensemble player as well as soloist.

Tickets will be available at the door.

Army Chamber Music

WEST POINT

The United States Military Academy Band will present the seventh concert of its 1975-76 Chamber Music Series on Sunday, February 29 at 8 p.m. in the Cadet Chapel at West Point.

The program will include selections from Bozza (TROIS PIECES), Mozart (MARCH DER PRIESTER) and Ravel (PAVANE FOR A DEAD PRINCESS).

The concert is free and open to the public.

Self-Help Clinic

On Saturday, February 28 at 11 a.m., there will be a self-help clinic at the Woodstock Women's Center. Two women from the Ithaca Women's Health Collective will be present to demonstrate self-examination, bimanual examination and breast examinations. This demonstration will be aided by a slide presentation. The Ithaca Women's Health Collective has been active in the Ithaca area for the past two years and is involved in teaching self-help at Planned Parenthood.

Zimet at Ithaca

At Ithaca College, the annual Concerto Program is considered one of the most important concerts of the year. And, appearing in that concert this year with the Ithaca College Orchestra will be six outstanding soloists from the School of Music. Among them will be freshman cellist Beth Zimet of Woodstock, a 1974 Ontario High School graduate who has played with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic. Another local student who will perform in the Concerto Program Sunday evening, Feb. 29 in Walter Ford Hall on the Ithaca campus as a member of the College Orchestra is first violinist Marilyn Katz, a 1973 graduate of Kingston High School.

DCCC 'Big Band'

Mrs. Manzoor Ansari, Wingdale, has announced a benefit concert will be given in Bardavon Cinemasque Theatre, 33 Market Street, Poughkeepsie, Sunday at 12 o'clock.

Mrs. Ansari, chairperson of the event, is a board member of the Dutchess-Columbia Branch, American Lung Association, sponsoring organization. She is also a member of the board for Dutchess County Community College.

The Dutchess Community College Jazz ensemble, with

Roger Thorpe directing, will be the attraction playing the classic arrangements of Tommy Dorsey, Glenn Miller and others from that era — the BIG BAND SOUND.

The public, in supporting this event, will be helping not only the Dutchess-Columbia Lung Association, but will be adding to the Scholarship Fund at Dutchess Community College.

Tickets are available at the Bardavon box office, Lung Association office at 246 Church Street, or through any board member.

CBS BROADCAST CENTER

A sophisticated and expressive puppet joins producer-host Nick De Noia and youthful Kingstonian, Jonathan Berman, in front of CBS Broadcast Center to remind viewers their

TV family special, "WHAT'S THE WORD?—TOMORROW" will be broadcast Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

Kingston Youngster Will Appear On Saturday Night CBS Show

By Tobie Geertsema

"He's my favorite young man in the world," says Nick De Noia, producer-host of "WHAT'S THE WORD?", a WCBS-TV Family Special to be broadcast this Saturday, Feb. 28 at 7:30 p.m.

The favorite young man in his life is Jonathan Berman, 10-years-old and a student at Kingston's George Washington School. Since his mother's tragic death at 32 more than a year ago, he has lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Schechter of Lounsberry Place, Kingston. His grandfather serves as an aide to State Sen. Edwyn E. Mason when the legislature is in session.

Television and theatrical revue producer De Noia, a long-time friend and partner of Ken Berman, Jonathan's father, persuaded him to allow the local youngster to appear in "WHAT'S THE WORD?", a family variety show for 7-to-14-year olds and their parents that may go into syndication. Producer-host De Noia particularly wanted Jonathan for his special because, says De Noia, "He's wonderful... intelligent... perceptive... inquisitive... aware."

Says his grandmother, "His father does anything he can to keep him out of so-called 'shows,' but this one is a children's program for the brighter child. And he agreed to let him appear since he could tape it during Christmas vacation."

Ulster County residents who tune in to the family special Saturday night during its half hour run will find that the "word" of "What's the Word?" is "tomorrow." That time when you'll push buttons and everything will work for you. When people will be using flying saucers as cars. When you can eat a pill in the morning and get all the food and nutrients you need.

Filled with original music and dance, sophisticated puppets, and an unusual rendition of James Thurber's "The Last Flower," the show will also include a film of technological advances that will play an increasingly important role in the future: turbine wind mills, instructional computers, laser beams and space programs.

Says De Noia, "Our show focuses on the future. What kind of a world are we building for our children? How do children experience it? And how can both generations live to make it a better world. It doesn't tell you how to spell the word like Sesame Street... it deals with the word's feelings."

He's hoping those who watch

this family special Saturday night will agree with him that it bridges the generation and communication gap between parent and child in this rapidly changing world. He's particularly enthusiastic about the original musical numbers, the Thurber segment about life after World War 12, and about his young Kingston favorite, Jonathan Berman.

In fact, it was Jonathan and his wife Jennifer O'Neill's young daughter, Amy, who changed his interest in children. For several years, he and Jonathan's father, Ken, worked in Children's Theater together and had little love for their youthful audiences.

"Those years were really weird," he says, "sado-masochism riding high! Kids—3,000 at a time—throwing Ju-Ju beads at us... tossing thumb tacks on the stage. But because of Jonathan and Amy, I've grown to love children and have found a new interest in Television for Children."

You can see for yourself tomorrow when "WHAT'S THE WORD?—TOMORROW," a spin-off from "Hip Patches," also created by Nick, is broadcast. And when the book Nick De Noia and Ken Berman are co-authoring about their experiences in Children's Theater is published.

Pike, Smith and Wein at NAD Show

NEW YORK CITY Ulster County artist John Pike, Lawrence Beall Smith and Albert Wein are among those who will exhibit at the 151st annual exhibition of the National Academy of Design. The exhibition opens Saturday, Feb. 28, at the academy's galleries, 1083 Fifth Avenue, and continues through March 21.

It includes 329 paintings in oil, sculpture, prints, drawings and watercolors from all parts of the United States, with 138 members and 191 non-members represented.

Invited artists include such well known painters as Benny Andrews, Rudolf Baranik, Ken Gore, Trafford P. Klotz, Robert Maione, Elias Rivera, Sidney Simon, Herbert Steinberg and May Stevens. Sculptors Clark Bronson, Jack

Drake and Edward Fraughton, aquarellists Claus Hoie, Arne Lindmark and Oscar Velasquez, and graphic artists Sigmund Abeles, David Becker, Herbert Fink, Linda Plotkin, Rudy Pozzatti, Donald Sexauer and Richard Zeimann will also be represented.

The National Academy of Design is the oldest art group in New York City and second oldest in the nation. The membership consists of academicians and associates distinguished in the fields of painting, architecture, sculpture and the graphic arts.

In addition to holding contemporary art exhibitions in its galleries, the academy operates a school of fine arts at 5 East 89th Street, the oldest art school in New York City.

Coleman's 'Mary Poppins'

The curtain rises at 7:30 this evening on the debut performance of that wonderful bit of Whimsy, "Mary Poppins" presented by the 150 or more would-be thespians of the John Coleman High School Children's Theater.

Coleman's Dean of Students, Gerard M. Gretzinger, has been overseeing the group effort. Senior Barbara Blaber will play the multi-talented baby sitter; sophomore Bernie Gray is the ebullient Bert. The show was produced by student Frank Patience.

Martha Hill's imaginative set is quite ambitious, with a 'thrust stage' extending 15 feet into the audience. Parent Tom Kearney supervised the carpentry.

There will be performances on Saturday at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.; Sunday at 2 and 7:30 p.m. Next weekend, they'll do it all again at 7:30 p.m. on Friday; Saturday at 2 and 7:30 p.m.; Sunday, 2 and 7:30 p.m.

'New Moon' Children's Party

WOODSTOCK The School of the New Moon will present an afternoon dance party for children at Woodstock Town Hall Saturday, Feb. 28 from 1 to 4 p.m.

Ron Sanders and the NOVO Folk Dance Company will begin the afternoon with an International Dance Show followed by audience participation led by Sanders. Andy Robinson will complete the afternoon with a children's discotheque. Admission includes free balloons. Homemade refreshments will be available. Children must be accompanied by an adult. Everyone is asked to wear a colorful costume.

The School of the New Moon, now in its fourth year, offers a nursery and early elementary school program. The recently constructed facilities include an octagonal open classroom structure, goat barn, pond, vegetable garden and playing field set on a wooded mountainside in Wittenberg.

Arrests, No Jail

Jack Williamson, proprietor of a stationery store on Broadway, will be appearing in court for the third time in less than two years when he answers charges of promoting prostitution.

Previously he had pleaded guilty to obscenity for selling pornographic materials in his store and had been convicted of unlawfully selling a machine gun.

If this same store proprietor is found guilty on this latest charge, he should not escape so easily. If convicted, he should receive the maximum jail term the law allows and should pay a heavy fine. The charge is only a misdemeanor but in our opinion, this alleged misdemeanor was despicable and against all the elements of a society which has seen such a drastic change in the past several years on the subjects of pornography and sex, both in the movies and on television.

If, as sources claim, there were as many as 15 women involved in this prostitution ring in the Kingston area, authorities should make a thorough investigation and clean up this vice before it takes a foothold in our city and county.

Prostitution, obscenity and the illegal sale of machine guns. If the new charge comes out the same as the other two — guilty — the defendant should not be let off with just a fine or suspended sentence. There are some who say that even jail would be too nice of a punishment.

Flu and the Tests

Dear Editor:

With many people coming down with the Flu each year, the trend will continue each time with more and more strange symptoms.

At the U.S. Army laboratories, they are experimenting in germ warfare where by they have learned how to pollinate and cross breed germs of both the two and four-footed animals.

Whether the germs are released on purpose to learn their effect I don't know. It could be accidental and beyond control. Be as it may, one of these days they could solve the overpopulation problem via the hoof and mouth disease.

Yours truly,

Disturbing MCPL Facts

Dear Editor:

The Sons of The American Revolution are an influential, patriotic group of Americans. They are interested in preserving the things their fathers fought to win, the things that have made America the foremost nation of the world, the things that have led America to do more to help other nations than any other country ever dreamed of doing.

Their Saguaro Chapter of the SAL at Sun City, Arizona, has a very interesting letter—letter No. 18. Following is an important quote from it.

"In recent years there is a little-herd-of organization calling itself Members of Congress for Peace through Law (MCPL). It has become a powerful force in the legislative branch of the federal government. The following facts about the MCPL are disturbing and should receive the widest possible publicity.

1. Purpose: In addition to ultra-liberal legislation, the MCPL advocates and works for, "... general and complete disarmament (of the United States) under forceable world law ..."

2. Members: As of September 1975, the MCPL boast of having 35 Senators (35 per cent) and 137 Representatives (31.2 per cent) as members of their organization. That is 172 U.S. Congressmen—32.1 per cent of the Legislative branch of our government. The MCPL committee and staff activities are considerable and effective.

3. Funding: Here is the "rip-off!" Quoting again from the MCPL Report of September 1975, "... we have run so low on funds ... we have to resort to ... asking various House members to take MCPL staffers onto their payrolls ..."

Probably not illegal, but close to treason. So, now we know how some of the money Congressmen voted themselves recently will be used. There are at least two things the man-in-the-street can do about the MCPL.

1. Vote out of office congressmen belonging to it and
2. Demand of their individual congressmen that they join with others to cleanse the Congress of the United States before it is too late."

Third Party System

Dear Editor:

In the medical profession, when there is an unfamiliar germ causing havoc; the germ is isolated and part of the disease (germ) is utilized in preparing the antidote.

After prohibition, our government opened regulated liquor stores; and only those lacking maturity continue to abuse. What is important is that the majority of us were not deprived of our glass of wine at dinner.

Our politicians are being dictatorially condemned for accepting 'favors', at a time when we are suffering the consequences. That life-style became part of our mores—as is the attitude of cheating on income tax returns. "Because everyone is doing it," HAD become the quote of the times—UNTIL WATERGATE—thus making abuse no longer seem wrong.

Up until the time that Richard Nixon devalued our American Dollar there was still balance in the world.

Lowering taxes depletes the funds that we so desperately need as computerization requires less and less manpower.

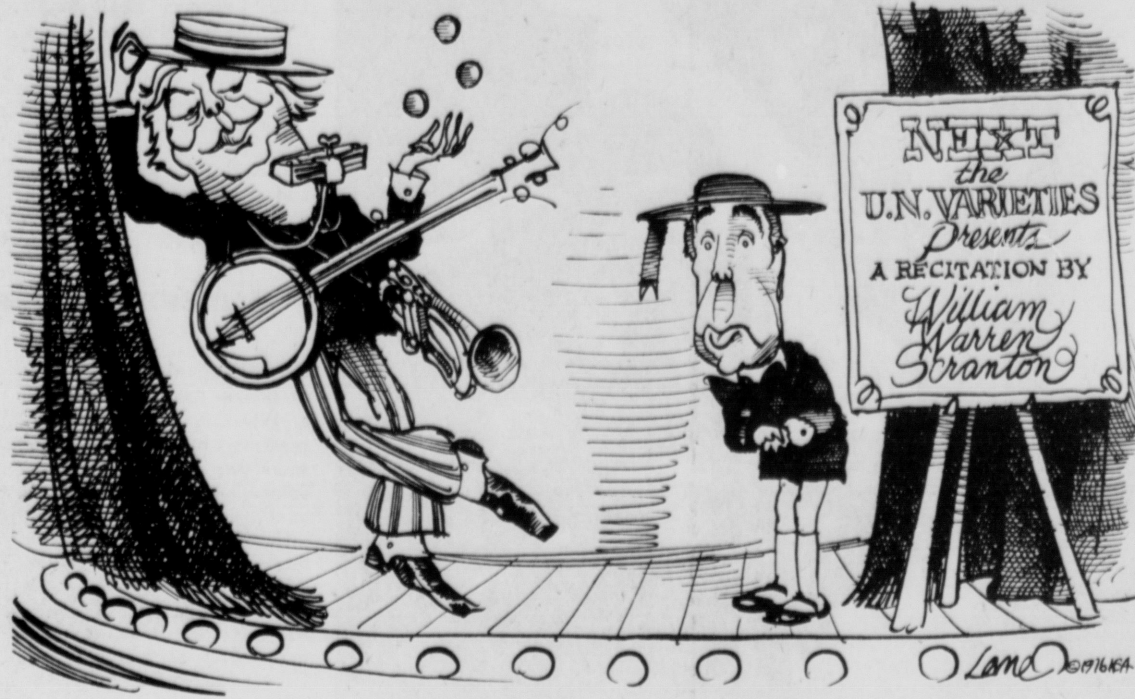

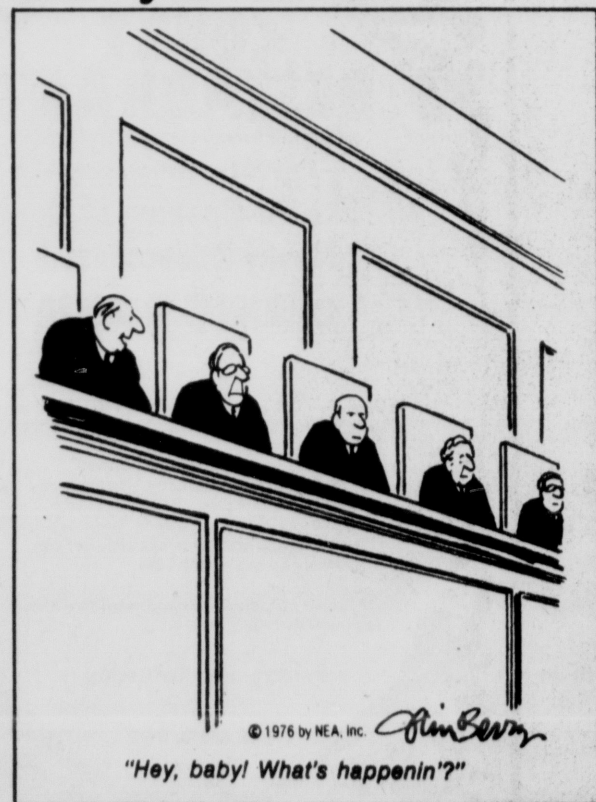

There has to be a better way of setting up a One World Government than the violent revolution that is being programmed on the streets of Our America, and in so many other countries in the world today. Remember Richard Nixon's "State of the World message!"

I refuse to believe that a 3rd party system like the American Heritage Party cannot be born NOW and thus draft some realism into Our Government that is being engulfed in non-realistic decay. Surely there must be one among us that is the right individual capable of being constructive with Our America. Progress has always grown out of extending beyond the accepted limits constructively.

Somewhere in the many translations, 'Thou shalt NOT abuse' was misinterpreted. Respectfully yours,
Philip Gurrieri

IRS May Declare Hughes Dead

WASHINGTON—Howard R. Hughes, the phantom billionaire, has been out of public sight for so long the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) may move to declare him legally dead.

Several federal agents, who have followed Hughes' movements, believe he is dead. As far back as Feb. 18, 1972, one agent declared in a speculative memo:

"It is my belief that Howard Hughes died in Las Vegas in 1970 and that key officials in charge of running his empire concealed this fact at the time in order to prevent a catastrophic dissolution of his holdings."

The memo suggests that a "double" could easily have been substituted for the real Howard Hughes, since almost no one outside the reclusive's inner circle has seen him in years. "The double no doubt has been schooled in Hughes' speech, mannerisms and eccentricities," the memo conjectures.

A pattern of "complete isolation" was established, with "only a few trusted servants" having direct access to Hughes, note the memo. The next step, it suggests, was to move the supposed impostor "to a friendly foreign country." This would be necessary, in the agent's opinion, "to obviate the possibility of a government intrusion by search warrant."

The danger of exposing the masquerade would have lessened adds the memo, "with the passage of time and the double's isolation from any outsiders who knew the real Hughes."

This scenario has not been dismissed in Washington as complete fantasy. Other government investigators also suspect that the eccentric billionaire may be dead, although they lack conclusive proof that he is either dead or alive.

Spokesmen for the $2 billion Hughes financial empire call the speculation preposterous. They contend that the elusive Hughes is quite alive, sound in both body and mind. He is now residing they say, at the Princess Hotel in Acapulco.

The government has a deep interest in Hughes' welfare. If he had departed this world unannounced, someone owes the Treasury tens of millions of dollars in estate taxes. Those responsible for the hoax would also be subject to prosecution.

For them, too, the stakes would be high. As the memo points out: "The power and financial benefits inuring to any group in control of a $2 billion empire are manifest. The opportunities for the siphoning off of hundreds of millions of dollars are also obvious."

Alarmed over this possibility, House Monetary Affairs Chairman Ben Rosenthal, D-N.Y., has privately urged the IRS "to determine whether Howard Hughes still exists."

The IRS is reluctant to compel a showdown with Hughes without "reasonable" evidence of fraud. But if the billionaire refused to meet personally with IRS agents to prove he is alive, a case could be made to declare him legally dead.

Our associate Bob Owens has spent several weeks, meanwhile, tracing Hughes' movements during the past six years. Here are the key findings:

—Sheriff Ralph Lamb investigated Hughes' sudden disappearance from Las Vegas on Thanksgiving eve 1970. The investigation led to Dr. Harold L. Feikes, who had been summoned to Hughes' penthouse the previous month to give him blood transfusions. The doctor warned that if Hughes had been taken anywhere except an intensive care unit, his life could be in danger, the sheriff to us. Feikes refused to comment.

—At the time Hughes left Las Vegas, he had seen no one outside his tight personal circle for more than a decade. During the next several months, a man purporting to be Hughes met face-to-face with a half-dozen outsiders. The first was Turner B. Shelton, then the U.S. ambassador to Nicaragua, who described Hughes as "about six feet, three inches tall, very thin, weighing from 140-150 pounds, with graying hair and wearing a neatly trimmed Van Dyke type beard."

—The last known visitors to call on Hughes were Nevada's Gov. Mike O'Callaghan and Gaming Board Chairman Phil Hanniflin. They also described him as tall, thin and graybearded and found him to be fully alert. The meeting took place in London in March 1973. No outsiders have visited him since that date, so far as we have been able to learn.

—Hughes has been able to travel from country to country without a valid passport. He reportedly lost his passport during the 1972 earthquake in Managua. His aides tried to obtain a replacement without submitting an up-to-date photo of Hughes. But this arrangement was refused by Passport Director Frances Knight.

—In September 1972, Hughes met with New York stockbroker Julie Sedlmayr and attorney I. Courtney Ivey about a stock deal. Significantly, the Securities and Exchange Commission demanded proof that Hughes was really alive. The two men filed affidavits about the meeting and a Treasury handwriting expert authenticated Hughes' signature on the stock documents. Sedlmayr and Ivey told us Hughes was mentally alert.

—Despite his fabulous wealth, Hughes had managed to get off without paying federal incomes taxes year after year. Sources with access to his returns tell us however, that once in the 1960s he was stuck with a $7 million tax liability. We have established that in some years, at least, Hughes didn't sign his own tax returns.

There is more to the Howard Hughes story, which we'll report in future columns.

The Health of Statesmen . . . III

The 1976 candidates, with one exception, enjoy good health. Most of the aspirants convinced their physicians to make the findings public. Others—Edmund Muskie, Ted Kennedy and Nelson Rockefeller—refused the information on the grounds that they are not candidates.

The only campaigner to decline the invitation of Editor Howard Cohn of "Medical World News" was Governor George Wallace. His doctor, Henry Hutchinson of Montgomery, Alabama, agreed to be interviewed.

BIRCH BAYH, 48: Extensive tests display vigorous health. The Senator has two small masses in left pectoral area, "smaller than last year." Has functionally systolic heart murmur.

Bayh has had a small node in right lung since 1967. Physicians report "it is no threat to your health at this time."

ROBERT BYRD, 58: Takes Maalox at bedtime for inactive duodenal ulcer. Avoids eating raw onions and beans. Suffers borderline glaucoma.

At a recent examination, the Senator evinced tremor. Doctors recommended sherry before meals. His habit is occasional beer and four cigars a day.

JIMMY CARTER, 51: Had difficulty swallowing. Found to be allergic to hops, beans, Swiss cheese. Slightly enlarged prostate. Cholesterol is in normal range at 239 mg per cent. Choking spells have stopped.

FRANK CHURCH, 51: Normal, as is true of the others, with few exceptions. Suffers multiple minor skin growths. Triglycerides slightly elevated at 159. Insignificant diverticulosis.

The Senator enjoys rich foods, displays small elevation of uric acid. Rectal polyp removed surgically. Weight 175. Physician advises "weight control."

FRED HARRIS, 45: As a teenager, suffered gunshot wound in leg while hunting. In law school, developed ulcer. At 5 feet, 9 inches, he weighs 198. Except for "significant weight problem," Harris is normal.

HUBERT HUMPHREY, 64: As a "non-candidate," he sent an informal medical report. Medical checkup two years ago revealed pinhead tumor in bladder. Had X-ray treatments. Cystoscopic examination at Bethesda and biopsy have since proved negative.

HENRY M. JACKSON, 63: Kidney stone removed surgically a year ago. Had pneumonia in 1945 and 1951. Has chronic nasal stuffiness; is known to be allergic to adhesive tape, strawberries, eggs, plated gold and wool. Had one-tenth of right kidney removed. Tests negative.

EUGENE MCCARTHY, 58: His doctor says "he is a very healthy man." Did not publish detailed results of examination. His father died at 98.

RONALD REAGAN, 65: Does well in medical tests. Has asymptomatic hiatus hernia, diverticula of the colon. Is chronically myopic, uses contact lens.

MILTON SHAPP, 63: Slight elevation of triglycerides to 196 mg per cent. Once suffered from gallstones. Otherwise, normally healthy.

SARGEANT SHRIVER, 60: Extensive tests, normal results. In October 1973, he was discovered to have leukoplakia on lower lip and underside of his tongue. Leukoplakia can be a precursor of cancer cells. Had it removed surgically. No recurrence.

MORRIS UDALL, 53: Has a glass eye. Had meningitis as a child. Had pneumonia last summer. Has apical systolic murmur of heart. Had skin cancer removed in 1975. His doctor says his health is "excellent."

GEORGE WALLACE, 56: Paraplegic, shot by assassin May 15, 1972. Spinal cord severed at first lumbar vertebra. Has sustained four major operations, several minor ones. Wears hearing aid. Sustained successive urinary tract infections, broke a leg last year.

Takes a powerful pain killer, Tegretol, three times a day. Smokes cigars, does not drink alcohol. Had prostate removed to relieve bladder obstruction.

He is incontinent, wears catheter on leg for collection of urine. Chronic depression has dissipated somewhat.

GERALD FORD, 62: Robust health. Has chronic trouble with knees. Lost 16 pounds since becoming President. Had hemorrhoidal surgery. His aides feel that publicized stumbles, head-bumping accidents, etc., "are all due to some alleged neurological problem."

After the extensive medical examination, Ford announced happily, "It proves I'm fit to be President."

Au Revoir, New Hampshire

WASHINGTON—As the sun sinks slowly into the west, we bid farewell to the lovely state of New Hampshire, graveyard of presidential dreams and land of broken political promises.

New Hampshire, you are the mother of all primaries, and the nation is now a safer place knowing where each and every one of you stands on abortion, busing, gun control, detente, unemployment, tax rebates and Social Security, not to mention the Democratic and Republican candidates who crisscrossed your cold and Loeb-infested land.

What would we do without you, New Hampshire? How could we possibly get the ball rolling in the presidential Super Bowl if you didn't exist?

Every night the rest of us gathered in our living rooms, glued to our television sets, and watched your state in all its glory. By now we know every slushy street in Manchester, every leafless tree in Crawford's Notch, every snow-capped hill in Concord. We never saw so many people chopping firewood in our lives.

Yes, New Hampshire, we know more about you than anyone ever thought he'd want to know. We know you have rugged independent people who speak their minds whether they're interviewed on ABC, CBS, NBC or public television. We've seen them in your supermarkets, your general stores, your gas stations and in your town halls, offering sage opinions on everything from Angola to the Lockheed bribe scandals.

The mystery is how people in New Hampshire had a chance to read about Angola or watch the news about Lockheed when they had to spend so much time talking to TV correspondents and newspapermen. The question that ran through all our minds as we watched you, New Hampshire, is: "When did your people sleep?" If they weren't attending a political rally, they were being polled by Harris and Gallup; and if they weren't being polled by Harris and Gallup, their phones were ringing all night long with calls from every campaign worker in the state.

The wonder of it all is how your citizens could keep a straight face when the greatest politicians of our land grasped their hands and promised each and every one of them a rose garden.

Oh, what a show you put on, New Hampshire! It was better than Howard Cosell Live on Saturday Night; it was better than the Muhammad Ali fight from Puerto Rico; it was better than a Miss Teen-Age America beauty pageant.

You won our hearts, if not our minds, New Hampshire. As Theodore White will undoubtedly write in "The Making of the President 1976": "It all started in January when ( ) ( ) stepped out of his station wagon into the snow-covered road of Keene, N.H., a road that would eventually lead him to the White House."

And so it's time to bid "au revoir" to you, New Hampshire. We'd love to watch you for the rest of the winter and spring. But we've got to move on to Massachusetts and Florida and West Virginia, wherever the primaries will take us.

I guess we won't see anything of you for the next four years. But keep chopping that wood and keep those home fires burning with copies of the Manchester Union. New Hampshire, you may be forgotten, but you're not gone.

In 1980 we'll all be back again: the TV correspondents, the newspaper columnists, the pollsters, the campaign workers and, of course, the candidates telling everyone what a great people you have produced and what a wonderful thing it is to talk to real Americans.

I know it's going to be lonesome up there now with no one to talk to. Yet someone might come back in November just to see how your people voted in the national elections.

But I wouldn't count on it. New Hampshire, you may be the mother of primaries, but as a factor in the election, you have as much clout as North Dakota.

Gallup Poll

Many for Nationwide Primary

By George Gallup

PRINCETON, N.J.

With the New Hampshire primary marking the beginning of the nation's long and tortuous process of selecting the presidential nominees, attention again focuses on the idea of a nationwide primary election.

In the latest Gallup Poll, 7 voters in 10 (68 per cent) say they would favor a plan which would replace the many state races with a single national primary, allowing voters in all 50 states to choose the nominees by direct popular vote.

The present primary system has been under attack recently by critics who see it as a haphazard and inconclusive way of choosing nominees. One of the staunchest proponents of a national presidential primary has been Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, who recently urged that the present system be changed to allow the American people to choose their presidential candidates directly.

Some students of politics who favor such a change believe the results of a nationwide primary election should be merely advisory, with the party convention continuing to have the right to make the final selection.

The proposal for a nationwide primary election has had the backing of the American public for nearly a quarter-century. As early as February 1952 the Gallup Poll found Americans supporting such a plan by an overwhelming 6-to-1 margin. Each of five national surveys conducted since that time has shown a heavy majority in favor of the plan.

In all surveys, including the latest, the plan has had bipartisan backing. Currently, 71 per cent of Democrats, 65 per cent of Republicans, and 69 per cent of independents vote in favor of the nationwide presidential primary plan.

Support of this plan is also recorded in each of the four major regions of the nation.

Here is the question: "It has been suggested that presidential candidates be chosen by the voters in a nationwide primary election instead of by political party conventions as at present. Would you favor or oppose this?"

Here are the results, nationwide and by political affiliation and region:

	Favor Pct.	Oppose Pct.	No Opinion Pct.
National.....	68	21	11
Republicans.....	65	26	9
Democrats.....	71	19	10

Independents.....	69	19	12
East.....	67	22	11
Midwest.....	67	22	11
South.....	68	19	13
West.....	74	21	5

The chief arguments given by students of the American political process who favor the idea of a nationwide presidential primary are:

- Under the present system, many Americans are denied the opportunity to vote directly for the candidate of their choice.

- Primaries frequently do not give a true measure of a party's strongest candidate because not all candidates enter each primary.

- The American people become jaded with presidential campaigns, which stretch over the better part of a year, from March to November. Surveys have found the public to favor shorter campaigns, such as those conducted in England.

- Political party conventions often in the past have been dominated by local party "pros" who pay little attention to the results of the vote in state primaries.

- Primaries are a grueling process leaving the candidates physically exhausted and their funds depleted.

- Crossover voting confuses the true support for candidates. In certain states, for example, Republican voters are able to vote in Democratic primaries and Democratic voters in Republican primaries.

Those who express opposition to the idea of a nationwide presidential primary offer these arguments:

- Under the present system a candidate has to face up to many trying situations—his mettle is tested—and the public can size him up better.

- Political conventions are better able to come up with compromise candidates and to see that candidates supported by minority factions get considered for the national ticket.

- The most frequently voiced criticism of a national primary has been the cost involved in conducting two and possibly three national campaigns—the national primary, possibly a run-off, and a general election. Others point to the possibility of voter fatigue.

The survey findings reported today are based on 1,570 adults, 18 and older, interviewed in person in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation during the period Jan. 30-Feb. 2.

Inside Supersecret Debriefing

Let's assume that Henry Kissinger conducts a supersecret debriefing of ex-President Nixon after the latter's return from China. Here is how it might go:

"Hello, Henry. It's good to see you again."

"Hello, Mr. Pres. . . I'm sorry. I mean. . ."

That's all right, Henry. We're friends. Go right ahead and call me Mr. President."

"All right. Well, how did it go? What did you find out in China?"

"They couldn't have been nicer, Henry. Receptions, tours, talks, banquets, ballets, parades — the whole thing. When they host an official state visit they really do it well."

It wasn't an official state visit, Mr. President."

"I was treated virtually as a head of state, Henry. Even the New York Times said so. I have the clipping right here."

"What I would like to know, Mr. President, is whether you learned anything new while you were there."

"Well, the truth is, Henry,

that they aren't at all happy with our foreign policy. They think detente with the Soviet Union is dangerous.

By the way, Chairman Mao gave me a message to deliver to President Ford."

"You can give it to me."

"No, Mao said this message was to be delivered by me personally."

"Impossible. I'd better explain that President Ford was quite unhappy about your speech in China criticizing his foreign policy. It made big headlines here just before the New Hampshire primary."

"Oh, really? I'm sorry. You know how it is, Henry. You forget about American politics when you're abroad. You get caught up in all those receptions, tours, talks, banquets, ballets, parades, and the rest of the trappings of an official state visit."

"IT WAS NOT AN OFFICIAL STATE VISIT!"

"The New York Times said. . ."

"I don't care what the New York Times said! I want to know what message Mao wanted relayed to the President."

"I'll tell you, but Mao wouldn't be happy. Also, it's embarrassing because it involves you."

"Me? How?"

"Mao doesn't want you as Secretary of State, Henry. He says you've sold out to the Soviet Union. He wants someone else — or else."

"Or else what?"

"He says they've developed some pretty big firecrackers in China."

"Did he say who he wanted instead?" Kissinger asks with narrowed eyes.

"He said they wouldn't accept anyone but me."

"That's what I thought. Well, frankly, I don't believe it. And neither will President Ford — the man who pardoned you for all crimes committed during your administration."

"Mao feared this sort of re-education," Nixon says. "That's why he decided to invite Governor Reagan as his guest this summer."

An Ancient Chinese Tactic

TOKYO (UPI) — People who wondered what Richard Nixon would do after Watergate finally have an answer.

Chinese leaders have given the former president a new political role as their unofficial spokesman to certain types of powerful Americans outside the government.

It is a tactic China often has used before in its relations with America, and especially with Japan.

That is the reason for Nixon's trip to Peking. Agreement certainly had been reached between Nixon and the Chinese before he ever left San Clemente Feb. 21. His astute daughter, Julie Nixon Eisenhower, doubtless was one of the go-betweens.

The nine-day tour of China is the first step in Nixon's new role. He went there to be launched as a certified China expert in the eyes of Americans.

Nixon probably will not be explaining China to ordinary Americans. Their feelings about Watergate rule that out. He will be talking to high level businessmen, China research experts, and opinion makers. Among people like this he can be effective.

Nixon certainly will be expert enough to impress anybody when he goes home Feb. 29. What American besides Nixon will have spent long hours in the company of the new acting Chinese premier, Hua Kuofeng?

Aside from Nixon's own daughter and her husband, he will be the only American to enjoy an exclusive interview with Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung since China's latest political shakeup.

He appears to have upstaged President Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger who spent hours last autumn cultivating Teng Hsiao-peng, then acting premier. Now Teng is out in the cold.

Ford and Kissinger also talked to Mao, who obviously didn't tell them everything. Their own intelligence people apparently were caught flat-footed by the latest Peking power struggle.

In the past, some very interesting people have played the type of role Nixon has assumed.

The late journalist Edgar Snow was the liaison man of the late Chinese Premier Chou En-lai to Americans interested in China in the 1950s and 1960s. Chou gave Snow exclusive interviews, and let him gather information on the closed Chinese nation that others could not get. This guaranteed wide sale of Snow's books.

Former French Culture Minister Andre Malreaux played a role as liaison man to European intellectuals.

The tactic was developed most fully in Japan in the 1960s, when Chou was trying to win Japanese diplomatic recognition. When the late Prime Minister Eisaku Sato stayed stubbornly loyal to the anti-Communist Chinese regime on Taiwan, Chou bypassed him.

An Oxford educated Japanese nobleman, Prince Kinkazu Saionji, became Peking's spokesman—unofficial but authoritative—to Japanese news media and intellectuals.

Aiichiro Fujiyama, a sugar magnate and conservative member of parliament, was chosen to tell China's story to the Japanese business community.

They tilled the ground so well that when Nixon began his detente policy with China in 1972, Japan dropped Taiwan and switched recognition to the Communist government in Peking.

None of these people advocated communism for their own countries, and certainly neither does Nixon. They only argued the need for closer relations with China.

Your Heart Association Can Help

IF you are a club member, an employer, a church member or a person interested in public health, and you want to conduct a blood pressure screening, your Heart Chapter can help.

According to statistics 15,000 people in Ulster County have high blood pressure, 7,500 know it, and only half of these are receiving adequate treatment. Are you or your child one of those who do not know?

IF you are interested in attending a Free Blood pressure screening for the Public, please consider the following. Post 1219 American Legion in Tillson will be conducting a screening on Saturday, February 28, 1976 from 1:00 P.M. to 4:00 P.M. This is being sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary.

IF you are a victim or related to a victim of stroke, you have to learn a new way to live in the world. Your Heart Chapter can supply you with an excellent booklet and put you in touch with the nearest Post-Stroke Rehabilitation group.

IF you are a physician, the Heart Association supplies information on the best and latest drugs and techniques for detection and treatment of cardiovascular disease.

Too Good to Be True?

LBJ's Farewell . . . But to Wrong Troops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The paratroopers roundly cursed the President while their generals sweated out a "farewell" charade in North Carolina eight years ago when the Army hoodwinked Lyndon Baines Johnson.

The Armed Forces Journal has finally told the story and an Army spokesman confirmed the basic facts Thursday.

Johnson, the Journal said, stood hand over heart and teary-eyed at Pope Air Force Base, N.C., on Feb. 17, 1968, watching what he thought was a planeload of gung-ho 82nd Airborne Division troops take off for a destination he thought was Vietnam.

Inside the plane, the Journal says, the stunned and furious troops — a group just back from Vietnam — were screaming things like, "you double-crossing . . . !"

At a nearby picnic ground, unknown to Johnson, the real Vietnam-bound bunch was getting drunk at a farewell beer bust.

Johnson, the Journal says, bade farewell to the wrong

troops — a battle-weary contingent hastily substituted for the partying unit by generals who wanted to keep both Johnson and the departing GIs happy.

After the President departed, the plane brought the angry soldiers back to base. The designated group left quietly the next day for Vietnam.

Drop All Charges Against Attica 10

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — State Supreme Court Justice Frank R. Bayger, commenting that "there can be no useful purpose served by continuing," has dismissed all charges against 10 former Attica prison inmates who had been accused of kidnapping guards during the nation's bloodiest prison riot in 1971.

Bayger's decision Thursday followed a motion to dismiss the charges "in the interests of justice" by chief Attica prosecutor Alfred J. Scotti.

Another State Supreme Court Justice, Carman F. Ball, took under advisement Scotti's request to dismiss charges against three other inmates and the only state trooper indicted in connection with the uprising which claimed 43 lives. Thirty nine died when state troopers and correction officers stormed the prison on Sept. 13, 1971.

"Personally I am not at all sure that justice will be accomplished by the granting of this motion," said Bayger. "However, in view of the unique prosecutorial responsibility associated with the Attica investigation, there can be no useful purpose served by continuing."

In seeking the dismissals of all but one pending indictment, Scotti harshly criticized the state's investigation of the rebellion.

"There is one standard of justice for all," the special deputy attorney general said.

"The name 'Attica' should be a symbol, not only of riot and death, but also of the capacity of our system of criminal justice to redress its wrongs," Scotti said in an eight-page statement, which included an attack on the state's investigation of the riot and the prosecution effort.

Work Detail in Olive

SHOKAN
The benefits and effects of the Town of Olive's work release program — where public assistance recipients are put to work on public works projects — will be the major topic at an "informational discussion" prior to Tuesday's town board meeting.

Olive was one of the first townships to introduce the work release program. When a person receives a welfare check, he or she is required to work for the town, at the minimum wage, until the amount of the welfare check is "earned."

The program, however, apparently isn't as smooth running as it sounds. One difficulty is that a person who receives public assistance must be a resident for a certain period of time before he or she can be required to work for the township. In other areas where the program has been implemented, officials have found that some welfare recipients move from town to town to avoid the work detail.

Olive is one of the few towns in Ulster County that has implemented the program. By comparison, the work release program has been implemented on a county-wide basis in Dutchess County. Olive officials have recommended that Ulster County do the same in order to improve efficiency and establish some continuity between individual towns.

Discussion at Tuesday's meeting will deal both with the overall benefits of the program, as well as its economic impact on the town.

The discussion period will begin at 7:30 p.m., followed immediately by the town board meeting. The new format is intended to give town officials an opportunity to explain specific programs and ideas outside the structured framework of the town meeting, and to give residents an opportunity to offer their ideas and suggestions.

Two other topics will be discussed before Tuesday's board meeting: whether there is enough interest to warrant scheduling of a public hearing on a proposal that would allow snowmobiles to travel on town roads; and a central telephone system for town police, fire and ambulance emergencies.

The meeting will be held at the American Legion Hall in Shokan.

New Rates in Hurley

HURLEY
The Hurley Town Board has set new rates for use of the landfill by commercial trash collectors.

The new rates are $10 for the first truck to use the landfill each day, plus $2 for each additional truck. The board granted a permit to Art Sperl and Sons and Ulster County Sanitation to use the disposal area, but only for trash collected in the Town of Hurley.

The board also named Peter Naccarato, superintendent of highways, to the additional post of landfill supervisor effective Feb. 23 and extending through Dec. 31, 1976.

Chester Schramm of DeWitt

Mills Road was named to the zoning board of appeals to fulfill the unexpired term of Edwin Davie.

The board accepted a letter of resignation from Edward R. Dunn of West Hurley, who leaves the town planning board after 17 years. Supervisor Raymond "Jake" Crosswell thanked him on behalf of the board for his service.

Mrs. Bonnie Westhoff of

West Hurley was reappointed to the planning board for a three year term ending Feb. 28, 1979.

The board took action to alleviate a dangerous traffic situation at Wall Street and Route 28 in West Hurley voting to hire a special constable to direct traffic there when school buses are operating.

The board's next regular meeting will be at the West Hurley Firehouse on Monday, March 29, beginning at 8 p.m.

Saugerties Man Is Indicted for Knife Assault

KINGSTON
A young Saugerties man was indicted Thursday by the January term Ulster Grand Jury for first degree assault for an alleged knife attack on a 43-year-old woman New Year's Eve in the parking lot at Simmons Plaza in Saugerties.

Terrance X. Carney, 23, of Hilltop Apartments, was named in the one-count felony indictment handed up to Supreme Court Justice Robert C. Williams.

In detailing the incident, police said the victim, whose name has not been released, was leaving a store when a young man, later identified as Carney, asked her for a ride. When the victim refused, Carney allegedly slashed her on the face and neck with a linoleum knife, authorities said. It took 43 stitches to close the woman's wounds.

Carney was arrested Jan. 3 after being picked out of a lineup. Police said the linoleum knife, which was left at the scene of the attack when Carney fled, had his name scratched on the handle.

Others named in indictment handed up Thursday were:

- Moodey Snider, 21, of Bethpage, L.I., indicted on one count each of first degree rape and first degree sodomy in connection with an alleged sexual attack on a State University College at New Paltz coed last November.
- Snider was arrested Nov. 17 by state police BCI investigators several hours after the attack when the victim, who was riding with investigators, spotted him walking on Main Street in New Paltz and identified him as her assailant.

Nyquist Dismayed
ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The state education commissioner, while "dismayed" by an unprecedented court battle with the State University, insists he and the Board of Regents have the final word on SUNY's curriculum.

Commissioner Ewald B. Nyquist said Thursday he was "dismayed" at a decision by the State University trustees to fight his order terminating two PhD programs at the Albany campus because of their "low quality."

Although the dispute directly involves only the history and English doctoral programs at one campus, it also involves a fundamental question: Who has jurisdiction over SUNY's academic programs — the university or the Board of Regents and Nyquist?

Nyquist told a news conference after the Regents' monthly meeting that he and the Regents were willing to continue discussions with SUNY over ways to improve the two programs so they could be restored.

The commissioner also said he expected to issue integration orders for schools in Buffalo and Utica in March, to be effective this September.

"I will get a show cause order out in March," he said of Buffalo. "Precisely what day I can't say." He said the "same thing" applies to Utica schools.

Police said the victim had been hitchhiking earlier in the day when Snider offered her a ride and then allegedly stopped the car, held a knife or scredriver to her throat, and forced her to commit sexual acts.

• George Lamoreaux Jr., 17, of 71-A Wrentham Street, Kingston, indicted on one count each of second degree burglary and second degree grand larceny in connection with the December 6, 1975 theft of a coin collection valued at an estimated $35,000 from a Town of Saugerties resident. The coins were recovered by the Kingston Police Department.

The grand jury dismissed the following charges:

- A first degree reckless endangerment charge against Ernest H. Martin, 67, of West Camp, in connection with an alleged shooting incident last October.
- A first degree assault charge against Raymond Hanaburgh, 21, of Palisades Park, N.J., in connection with a stabbing last August, in Rosendale. Kavanagh explained that the Ulster County Sheriff's Department was unable to locate the victim of the stabbing, Larry Wasdyke, 20, of Fairlawn, N.J., resulting in the dismissal. He said the case could be presented to the grand jury again should Wasdyke be located.
- A first degree robbery charge against Linwood Spearman, 35, of Newburgh, in connection with an armed holdup last September at the New Paltz Shop-Rite store.
- A criminally negligent homicide charge against Johnny H. Pollard, 48, of Newburgh, in connection with a fatal auto accident Nov. 20, 1975 in the Town of Marlboro in which Richard Beruk, 15, of Milton died.
- A bigamy charge against Frank Pascariello, Jr., of New Windsor. The charge had been lodged by a Marlboro resident last October after Pascariello married the man's daughter.

The grand jury requested that the following cases be transferred to lower courts:

- A charge of third degree assault against Russell Kaegler, 43, of Milton, in connection with an incident Jan. 7 in the Town of Marlboro.
- A charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle against Mikel Wardlow of Ellenville.
- A charge of seventh degree criminal possession of a controlled substance against Norman Hagan, 23, of Oak Ridge Road, Ellenville.

Police said the victim had been hitchhiking earlier in the day when Snider offered her a ride and then allegedly stopped the car, held a knife or scredriver to her throat, and forced her to commit sexual acts.

Nicklaus Ties Marti In Delayed Round

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus birdied one of the two first-round holes he had to finish up this morning, after play was suspended because of darkness Thursday night, and moved into a tie with Fred Marti at 66 for the lead in the Tournament Players Golf Championship.

Nicklaus completed 16 holes when play was halted. First round competition had been suspended for nearly an hour and a half earlier Thursday because of rain.

When play was stopped, Nicklaus, the pre-tournament favorite, was a stroke behind

Marti who shot a six-under par 66 in the opening round of this $300,000 tournament.

Thirty-three of the 144 golfers in the field were still on the par 72 Inverary Course when play was ended for the day.

Don January, Tom Watson and J.C. Snead finished with 67s Thursday.

Nicklaus took last week off the tour to work on his game and get a little more familiar with a new set of clubs he is using this year.

"I wanted to get that club situation straightened out once and for all and I think I did," said golf's all-time leading money winner.

"For this early in the year, my game's not in too bad a shape," he said. "It's pretty good, actually."

Nicklaus, still looking for his first win of the year, said another reason he skipped the Los Angeles Open was because he wanted to be ready for this event just in case it eventually becomes a major tournament.

"Only time will tell whether it will become a major, but when it does, I'd like to have three or four wins already on the record," said the Golden Bear, who won the first TPC in Atlanta two years ago.

Marti never has won in 12 years on the tour and admitted he was "lucky" to shoot his 31-35-66.

"Every time I hit a bad shot, it landed where I could recover," he said. "And my putts were going in the middle of the hole—they weren't even going in the sides."

He said after he shot the 31, "I was anxious to play. I felt like I could bury them all."

Marti said he couldn't afford to worry about Nicklaus taking his lead away from him in the final two holes.

"I don't much worry about Nicklaus—it's quite evident he's going to play well," said the 35-year-old veteran.

"I don't think he's worried about me, so I'm going to have to worry about myself and go out and play as well as I can," Marti said.

Marti had five birdies and no bogeys for his 31, playing the back nine first. Then he ran into trouble in the trees on the No. 2 hole and shot a bogey six.

He then hit putts of 18 and 15 feet for birdies on the par-3 third and par-4 seventh for his 66.

The round was delayed by rain for an hour and a half in the morning, causing the problem with darkness later in the day.

The rain kept scores up in the morning and the only lead among the morning starters were January. Two shots behind Marti at four-under-par 68 were Ed Sneed, rookie George Burns, John Mahaffey and Phoenix Open winner Bob Gilder, another rookie.

The Lonesome Wait

The uniforms are neatly hung waiting for Spring training to start at Montreal Expos training camp at Daytona Beach but the baseball players are nowhere to be seen. Harvey Stuns, clubhouse manager, for the Expos waits—and waits—for the arrival of the team. (UPI)

Bob Short Denies the Rumors

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bob Short, flat on his back in a Minneapolis hospital, says he should know better and not be so upset.

What has Short's blood boiling past the breaking point is a report that he and his partner—Bob Lurie—are having problems agreeing on terms to purchase the San Francisco Giants and they will be unable to complete the deal by next Monday's deadline.

"Those reports at the least are grossly exaggerated and at the extreme untrue," Short said. "What we have here are people with their finger in the mix. Well, I've got news for them, we will have our work done by Monday and we will wind up with a satisfactory agreement."

"I'm not exactly ecstatic over some of the conditions laid down by the National League, but I can live with them and so can Bob. We've talked about this before and we will talk about it again. There are some minor hangups but I don't see any that will prevent us from completing the purchase."

One of the hangups, reportedly, was a demand by the National League that Lurie have controlling interest in the club and be the Giants representative at league meetings.

"I heard that report," said Short. "If it's true then I stand on what I said—'bull'—But I don't believe that's what they said. Anyway, Bob and I are in perfect agreement on how we want to run the club. Look, we assume we are buying one-twelfth of the league and not the whole league and we should be allowed to make our own decisions."

Short said he had reports that ticket sales in San Francisco are brisk and there is a renewed interest in the team.

"The way I hear they are selling tickets, there is no way I am going to back out now," he laughed.

Lurie, who spent most of Thursday discussing the purchase with Short, agreed with his partner that there are no problems they can't handle.

"I see no reason why we can't take care of our business to everyone's satisfaction by next Monday," Lurie said.

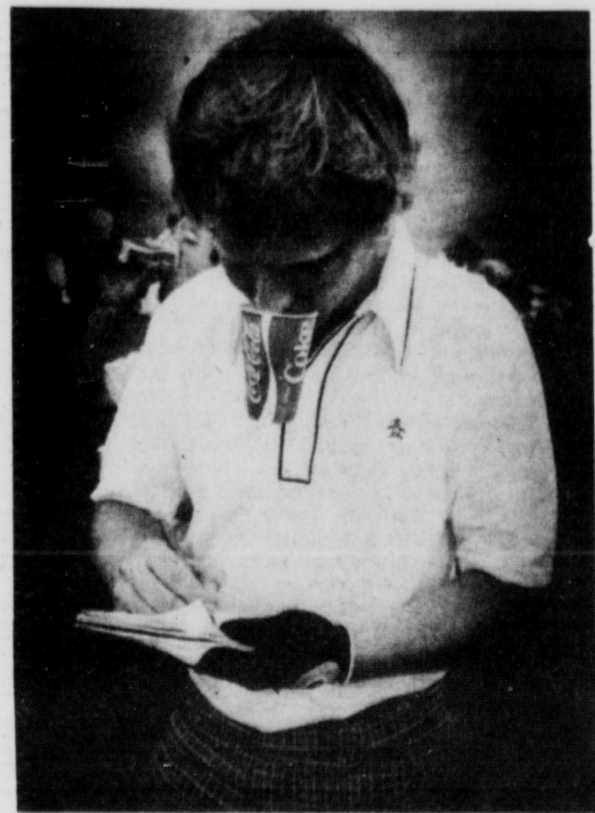

Short did not want to talk about any plans for the Giants beyond Monday.

"We'll have a number of announcements to make later," he said. Reports persisted in San Francisco that Bill Rigney will be named team manager as soon as Short and Lurie complete the purchase. Rigney has made no bones of the fact he would like to manage the team again. He was the Giants skipper when the club moved West from New York in 1958 but was fired in June 1970 with the team only four games out of first place.

"This is a young and exciting team and I would like the opportunity to manage it," said Rigney. "I think these kids could take the Dodgers and give the Red Sox a good run for their money. At the most this team is only a year away from a World Series, and I'd like to be around for that."

Meanwhile, Art Schulze, Giants' ticket manager, said he expects season ticket sales to reach 6,000. The club sold only 2,000 season tickets last year.

"It's exciting around here again," said Schulze. "The phone never stops ringing. It's been a lot of years since we had this kind of enthusiasm."

MARTI CHECKS HIS CARD

Van Raps Technical

By UPI

The New Orleans Jazz, a young team in search of its first National Basketball Association playoff berth, had dropped a not-so-close decision, but all Coach Bill van Breda Kolff wanted to discuss was the technical foul his club drew for playing zone defense.

"All of a sudden, we're playing a zone defense," he fumed Thursday night after the Washington Bullets' 118-108 victory. "After 58 games, we get a warning and then a technical. I guess they didn't do the same thing after they got called for it, referring to the fact that referee Bob Rakel also warned the Bullets but didn't call a technical."

Bullets Coach K.C. Jones said it was the first time he'd ever seen a zone called.

"But there have been warnings all over the place," he said. Nobody else had much to say on the matter.

Phoenix defeated Atlanta 115-97 in the only other pro basketball game Thursday night.

Phil Chenier hit 9-of-13 shots for 26 points to pace the Bullets, now a game behind first-place Cleveland in the Central Division. Wes Unseld, Dave Bing and Leonard Robinson added 17 each.

Maravich shot the Jazz to a 33-28 first quarter lead but the Bullets, led by Bing and Elvin Hayes, forged a 57-50 halftime lead. New Orleans cut the margin to 77-75 with 2:01 left in the third period. A close goaltending call on Jazz center Otto Moore gave the Bullets a four-point lead, then Bing made it five by converting a free throw when van Breda Kolff drew a technical, and the Jazz never again threatened.

"We were in the halfgame until that call," van Breda Kolff said. "My technical didn't serve its purpose."

Rookie Ricky Sobers scored a career high 27 points, set a team record with seven steals and also had seven assists for Phoenix, which scored its eighth win in 12 games. John Drew scored 32 points and Lou Hudson had 23 for Atlanta, which suffered its fourth straight loss on the road.

Rene Robert Happy Re 'French Connection'

By UPI

Rene Robert, for one, is happy the French Connection is back together again—and he celebrated the reunion Thursday night by scoring two goals in the Buffalo Sabres' 5-2 National Hockey League victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

"It's nice to be back together," Robert said. "You play with two guys for four years and all of a sudden they split us up—it's kind of tough. If you're proud of yourself as a hockey player it has to hurt your feelings a bit."

The Connection—Gil Perreault, Rick Martin and Robert—must have hurt Toronto goalie Wayne Thomas' feelings. They took part in four of five Sabre goals.

Perreault got his 33rd goal and added three assists, and Martin, while he didn't score, set up Robert's first goal with a pass from the blue line.

Martin, who was taken off the line Dec. 7, said there was no problem getting used to the other two.

"Things went well. We played together for four years and you get to know where everybody on the ice is. It was no problem," he said.

While pleased with the reunion, Robert feels it's not necessarily going to make life easier for the trio.

"I think there's more pressure now than ever before," he said. "You've got to push a little harder."

The Maple Leafs really have no one to blame but themselves for the reunion celebration at their expense. It was Buffalo's 6-4 loss in Toronto last Saturday that just about convinced Smith to bring the trio back together.

"When you're losing, you just can't stand pat," Smith said.

The Sabres broke to a quick 3-0 lead in the first 10 minutes as Peter McNab, Danny Gare and Robert scored. Gare's goal came on a power play while working with the Connection.

Boston defeated St. Louis 4-2, Philadelphia beat Minnesota 3-2, Detroit and California tied 1-1, the New York Islanders tied Kansas City 2-2 and Chicago dumped Los Angeles 6-2 in other National Hockey League games. Houston defeated New England 5-2 in the only World Hockey Association game.

Bruins 4, Blues 2

Jean Ratelle, Don Marcotte and Ken Hodge scored in the first period to send Boston on its way to a victory over St. Louis that extended their unbeaten streak to eight. Gregg Sheppard clinched the win with four seconds left by scoring into an empty net. It was the seventh straight road loss for the Blues.

Flyers 3, North Stars 2
Second-period goals by Reggie Leach, Larry Goodenough and Bill Barber lifted Philadelphia past Minnesota in a game enlivened by a 40-minute free-for-all during that session. The win gave the Flyers a 9-0-5 record over their last 14 games. Philadelphia outshot the North Stars 38-19.

Red Wings 1, Seals 1

Bill Hogaboam scored at 7:40 of the third period, earning Detroit its tie with California. The Seals took a 1-0 lead with 12:41 gone in the second period on Gary Sabourin's rebound goal.

Islanders 2, Scouts 2

Loren Henning scored at 7:19 of the third period as the Islanders rallied for their tie with Kansas City. Randy Roda and Gary Croteau scored to give the Scouts a 2-0 lead but New York narrowed the deficit to a goal when Bob Nystrom scored early in the third period.

Black Hawks 6, Kings 2

Dennis Hull blasted in two goals from long range and Pit Martin had three assists as Chicago presented Billy Reay with his 500th victory as Black Hawk coach in a win over Los Angeles. The triumph solidified Chicago's hold on first in the Smythe Division, where it leads Vancouver by eight points.

WHA

Rich Preston, Gordon Labossiere, Frank Hughes, Andre Hinse and Gordie Howe scored to lead Houston past New England. Fred O'Donnell and Tom Webster scored for the Whalers.

BILL VEECK MAKES A POINT

Ted Beahm Defeated

STONE RIDGE

The word from the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) Wrestling Championships in Worthington, Minn., is that Ulster Community's crack 167-pounder Ted Beahm is still alive.

Beahm, who compiled a 10-2 record during the regular season and went on to capture the Region XV title, scored a pin in the first round of the Nationals Thursday night, pinning Bob Nolan of Miami-Dade in Miami, Florida, in 2:29.

Roy Rozelle, regional champion from Northern Oklahoma Community College, then scored a 15-7 decision over Beahm in what Ulster Coach Tom Coddington described as "a very rugged match." It was a flip-flop affair but points went against Ted in the takedowns.

"Ted did an excellent job against Nolan," the UCCC coach explained. "It was probably his finest performance of the season."

"If Beahm's conqueror, Rozelle, advances to the finals, Beahm will be eligible to compete in the wrestle-backs. "Rated off his match with Ted, I think Rozelle can do it," said Coddington.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bill Veeck found a loophole in the major league's ban on spring training camps, so the Chicago White Sox will open training camp on schedule.

But it won't be the usual kind of camp. To conform to the major league agreement, Veeck can't bring in any player on the White Sox roster.

So Manager Paul Richards and coaches will work with 23 players from the farm system plus two newcomer veterans of the major leagues who have not signed contracts.

They are Cleon Jones, once with the New York Mets, and Bob Oliver, late of the New York Yankees and Pittsburgh Pirates.

Veeck's action was taken in righteous wrath at the major league decision to keep training camps closed until an agreement is reached with the Players Association.

Earlier he said he would hold a camp regardless of the decision. Thus he was saving face by opening camp, and staying legal by keeping White Sox players out of it.

"We were threatened with penalties," he said. "Much as it grieves me to say so, I'm turning tail and running."

"It isn't the spring training I have envisioned. It isn't what I had in mind, but it is the best I can do."

"I have researched the subject enough to know there are a lot of very unpleasant things they could do, from fines to suspensions to even lifting the franchise. So the penalties are just too great for me to take a chance on it."

Veeck said his camp would not violate the owners agreement, and American League President Lee MacPhail agreed.

"As long as Veeck doesn't have anybody from his 40 man roster in camp, he is not breaking any rule," MacPhail said.

Most other major league teams reacted to Veeck's decision with the attitude that "it's his business." None of them planned to follow suit.

There was doubt that the Sox early training camp would benefit the team, although Veeck hoped some of his youngsters in camp, or Jones or Oliver, would show enough to warrant transfer to the Sox roster.

The early training, Veeck said, will give the players a chance to "show their wares, their ability," and increase their chance to make the Sox. Also, it will give Richards and Veeck a chance to look over players new to them.

Veeck indicated some bitterness toward the other major league owners, saying, "Unity seems to be only when I do what they want. That's expensive unity, but I am ending up doing what they want."

The camp will open with 10 pitchers, three catchers, seven infielders and five outfielders

Ulster Routs Nassau; Ray Younger Hits 43

STONE RIDGE

Ulster County Community College won't be top-seeded in the Region XV basketball championships which it hosts starting next Thursday in the Senate Gym. But, if you like to play a respectable long shot, you might put a couple on Coach Mike Perry's redhot Senators.

With Ray Younger, Walt Bellamy and Joe McCall combining for fantastic shooting and free throw performance, the Senators crushed highly regarded Nassau Community Thursday night 113-87.

Ulster's 14th victory in 24 decisions and their second straight 100-plus point total.

Younger, the sensational former Ellenville High ace, racked up 43 points, only four below Jumpin' Joe Uhl's all-time UCCC record of 47. He connected for 16 baskets and a perfect 11-for-11 from the free throw line.

Bellamy was runnerup with 32 points, with 12 of 13 from the foul line and McCall hit 21 points, seven of 10 on free throw conversions, as the Senators converted 31 of 37.

"Younger is just too much,"

said Coach Perry in describing. "He is quick and never stops and draws foul all over the place. Sometimes I can't believe he's for real."

For Perry's sake, he had better be real. He'll be back for the 1976-77 campaign.

Perry pointed out that Ulster's 60-point first half was one of the best in several years and the 31 for 37 accuracy from the free throw line, "just about as well as we have ever done in that department."

Nassau rallied to tie Ulster 53-53 in the second half but by that time Ulster was coasting.

Leon Ware was the other Ulsterite in double figures with 11 points.

Bill Harris led the Nassau squad with 20 points. Broderick added 17 and Isley 14.

"Our speed forced Nassau into all those fouls," Perry explained. "They simply couldn't keep up with Younger primarily and Bellamy and McCall."

Bellamy played all 40 minutes of the game against Nassau. In racking up 37 points earlier in the week, McCall sat out 13 minutes of the contest.

Ulster closes out its regular schedule Saturday at 2 p.m. against the Oneonta State College Jayvees.

Seedings for the Region XV Tournament will be announced Sunday. In addition to host Ulster, the competing teams will be: Farmingdale (17-7), Fashion Institute (20-4), Westchester (26-3-), Staten Island (20-3), Kingsborough (12-8), New York City (15-7) and Manhattan (10-7).

Coach Ralph Arietta's Westchester Wescos who swept through the Mid-Hudson Conference undefeated and are nationally ranked are the odds on favorites to win the championship.

But, the way Ulster is going right now, it's pretty hard to bet against them.

Area Sports Briefs

Hodas Gains in Golden Gloves

NEW YORK

Eddie Hodas of the Huguenot Boxing Club remained alive in Golden Gloves competition by scoring a decision over Patrick Brown of the PAL in a 160-pound sub-novice bout.

Hodas now advances to the quarter-finals. In other action, Alfie Bevier lost a decision to Paul Smith of the Empire Sport Club, and Joe LaForte of Huguenot a heavyweight, was taken out in the second round by defending champ Earlous Tripp, unattached.

Saugerties LL Registration

SAUGERTIES

Saugerties Little League will hold registration for the 1976 baseball and softball seasons on Saturdays March 6 and 13 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Barclay Heights.

All boys and girls registering must have proof of age and birth date between August 1, 1963 through July 31, 1968. The programs available this season will include a Grasshopper League for eight year olds; 10 major and 12 minor league teams for baseball; a Cricket League for eight year olds, six major and eight minor league teams for softball.

A new senior softball league will be added to the Little League program for girls ages 13 through 15 whose birth dates are between August 1, 1960 through July 31, 1963. This program was organized by the Saugerties Athletic Association as the Colleen League last year. All girls interested in participating again as well as those who want to join this year must register on the above dates.

New Paltz Sign-up Dates

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz Baseball Association, Inc., will hold registration for the 1976 baseball and softball seasons for boys and girls of the New Paltz School District at the Middle School.

Schedule for registration: Saturday, Feb. 28, 1 to 4 p.m.; Sunday, Feb. 29, 1 to 4 p.m.; Tuesday, March 2, 7 to 9 p.m.; Wednesday, March 3, 7 to 9 p.m.

Boys must be between the ages of eight and 17 and girls must be between 10 and 17, all prior to August 1, 1976. All interested youngsters must register, even if previously registered in the league. A parent or guardian must sign the application form and all first-time applicants must bring a birth certificate. Registration fee is $5.

Adult volunteers for managing, coaching, scorekeeping, umpiring, and secretarial work are needed. Contact John Fillette, 255-8031.

Douglas, Caragher Reach 20

MILLBROOK

Dave Douglas and Brian Caragher each scored their 20th goals of the season in recent Dutchess Youth Hockey League play.

Douglas had three goals for the Pee Wees in a 4-3 win over Kent and losses of 8-1 to Troy and 3-2 to Pawling. Caragher, a member of the Squirt team, tallied his 20th in a 3-1 victory over Pawling.

SAA Night of Champions

SAUGERTIES

The semi-annual SAA Night of Champions will be held at 3 p.m., Sunday, March 21 at the Flamingo Restaurant.

To be honored at this 10th such SAA function will be the champions and individual leaders of the soccer, girls' volleyball, men's volleyball, winter half-court, biddy, junior, Sawyer, and Premier leagues.

Also on the program will be presentation of the Lawrence M. Cahill Award to a Saugerties High School senior for outstanding service to the Athletic Department.

This year's event will be a "mixer" rather than a banquet. Ticket prices have been lowered to $2. All SAA champions, participants, and the general public are urged to attend. Tickets are available from the following SAA officers: Fritz Becker, Jack Keeley, Karl Lezette, Bill Meiswinkel, Tim Murphy, Jack Naccarato, and Joan Zuckerman. Those planning to attend are asked to make reservations or purchase tickets at least a week in advance. Reservations may be made through Joan Zuckerman at 246-4586.

Rainone Leads Competition

NORTH EASTON

Gregg Rainone, 13, skiing for Highmount Ski Center, continued to lead the competition in the under-14 Class III and IV racing circuit last weekend by dominating the Eastern New York Divisional Championships at Willard Mt.

Rainone captured a first and a second in Saturday's slalom competition and streaked to a pair of giant slalom victories on Sunday. He thus earned the top spot in the Eastern New York team.

Rainone went to Willard ranked first on the 15 member Rip Van Winkle Ski Council's boys team. He was one of seven boys on the squad who, along with top ranked Robin Heidt of Scotch Valley, qualified for the Eastern NY team.

Other qualifiers were Bill DeTuriis of Hunter who placed fifth, Larry Danner (14th) and Eddie Levine (22nd), also of Hunter, John Messina (21st) and Charles Carrigan (25th) of Scotch Valley, and Steve Harbauer (20th) of Windham.

There are 25 boys and ten girls on the Eastern NY team. Heidt, as the RVW Council's top girl was an automatic selection.

This weekend the Eastern NY team will be a Greek Peak for the state championships at which a New York team of 20 boys and 12 girls will be selected to compete in the ESA Western Regionals. The regionals will be held at Windham March 6 and 7, and the regional team chosen will compete at the ESA championships at Waterville Valley, N.H.

End of Line Arrives For Some Area Cagers

KINGSTON

Tonight marks the end of the road for more than one high school basketball team. While the DCSL has one more set of games to play, the UCAL campaign will close for all those teams not involved in post-season play.

The DCSL slate shows Kingston at home to Ketcham, Poughkeepsie visiting Saugerties, Beacon at Spackenkill, Arlington at Lourdes and John Jay at Roosevelt. In the UCAL, Ellenville is at Highland, Coleman visits Poughkeepsie, Liberty goes to Marlboro, Red Hook is at Onteora, Pine Bush is at New Paltz and Wallkill is at Rondout.

Kingston will be treading cautiously against the invading Indians. Tuesday night's big victory over Poughkeepsie will have the Tigers primed for a letdown, but with the league title still in doubt KHS can afford no slips.

Deadlocked at 13-3 with Beacon for first place, the Tigers know a Beacon loss to Spackenkill is unlikely at best so they'll have to hold up their end by running their home court win streak to 16 games.

Ketcham was a KHS victim earlier in the year, but the Indians have changed their style since that game. RCK has gone with a youth movement, and the sophs have picked up the Ketcham scoring pace considerably.

The UCAL Division II games are academic — Liberty has already wrapped up that race, but the story in Division I is different. Red Hook and Rondout currently share the lead with 9-6 marks and neither has any intentions of letting the other back into the championship game opposite Liberty.

Red Hook and RVC switched the opponents they beat on Tuesday, and both will be favored to notch victory No. 10. The Raiders, the defending divisional champs, stifled Walkill's attack with an effective defense and won by 27 points Tuesday. Onteora, though, has size and an unpredictable character on its home court, so the game could be closer than Red Hook would like.

Rondout took the other route and hit the 100 point mark for the first time this year to whip OCS. That achievement, along with the home court advantage and the lure of the playoffs, should keep the Ganders riding high.

Section One Pairings

KINGSTON

The Dutchess County Scholastic League will send a contingent of 13 schools to this year's Section One basketball tournament which opens first round action on Wednesday.

Kingston High, which drew a fifth seed in the Class AA bracket, will open its quest for a title at home against New Rochelle. Sixth seed Roosevelt of Hyde Park, ninth seed John Jay and 11th seed Arlington are the other DCSL clubs in the double-A bracket.

Beacon and Poughkeepsie, seeded second and third respectively, represent the league in Class A. Both squads drew a first round bye and will begin quarterfinal play Friday night at Dutchess CC.

In Class B, Spackenkill is rated 11th and Lourdes is ranked last in the field of 13 teams. The Spartans will open at Pleasantville while the Warriors will go to JFK Somers for first round matchups.

Five Bi-Valley Conference teams are in the Class C competition with conference champ Pawling gaining the No. 1 seeding and a first round bye. Rhinebeck is seeded third and will open at home against No. 14 Pine Plains. Dover is ranked sixth and will host Briarcliff in the first round, and Webutuck, which opens at Bronxville, is seeded tenth.

Quarterfinal games will be played Friday and Saturday at Dutchess CC, Westchester CC, Concordia College and Iona College.

Grin and Bear It

Why would anyone want to wrestle a 643-lb., 8-3 opponent who hasn't lost in 10,000 matches? "For excitement," says bear trainer George Allen. He expects about a dozen Bay Area hardys to try their skills with Victor, the only Alaskan Brown Bear ever trained to "rassle." Here, Jim Coreas, Cherry Hill, N.J. tries his luck during a recent match on a tour which brings Victor to the Northern Calif. Recreational Vehicle, Sports & Vacation Show at Oakland Arena.

Nets Capture SAA Junior

The Nets completed a perfect season by surviving two overtimes to beat the Pistons, 58-57, for the championship of the SAA Junior Basketball League.

Trailing 32-24 going into the fourth period, the Nets rode a 15 point stanza by Chris Wilson to tie the score at 47 and send the game into overtime. A three point play by Wilson with 10 seconds to go evened the score.

The teams split 12 points in the first overtime, the Nets finally coming out on top at the end of the second extra session.

Wilson led the Nets with 32 points and 17 rebounds. Mark Sinnott had nine points and grabbed 19 cars.

High man for the game was the Pistons' Mark Edmunds, who tallied 34 points. Dave

Kime canned 15 points and snared 10 rebounds and Anthony Cashara picked off 15 rebounds.

DENNIS, who reside at the Town of Pleasant Valley, N.Y., have lately applied to the Surrogate's Court of the County of Ulster to have a certain instrument in writing, relating to both real and personal property, duly proved as the last Will and Testament of Leonard Ferris, deceased, who was at the time of his death a resident of the Town of LaGrange, in the County of Dutchess; THEREFORE, you and each of you are cited to show cause before the Surrogate's Court of the County of Dutchess, at the City of Poughkeepsie in said County on the 15th day of March, at the time of the hearing of said cause, why the said instrument in writing should not be admitted to probate as a Will of real and personal property.
MCCABE &amp; MACK, 42 Catherine St., Poughkeepsie, N.Y. 12602 In Testimony Whereof, We have caused the said Surrogate's Court to be hereto affixed Witness, HON. Raymond C. Barratta, Surrogate of said County at the City of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., this 2nd day of February, in the year of our Lord One Thousand nine hundred and seventy-six. FRED J. ADAMS Chief Clerk of the Surrogate's Court
NOTICE: This citation is served upon you as required by law, but you are not obliged to appear in person unless you wish to file objections to the probate of the Will. You may have an attorney-at-law appear for you.
AN ORDINANCE AMENDING AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, NEW YORK. WHEREAS, the City of Kingston has been constructed within the City of Kingston, New York, over the years a variety of fences, division lines and barriers between private properties within the City of Kingston, New York, and the public streets and thoroughfares thereof and between adjoining lands and properties within said City, all or part of which are composed of barbed-wire; and
WHEREAS, it is found by this Body that such fences, division lines and barriers so constructed have been and will continue to be sources of danger to innocent persons coming into contact with same and resulting in serious consequential injuries to person and property; and
WHEREAS, this Body also finds that for purposes of security, it is manifestly proper and necessary under appropriate auspices and restrictions to authorize the erecting of certain fences, division lines and barriers as against intruders, trespassers and other persons seeking to gain access and entry into such property without the consent of the owner or owners thereof.
NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED, by the Common Council of the City of Kingston, New York, as follows:
SECTION 1. From and after the date of effectiveness hereof, no person, persons, firms, associations or corporations shall erect, construct, erect or reconstruct any fence, division line or barrier between and along any public street, highway or sidewalk in the City of Kingston, New York, or between adjoining properties which fences, division lines or barriers are less than six (6) feet in height and provided further that any barbed-wire used thereon shall be only at the top thereof and shall face inward to the property so fenced in and any other use of barbed-wire for any such similar purpose be and the same hereby is forbidden. Any and all planned erections, construction or reconstruction as aforementioned shall be subject to the prior approval of the Zoning Board of Appeals which is hereby authorized to impose reasonable restrictions and limitations thereon.
SECTION 2. Any fence, division line or barrier containing barbed-wire as hereinabove described which shall not conform to the foregoing shall be brought into compliance therewith not later than six (6) months following the effective date of this Ordinance.
SECTION 3. Each violation of this Ordinance or any portion thereof shall subject the owner, operator or person in overall charge of the premises in question to prosecution as and for a Class "B" Misdemeanor and shall be subject to any and all penalties imposed by the Court and for such class of crime. Notwithstanding any of the foregoing, nothing herein contained shall prevent either the Municipality or any private property owner or private

For Saturday, Feb. 28, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Good fortune should accompany you and your associates today. Pick special friends to share your enterprises or activities.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may find the opportunity you've been looking for today to talk to someone who can advance your ambitious interests. Level with this person.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The good news you've been waiting for from loved ones may be coming today. If you leave home base, let others know where you can be reached.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Those who you have helped will be willing to reciprocate today. If you have any needs, don't go to an outsider.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Crowds aren't among the things you need to make you happy today. You need to be alone with one who enjoys you equally well.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Keep your priorities attuned to business or career today. Where others enjoy partying, you'll get a bigger bang out of making a buck.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The bright lights beckon today. If you're not invited to a party, get out somewhere with an admiring companion of the opposite sex.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Generally this appears to be a fortunate day for you, with the kind of an ending you hope for in either career or love.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're footloose and fancy free today. You have a tendency to enjoy one group for a while, then flit to another.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's possible that Lady Luck may deal you a few more trump cards today than she does others. If you sense the advantage, grab it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Things that affect you personally could be very profitable today. It's possible you could benefit by heeding a past, unpleasant lesson.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) An unusual situation today, whereby material benefits may come to you, could suddenly appear without your bidding or knowledge.

Feb. 28, 1976
You have often been kind and compassionate to others without thought of reward. This coming year your unselfish efforts could be repaid in a surprising, profitable way.

Jean Adams

By Jean Adams, Ph.D.

NO RESPONSE: (Q.) Back in 1967 I met a girl in the neighborhood. We got hooked to each other right away. The years went by and in late 1970 or early 1971 she moved. She said we couldn't keep going steady and I understood, but we told each other we'd keep in touch.

I haven't heard from her since. I wrote letters, I called over and over, and nothing happened. I've been trying to ask her if she has another boy friend but for some reason everything turns blank when I think of that. I'd like some suggestions. I'm 16 now. — Lonesome in Illinois

(A.) You had a very young and very good love. It lasted three years, which is quite a while. It is gone now. Chalk it off as a nice memory and turn your mind to other matters.

BEER JOINT: (Q.) Every day I go to this place down the road. (It is a beer joint.) There is a guy that goes down there. He is 19. He is not a big guy. He is a little guy. That's why I have a crush on him.

It seems that he likes me. He asked me how old I was. I said 13. He said "You are cool."

He stares at me all the time. My mama said age didn't matter, because my daddy is nine years older than she is. — Interested in South Carolina

(A.) In adult situations, what your mother said about age usually is correct. You are not an adult, though. You are 13. And you are in danger of getting into trouble.

Stay away from the place down the road and from the 19-year-old who stares at you and sweet-talks you.

Stiff Ulster Fine for the Wrong Garbage

By Tim Schuster

TOWN OF ULSTER
It could cost a guilty person $5,000 or six months in jail for bringing the wrong garbage to the Town of Ulster's one designated landfill site, according to a new law passed by elected town officials Thursday night.

"It's got some teeth in it," said Supervisor Carmine Sabino at the preceding public hearing, referring to the law, and not the garbage. The largest tooth is directed at those professional collectors who might haul in a load of "outside" trash, defined as "any garbage, rubbish, or other articles originating elsewhere than in the Town of Ulster."

A few collectors questioned provisions of the new law at the sparsely attended hearing, but there were no loud voices raised in protest against most provisions of the law.

Sabino admitted there is still some dumping at the Ulster Landfill site of outside trash, by collectors, but there will soon be garbage pickers reviewing loads for evidence of abuse.

Basis of the generation of this law is some furor about Spada Trucking, which hauls City of Kingston trash, using the Ulster site.

Sabino noted prior to the hearing that the 45 acres used by Ulster has a life expectancy of "about 10 years," with hopes for new approaches to the problem on the line by then. Talks of a regional landfill site have "fallen by the wayside," he added.

Collectors will pay a flat $200 fee, good "for a lifetime," to the town for a permit, with another $100 if their business is to include regularly such large items as tires, refrigerators or stoves. Every resident will pay a $1 fee, also good for a lifetime, and will be issued a plastic ID card, Clerk Robert Morehouse said.

A resident asked if the new law would be enforced. "They didn't before," he claimed, saying that "there's cars running up there at 10 or 11 o'clock at night."

Sabino said, "We never had fees before; we never had fines before. This makes illegal dumping a misdemeanor . . . It's nothing to fool around with." The supervisor said the town had tried years before to close off the dump with chains and gates, but vandals had loosed their wrath on that setup and destroyed property. Without any gate now, "we find it much more orderly," he added.

Sabino was asked why the town pays a person $250 a year to get rid of junk cars through a depot when the town could probably sell them to area junk dealers and make money. The supervisor claimed that "government cannot compete with private enterprise" in recycling as efforts have shown recycling glass and paper in the town have not worked out. The depot for junk cars will be maintained as a service to residents, he said.

The maximum $5,000 fine is for violations of collectors of garbage, rubbish and waste materials. A maximum $500 fine is for violators licensed to deposit solid waste, such as refrigerators. A person or firm violating other provisions may be guilty of a misdemeanor and a $100 fine. All may lose their right to dump in the town.

Said a representative of Sperl and Son, Inc., collectors: "This fee will probably end up being added to the customer's cost. Is it really necessary?"

Answered Sabino, "I can't see a $200 lifetime cost necessary to raise fees. If you're in business for 10 years it's just $20 a year."

And a warning to potential violators: "There will be somebody there checking loads," the supervisor added.

Teenagers Are Arrested For Many Area Burglaries

KINGSTON
In unrelated cases, Kingston Police Department detectives on Thursday arrested four city teenagers on charges stemming from several Kingston burglaries and Hurley State Police arrested two Shandaken teenagers in connection with three burglaries in that township last week.

City detectives arrested James B. Mack, 18, of 17 Hone Street, two 15-year-olds and one 13-year-old, and charged them in connection with five incidents, three of which occurred last summer.

Mack was charged with three counts each of third degree burglary and petit larceny and one count of third degree criminal possession of stolen property. He was held for city court action. The juveniles will be petitioned into family court.

The arrests were made in connection with three burglaries last summer, including one in which extensive damage was done to an Island Dock building, a burglary last Monday at the Seven-Up Bottling Company building at 40 Bruyn Avenue in which a radio was reported taken, and the theft of some $500 from a locker at the YMCA building, 507 Broadway, on Feb. 7.

In Shandaken, Trooper Joseph Mikesch arrested a 16-year-old and a 15-year-old Thursday night in connection with burglaries at three Town of Shandaken summer residences last week.

Police Beat

Police said hunting and camping equipment was taken in the burglaries. The 16-year-old, who was not identified because he is eligible for youthful offender status, was released in the custody of his mother following arraignment. The juvenile will be petitioned into family court.

Escape

A Saugerties truck driver escaped serious injury early today in a car-tractor-trailer crash in Pennsylvania in which the driver of the car was killed.

Authorities said Harold Yetter, 48, of Saugerties was injured slightly in the crash but did not require hospitalization.

Killed in the crash on Route 209 in Bushkill, Pa., was Hector Rivera, 25, of Allentown, Pa. Troopers said he apparently lost control of his car and it crossed the roadway, striking the truck head-on.

Head-on Crash

A Kingston man was admitted to the intensive care unit at the Benedictine Hospital Thursday afternoon after sustaining injuries in a two-car head-on crash on Sawkill Road in the Town of Ulster.

The condition of the injured man, James Forster, 68, of RD 2, Box 41, Kingston was not available today.

State police said Forster was driving on Sawkill road at about 2:20 p.m. when a car operated by John Eccleston, 28, of Kingston crossed the centerline and collided head-on with Forster's car. Eccleston was ticketed for failure to keep right.

Both men were taken to Benedictine Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance. Eccleston was treated and released at the hospital.

Early

Mild temperatures this week have brought on the brush fire season early in Ulster County. Five fire departments were called out Thursday on brush fires.

$11,000 Share Tabled

KINGSTON
Ulster County Community Action Committee's present financial and internal mixups prompted the Ulster County Legislature Thursday night to postpone appropriating to UCCAC its $11,000 share of the $129,000 nutritional program for the elderly.

The move to table the matter until the legislature's March 11 meeting was made by Minority Leader Louis M. Klein, D-Dist. 6, and seconded by William R. West, R-Dist. 2, who alluded to UCCAC's present position as "ambiguity surrounded by confusion."

The community action committee is in the throes of unraveling developments regarding loans, composition of its board and determining its leadership.

Legislator Melvin Mones, R-City, who also serves as a county representative of the UCCAC board, said he feels it "will be some time" before the committee's problems will be solved. He described a recent meeting as "chaotic" and he doesn't think public funds should be channeled through UCCAC at this time.

Noting that the committee's nutritional program won't suffer in the interim, since it is also funded by the state, Mones said it was a good program and that he has nothing against it, only questioning UCCAC as a conduit for county funds.

It has been previously suggested that the county's Program for the Aging Committee study the nutritional program with an eye toward diverting the $11,000 in funds to the Ulster County Office for the Aging with the express purpose of having it conduct the program rather than UCCAC.

The legislature also agreed to approve bids for the renovation of the Ulster County Court House and old jail and to authorize the issuance of $276,000 in serial bonds and $15,000 in capital notes to pay for the cost of reconstructing the library at Ulster County Community College. The board agreed to hire architect Albert E. Milliken to prepare plans and specifications.

Authorization also was given for payment of $6,774, for work at the New Paltz Pool site, where drainage problems required additional funds.

We Offer $100 Reward

A new low in despicable acts has been visited upon the community. Sometime between Tuesday night and Wednesday morning of this week, a 30-pound fawn was taken from the Forsyth Zoo and slaughtered, apparently for the few pounds of meat its hind-quarters would provide.

What kind of depraved individual or individuals would stoop so low as to slaughter a defenseless animal? What idiot or idiots are running around on the loose in our community?

We at the Freeman are outraged

by this senseless act and therefore are offering a $100 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible. Anyone with information regarding this situation can call the Kingston Police Department at 331-1671.

It is almost incomprehensible to us that someone could have been that hungry as to have to slaughter this nearly domesticated animal for food. And, if this does prove to be the case, we should all take stock of ourselves and the system in which we live. There has got to be a better way.

THE WEAPON AND VICTIM (Freeman Photo)

New Twist to Fawn Case

KINGSTON The case of the theft of a seven-month-old fawn from Kingston's Forsyth Park Zoo earlier this week took on several new twists Thursday afternoon as the carcass of the 30-pound animal was discovered in a wooded area just beyond the zoo's outer fence by a Freeman photographer.

The fallow deer fawn had apparently been beaten on the head with a broken baseball bat and its two hind legs were missing, possibly taken for food.

The butchered carcass was discovered by Freeman photographer Robert Haines who had gone to the park shortly after 3 p.m. to take a picture of another slaughtered deer found in the park which was at first thought to be the fawn.

The remains of the first deer, now believed to be a wild white-tailed buck, were found earlier Thursday afternoon by zookeeper Robert Horvers. All that remained of the first deer were the decomposed head and the skin. A broken baseball bat with clumps of deer hair clinging to it was found nearby, and it was concluded that the remains were that of the fawn.

Haines, noting that the carcass he was to photograph was extensively decomposed, traced a trail of blood from the zoo's outer fence and found the fawn in a shallow hole beneath a piece of plywood.

"For all the work they went to, what they took off the fawn just doesn't make sense," Horvers said of the killing of the small animal.

Kingston Police Department detectives are investigating the incident.

UNION PICKETERS AT PROJECT SITE

By Jon Powers

TOWN OF WOODSTOCK

There is nothing particularly awesome or significant about Joy Bridge in the Town of Woodstock. Located off the main stream of traffic, its rusted iron girders arch unobtrusively over the Sawkill Creek. Below, the waters tumble over rocks and boulders in a picturesque, but not spectacular fashion.

But despite its rather ordinary stature, Joy Bridge has become, this week, something of a symbol for the pressures and frustrations of long months of unemployment and the prospect of even harder times ahead. While a small crew of men pour the concrete that will, by this summer, support a new bridge, a larger contingent of union members march angrily in protest.

The picket line was formed Tuesday; by Thursday, it had grown to 75 unemployed union workers. Union organizers say they'll expand their protest to the Phoenixia Bridge project next week, and continue picketing until both jobs are completed.

On one level, the Joy Bridge protest—reflects a basic issue in management-labor relations: the contractor—James Berardi of Kingston—is using nonunion labor, and the unions don't like that one bit. Beyond that, the protest becomes complicated by allegations of incompetency, conflict of interest and illegality.

There is nothing—no law, no statute, no policy—that requires Berardi to hire union labor. As a private businessman, he is entitled to employ those people he believes can perform the work most efficiently and most economically.

Union leaders acknowledge Berardi's legal right to hire whomever he chooses, but they argue that the contractor could show some compassion for tradesmen who are among the nation's most chronically unemployed.

They are equally upset with the Ulster County Legislature for awarding Berardi the contract in the first place. "We're all taxpayers too," said one member of the Ironworkers Local. "We have families to feed and clothes to buy and taxes to pay, but we can't get work because the politicians are hiring nonunion contractors."

Clarence Terpening, a representative for the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters, emphasized that the county isn't saving money by hiring nonunion labor. "The contractor is required to pay the prevailing wage, whether he's using union or nonunion help," he said, "and everyone is supposed to get the same benefits."

Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature, says the county has no choice. "State law requires that we award a contract to the lowest responsible bidder," he said. "That's required by the state, not the county." Berardi submitted a bid in January that was $8,000 lower than the nearest bidder and some $30,000 below original cost estimates for the project.

The union people, not unexpectedly, insist that they can do the job better; that they have a degree of training and experience that can't be matched by independent, nonunion laborers.

There are other issues involved, including one that particularly angers the union picketers. They charged Thursday that an employee of the Ulster County Highway Department—and a member of the Ulster County unit of the Civil Service Employees Association—was driving one of Berardi's trucks and crossing the union picket line. They also charge that county engineers are working on the bridge project.

CSEA president Thomas Phillips said he doubts the allegation is true. "Our policy has always been to honor another union's picket line, just as we would expect them to honor ours," he said, "but I will certainly look into it."

But the major issue for most of the union men is a personal one: it reflects the embarrassment of collecting unemployment insurance week in and week out, the frustration of amenities they cannot afford, the disappointment of family trips and vacations that must be postponed, the fear that they'll still be out of work when the money runs out altogether. Unemployment is big business in Ulster County these days and humble Joy Bridge, at least until something better comes along, has become its trademark.

Cambo Report 'Ridiculous'

BANGKOK, Thailand — Radio Phnom Penh said today a U.S. warplane killed at least 15 persons Wednesday in a bombing raid on the Cambodian town of Siem Reap.

A U.S. military spokesman in Bangkok said the "report is ridiculous and completely without truth."

In Washington, Maj. Duane Austin, duty officer at the Pentagon, said, "I have no word on anything like that. I am totally unaware of it."

SALISBURY, Rhodesia — A black nationalist leader says veteran British diplomat Lord Greenhill may change the course of deadlocked negotiations with Rhodesia's white minority government, but many blacks don't seem to think so.

Hundreds of black demonstrators streamed into Salisbury's central square Thursday, demanding Britain end its "interference" in current nationalist attempts to win majority rule in the former British colony.

The shouting but orderly demonstrators, most of them women and many with babies tied to their backs, waved placards condemning Greenhill's arrival earlier in the day.

Isabel Taking Off

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — President Isabel Peron has decided to leave the capital for a brief vacation after surviving a congressional move to impeach her. Opposition congressmen warned a military coup was imminent.

The presidential press office announced Mrs. Peron planned to leave today for a four-day vacation at the fashionable beach resort of Mar del Plata, 250 miles south of Buenos Aires.

Her departure comes 24 hours after Peronist congressmen pulled themselves together to defeat an impeachment motion introduced in the Chamber of Deputies by a small right-of-center party, the Popular Federalist Front.

The First Think Tank

NEW YORK — A multi-million dollar think tank for super scholars in the humanities will rise at Research Triangle Park in North Carolina, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences reported today in New York.

The National Humanities Center will open in 1978. Initial funding of $4.5 million has been obtained from corporations, foundations and the state of North Carolina.

The center will invite distinguished postdoctoral fellows in the humanities, plus government officials, journalists and writers, to tackle urgent problems facing society.

Yanks Head for Home

ATHENS, Greece — Two freed American government employees and their families left for Washington today without discussing any details of their four-month abduction by Lebanese guerrillas.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said Charles Gallagher and William Dykes, accompanied by their wives, four of Gallagher's children and two Gallagher family dogs, left on a commercial flight headed toward Rome and then the United States.

Raises For County

By Lynn Mulvaney

KINGSTON

Cost of living wage increases of $1.12 million were approved Thursday night for Ulster County employees as well as their bosses, retroactive to Jan. 1.

At a special meeting of the Ulster County Legislature, the board approved the pay boosts by a party line 17 to 7 vote with Republicans favoring the measure and Democrats against because they wanted additional time to discuss the raises for department heads. Seven legislators were absent and two abstained.

Initially the board planned to vote only on a seven per cent increase for employees but legislators were bombarded this week with letters from department heads seeking a similar cost of living increase.

It was Legislator Lester C. Elmendorf, R-Dist. 5, who moved to give department heads, other than elected officials, a seven per cent increase for those receiving $15,000 annually; six per cent for those earning between $15,000 and $25,000 and five per cent for those receiving $25,000 or more a year.

That amendment, although it passed, met considerable opposition from the Democrats, with John Dwyer, D-City, questioning whether it was in order and suggesting that action on it be delayed in view of the fact that seven members were absent.

The cost of living increases will cost the county $1,088,000 for the regular employees and an additional $41,000 for the department heads.

Majority Leader Ernest J. Gardner, R-Dist. 5, favored the raises for bosses saying that without increases for them, some would be earning less than people working under them.

While agreeing with the spirit of the proposals and the increases for employees, Minority Leader Louis M. Klein, D-Dist. 6, voted against the raises on the grounds that "time and time again" during budget discussions, he was not apprised of any intent to increase department heads' salaries this year. He felt an executive session to discuss the pay boosts was in order and he suggested that one appointee, June Davidson, assistant county clerk, would get a "double" increase.

'Loan Plot' Thickens

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON

The controversy surrounding the fiscal affairs of the Ulster County Community Action Committee took a new turn today with the announcement by UCCAC Board Chairman James Billups that he returned the $5,000 he borrowed for a mini-bike program on Sept. 10 last year, conflicting with previous reports that the money was returned in two installments, in November and December of 1975.

Billups originally borrowed the money on June 17. He told the Freeman today that he returned "the entire amount" on Sept. 10 and said he has receipts to back up his statement.

"I fulfilled my obligation," Billups said. He said he turned the money over to David Joseph on Sept. 10. He declined to comment on reports that the money did not reach UCCAC until November ($2,000 in small bills) and December ($3,000 by way of a cashier's check).

"You'll have to ask Dave about that," said Billups. Efforts today to reach Joseph, fired by the UCCAC board two months ago, proved futile.

UCCAC's finance officer, Mary Lou Rowland, wasn't available for comment either. Billups also said that there was no connection between IBM, the YMCA and the mini-bike program. "It was completely separate," he said. "It was never intended to be an IBM or YMCA program."

Billups said further that he did not tell UCCAC or Joseph that he needed the money to cover an incoming IBM grant although he allows that may have been Joseph's understanding of the situation. "We (he and Joseph) talked a lot about the IBM-sponsored program. I guess there was some connection with Dave," Billups said.

Billups said that the mini-bike program he planned last year "never got off the ground," that it was funded through "private sources" and that "there was no money spent" on it.

The YMCA's mini-bike program was started in 1972 by Billups and was made possible by the donation of 16 minibikes by the Honda Corporation.

(Legislature also tabled the $11,000 share for the UCCAC. Story on Page 18.)

Store Manager Indicted

By Matt Spireng

NEW PALTZ

The manager of a New Paltz tire store was named Thursday in a three-count felony indictment handed up by the January term Ulster County Grand Jury for his alleged involvement in the theft of a trailer and its contents from a Massachusetts freight terminal. The trailer and merchandise, valued at $100,000, were recovered Dec. 22 in Highland.

Indicted on two counts of first degree criminal possession of stolen property and one count of second degree grand larceny was Orlando ("Sonny") D'Esposito, 45, of Route 44/55, Clintondale, manager of Radial Ride Tire Inc., 87 North Chestnut Street, New Paltz.

D'Esposito was initially arrested Dec. 22 on one count of first degree criminal possession of stolen property following several days of around-the-clock surveillance by state police and FBI agents on the stolen trailer.

The trailer had been spotted five days previously parked near a vacant road stand just south of Highland off Route 9W. A computer check on the trailer showed it had been stolen sometime between Dec. 13 and 15 from the Pilot Freight Carriers Terminal in Seekonk, Mass., and surveillance was begun.

Two days later, police said, D'Esposito was observed removing items from the trailer and storing them in the road stand. Police continued surveillance for several days before arresting D'Esposito.

Authorities said the trailer contained small appliances, television sets, stereos, clothing and other items.

D'Esposito faced possible federal charges, but federal authorities said Thursday they have declined to prosecute in favor of action by the local authorities.

(Other indictments on Page 10.)

FLOYD PATTERSON

Patterson Is Named to Post

NEW PALTZ Gov. Hugh L. Carey has appointed former two-time heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, 41, of New Paltz to the State Athletic Commission.

The position carries no salary; Patterson will be paid $110 a day while on commission business. His term expires Dec. 31, 1979.

He is joined on the three-member commission by James A. Farley Jr., the chairman and son of former U.S. Postmaster James A. Farley, and Manuel A. Gonzalez of the Bronx.

Patterson, his wife and two daughters have lived in New Paltz for a number of years. He has been active in numerous civic affairs in Ulster County, usually dealing with youth. Patterson helps operate a boxing club in New Paltz sponsored by Americans Mobilized Against Narcotics Abuse.

It was almost 20 years ago (Nov. 30, 1956) that Patterson knocked out Archie Moore to become the youngest heavyweight champion in history. He lost the title to Ingemar Johansson in June of 1959 and became the first heavyweight in history to regain the title the following year when he KO'd Johansson. Patterson lost his crown to Sonny Liston in 1962. His last fight was against Muhammad Ali in 1972.

Democrats Taking Aim on Jimmy Carter's Candidacy

By UPI

Jimmy Carter's newly-won frontrunner status suddenly has made him a popular target on the Democratic campaign trail.

Birch Bayh claimed Thursday that Carter, the winner of Tuesday's New Hampshire primary, sounds more like a Republican than a Democrat, and Henry Jackson said it's time the public knew "the truth" about the former Georgia governor.

Meanwhile, Ronald Reagan stumped Florida for his March 9 showdown with President

Ford there, George Wallace told a Boston crowd the Democratic party is moving closer to the positions he took a decade ago, and Sargent Shriver, leaned on his Kennedy connections in Massachusetts.

Bayh, who finished third in New Hampshire, said in Boston he has "some very basic differences" with Carter.

"We don't need a Democrat running around the country peddling Republican principles," Bayh said. "No Democratic nominee can run in November nor can we long survive as a party if we talk and act like Republicans."

Jackson, making his first primary race of the campaign, told a Boston news conference he wasn't involved in any "stop Carter" movement but he added, "this is the 'beginning to get the public the truth movement' and if the shoe fits, so be it."

Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel said he and many other Democratic governors oppose Carter's candidacy and have misgivings about things Carter did while representing Georgia at national governors conferences.

"People who can judge you best are people who have served with you in other capacities," said Mandel.

Reagan told a predominantly elderly crowd of 10,000 in St. Petersburg that President Ford's proposals to keep Social Security healthy were a "band-aid" approach.

Lester Maddox, whom Carter succeeded as governor, said he wasn't surprised by Carter's New Hampshire showing. "The news media has Carter pegged as a moderate conservative," Maddox said,

"but this is all baloney."

Maddox promised more anti-Carter appearances similar to the one he made last week in Manchester, N.H., as a one-man "Maddox truth squad."

Reagan's Florida campaign manager, Tommy Thomas, who had been predicting a 2 to 1 "landslide" win for the Californian, lowered his estimate.

"I still say we'll win by a landslide," Thomas said.

"That's 55 per cent."

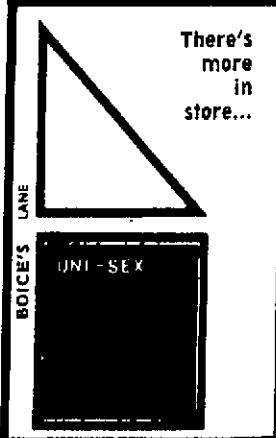

Wallace told a cheering crowd at Sutton, Mass., "when I came to Boston two weeks ago, I heard Mayor Kevin White saying what I had said 12 years ago."

Shriver, a brother-in-law of John F. Kennedy, said in New Bedford, Mass., he had felt close to Massachusetts for many years.

"A lot of these fellows are from Alabama and Georgia and a lot of other places," Shriver said. "It would be good to have someone in the White House who doesn't come here only every four years."

An "Askew '76 Committee" was formed by three Florida law school graduates, who registered it with the Federal Elections Commission to promote Florida Gov. Reubin Askew for the nomination. Askew has said he doesn't want to be president.

Doctor in Patty's Corner

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst thought of herself as an "outlaw" after she was forced by her kidnapers to help rob a bank, says a psychiatrist testifying in her defense.

Dr. Martin Orne said the newspaper heiress played the role of bank robber out of fear of the Symbionese Liberation Army, but following the holdup her captors convinced her she had become a "common criminal."

"She was forced to commit a crime she knew was a crime," he said. "She had reached a point in time where there was no way back, she was stuck with that role. And there was no one she could tell she was just playing the role."

As time went on, the role became "more and more real" and by the time of her capture last fall she was "frozen" in it, the psychiatrist said.

Orne, whose testimony set the stage for a battle between attorneys over the admissibility of lie detector test results favorable to Miss Hearst, left the stand late Thursday.

He was followed by Dr. Robert Jay Lifton of Yale, who had barely begun testifying when court recessed until today. Lifton is the last of the defense's three psychiatrists, but the prosecution plans to call two of its own to knock down the brainwash defense.

Orne, a University of Pennsylvania clinical psychiatrist, told the jury at Miss Hearst's bank robbery trial that her position in the SLA showed she was pretending when she converted to revolutionary violence.

"She was the only private in an army of generals," he said. "If she had really gone over to them, she would have insisted on a promotion. It doesn't make sense for her to remain a private."

Miss Hearst's tape recorded messages would have been "far more compelling if she could have identified herself at least as Colonel Hearst," he argued.

During cross-examination, prosecutor David Bancroft asked if Miss Hearst might not have "got religion" and become a willing member of the terrorist band.

"People who get religion, as you put it, when they come back, they talk religion," Orne said.

Bancroft noted that in a jail conversation with a girl friend after her capture, Miss Hearst said she wanted to make a "revolutionary feminist" statement.

"I found only a little of a revolutionist and a lot of a feminist," Orne said of his examinations of Miss Hearst, adding that he thought she got some of her feminist views from her mother.

A Prod on Energy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has unveiled two new plans for boosting his power to set U.S. energy policy.

One would give him authority to set a deadline for federal agency review of how Alaska's natural gas riches will be shipped to the lower 48 states and, subject to congressional approval, the authority to pick between two competing routes.

That proposal requires a new law and will join 18 other measures that Ford is trying, with varying degrees of success, to push through Congress.

The other, which Ford can put into effect without congressional action, sets a strict quota on imports of liquefied natural gas.

Ford presented his proposals Thursday in a sweeping call for Congress, which has passed only one piece of major energy legislation in the past year, to get on with the task of freeing America from dependence on uncertain foreign energy supplies by 1985.

He urged Congress to deregulate domestic natural gas prices, saying removal of federal controls would halt a two-year downward production spiral and boost output 25 per cent by 1980.

He called for speedy passage of a new billion dollar, 15-year program to aid areas where development of federally-owned energy resources such as coal and oil shale threatens to turn small communities into boom towns.

Chapin, McLean at Vassar

POUGHKEEPSIE
Tune in to your local radio station and on any day of the week, chances are your favorite disc jockey will be spinning a record by Don McLean and another by Harry Chapin. Switch on your homescreeen and the possibilities are great that either Harry Chapin or Don McLean will be singing on a variety or regular network television show.

But rarely offered is the opportunity to see and hear McLean and Chapin performing live together. Hudson Valley residents, however, will be able to do just that when the two superstars team in a benefit concert in Poughkeepsie this Saturday, Feb. 28. To help raise funds to repair the Hudson River sloop

Clearwater, McLean and Chapin will stage two shows tomorrow night (at 7:30 and 10:30 p.m.) in the Vassar College Chapel on the Poughkeepsie schools campus. McLean, whose international following is lodged in the success of such songs as "American Pie" (written and sung by him) and "And I Love You So" (composed by him and recorded by Perry Como), has played to several sell-out concerts in Poughkeepsie previously. Chapin, whose fans have been legion since his first gold record, "Cat's in the Hat," hit the charts—and his stardom in the Broadway hit, "The Night That Made America Famous"—will be making his first in-person appearance in this area. Those who attend one or the other of the two concerts will be treating themselves to a musically entertaining first for this area—and will be contributing to the highly worthwhile cause of helping to relaunch the dry-docked Clearwater on the Hudson River for this year's Bicentennial celebration.

KINGSTON
Sylvia Suzowsky will present a harpsichord recital Sunday, Feb. 29 at 3 p.m. at the Church of the Holy Cross in Kingston.

The first half of the program will be devoted to works of J.S. Bach beginning with a group of two and three part Inventions, followed by the Italian Concerto and concluding with a group of Preludes and Fugues from the Well-Tempered Clavier.

After intermission, the program will consist of a group of Scarlatti Sonatas.

In her capacity as harpsichordist for the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, Ms. Suzowsky has performed with such diverse works as the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 and the de Falla Harpsichord Concerto. She has performed extensively as an ensemble player as well as soloist.

Tickets will be available at the door.

Army Chamber Music

WEST POINT
The United States Military Academy Band will present the seventh concert of its 1975 76 Chamber Music Series on Sunday, February 29 at 8 p.m. in the Cadet Chapel at West Point.

The program will include selections from Bozza (TWO PIECES), Mozart (MARCH DER PRIESTER) and Ravel (PAVANNE FOR A DEAD PRINCESS).

The concert is free and open to the public.

Self-Help Clinic

On Saturday, February 28 at 11 a.m. there will be a self-help clinic at the Woodstock Women's Center. Two women from the Ithaca Women's Health Collective will be present to demonstrate self-examination, bimanual examination and breast examinations. This demonstration will be aided by a slide presentation. The Ithaca Women's Health Collective has been active in the Ithaca area for the past two years and is involved in teaching self-help at Planned Parenthood.

Zimet at Ithaca

At Ithaca College, the annual Concerto Program is considered one of the most important concerts of the year. And, appearing in that concert this year with the Ithaca College Orchestra will be six outstanding soloists from the School of Music. Among them will be freshman cellist Beth Zimet of Woodstock, a 1971 Ontario High School graduate who has played with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic. Another local student who will perform in the Concerto Program Sunday evening, Feb. 29 in Walter Ford Hall on the Ithaca campus as a member of the College Orchestra is first violinist Marilyn Katz, a 1973 graduate of Kingston High School.

DCCC 'Big Band'

Mrs. Manzoor Ansari, Wingdale, has announced a benefit concert will be given in Bardavon Cinemasque Theatre, 33 Market Street, Poughkeepsie, Sunday at 12 o'clock.

Mrs. Ansari, chairperson of the event, is a board member of the Dutchess-Columbia Branch, American Lung Association, sponsoring organization. She is also a member of the board for Dutchess County Community College.

The Dutchess Community College Jazz ensemble, with

Roger Thorpe directing, will be the attraction playing the classic arrangements of Tommy Dorsey, Glenn Miller and others from that era — the BIG BAND SOUND.

The public, in supporting this event, will be helping not only the Dutchess-Columbia Lung Association, but will be adding to the Scholarship Fund at Dutchess Community College.

Tickets are available at the Bardavon box office, Lung Association office at 246 Church Street, or through any board member.

'Streakers in the Sky' At SUNY Planetarium

Streakers in the Sky will be the next presentation of the State University College at New Paltz Planetarium.

Some happenings in the sky are all over in a few seconds so that you have to be both patient and alert to catch them. These are the meteors more commonly though misleadingly referred to as falling stars. Then there are the more dramatic Bolides — you can both see and hear them. And finally there are the comets or "hairy stars" that sail into the naked eye view so rarely that one is lucky to see one or two in a lifetime.

What are these streakers? Where do they come from? Where do they go after their ephemeral performance? The New Paltz Planetarium will provide the answers to these questions on Saturdays, February 28, March 6 and 13.

at 7:30 p.m. Showings will also be on Sundays, February 29, March 7 and 14 at 2:30 p.m.

Now entering its second decade of operation, the Planetarium is regularly an instructional aid in astronomy physics, space science and in certain courses in philosophy taught at the college. On weekends it serves the general public and the college community by blending aesthetic and educational values in its guided tours of the universe. With its Spitz Space Systems A-3 projector it can exhibit the stars and planets of any season as seen from any latitude, either in their current positions or those of the deep past or far future.

Tickets to Planetarium performances may be obtained at the College Book Store in the Student Union Building. They are available to the general public. The Planetarium is located in the college's Cuylen Hall Science Building, just off the ground floor foyer.

CBS BROADCAST CENTER

A sophisticated and expressive puppet joins producer-host Nick De Noia and youthful Kingstonian, Jonathan Berman, in front of CBS Broadcast Center to remind viewers their

TV family special, "WHAT'S THE WORD?—TOMORROW" will be broadcast Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

Kingston Youngster Will Appear On Saturday Night CBS Show

By Tobie Geertsema

"He's my favorite young man in the world," says Nick De Noia, producer-host of "WHAT'S THE WORD?", a WCBS-TV Family Special to be broadcast this Saturday, Feb. 28 at 7:30 p.m.

The favorite young man in his life is Jonathan Berman, 10-years-old and a student at Kingston's George Washington School. Since his mother's tragic death at 32 more than a year ago, he has lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Schechter of Lounsberry Place, Kingston. His grandfather serves as an aide to State Sen. Edwyn E. Mason when the legislature is in session.

Television and theatrical revue producer De Noia, a long-time friend and partner of Ken Berman, Jonathan's father, persuaded him to allow the local youngster to appear in "WHAT'S THE WORD?", a family variety show for 7-to-14-year olds and their parents that may go into syndication. Producer-host De Noia particularly wanted Jonathan for his special because, says De Noia, "He's wonderful... intelligent... perceptive... inquisitive... aware."

Says his grandmother, "His father does anything he can to keep him out of so-called 'shows,' but this one is a children's program for the brighter child. And he agreed to let him appear since he could tape it during Christmas vacation."

Ulster County residents who tune in to the family special Saturday night during its half hour run will find that the "word" of "What's the Word?" is "tomorrow." That time when you'll push buttons and everything will work for you. When people will be using flying saucers as cars. When you can eat a pill in the morning and get all the food and nutrients you need.

Filled with original music and dance, sophisticated puppets, and an unusual rendition of James Thurber's "The Last Flower," the show will also include a film of technological advances that will play an increasingly important role in the future: turbine wind mills, instructional computers, laser beams and space programs.

Says De Noia, "Our show focuses on the future. What kind of a world are we building for our children? How do children experience it? And how can both generations live to make it a better world. It doesn't tell you how to spell the word like Sesame Street... it deals with the word's feelings."

He's hoping those who watch

this family special Saturday night will agree with him that it bridges the generation and communication gap between parent and child in this rapidly changing world. He's particularly enthusiastic about the original musical numbers, the Thurber segment about life after World War 12, and about his young Kingston favorite, Jonathan Berman.

In fact, it was Jonathan and his wife Jennifer O'Neill's young daughter, Amy, who changed his interest in children. For several years, he and Jonathan's father, Ken, worked in Children's Theater together and had little love for their youthful audiences.

"Those years were really weird," he says, "sado-masochism riding high! Kids—3,000 at a time—throwing Ju-Ju beads at us... tossing thumb tacks on the stage. But because of Jonathan and Amy, I've grown to love children and have found a new interest in Television for Children."

You can see for yourself tomorrow when "WHAT'S THE WORD?—TOMORROW," a spin-off from "Hip Patches," also created by Nick, is broadcast. And when the book Nick De Noia and Ken Berman are co-authoring about their experiences in Children's Theater is published.

Pike, Smith and Wein at NAD Show

NEW YORK CITY Ulster County artist John Pike, Lawrence Beall Smith and Albert Wein are among those who will exhibit at the 151st annual exhibition of the National Academy of Design. The exhibition opens Saturday, Feb. 28, at the academy's galleries, 1083 Fifth Avenue, and continues through March 21.

It includes 329 paintings in

Invited artists include such well known painters as Benny Andrews, Rudolf Baranik, Ken Gore, Trafford P. Klotz, Robert Maione, Elias Rivera, Sidney Simon, Herbert Steinberg and May Stevens. Sculptors Clark Bronson, Jack

Drake and Edward Fraughton, aquarellists Claus Hoie, Arne Lindmark and Oscar Velasquez, and graphic artists Sigmund Abeles, David Becker, Herbert Fink, Linda Plotkin, Rudy Pozzatti, Donald Sexauer and Richard Zeimann will also be represented.

The National Academy of Design is the oldest art group in New York City and second oldest in the nation. The membership consists of academicians and associates distinguished in the fields of painting, architecture, sculpture and the graphic arts.

In addition to holding contemporary art exhibitions in its galleries, the academy op-

Coleman's 'Mary Poppins'

The curtain rises at 7:30 this evening on the debut performance of that wonderful bit of Whimsy, "Mary Poppins" presented by the 150 or more would-be thespians of the John Coleman High School Children's Theater.

Coleman's Dean of Students, Gerard M. Gretzinger, has been overseeing the group effort. Senior Barbara Blaber will play the multi-talented baby sitter; sophomore Bernie Gray is the ebullient Bert. The show was produced by student Frank Patience.

Martha Hill's imaginative set is quite ambitious, with a 'thrust stage' extending 15 feet into the audience. Parent Tom Kearney supervised the carpentry.

There will be performances on Saturday at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.; Sunday at 2 and 7:30 p.m. Next weekend, they'll do it all again at 7:30 p.m. on Friday; Saturday at 2 and 7:30 p.m.; Sunday, 2 and 7:30 p.m.

'New Moon' Children's Party

WOODSTOCK The School of the New Moon will present an afternoon dance party for children at Woodstock Town Hall Saturday, Feb. 28 from 1 to 4 p.m.

Ron Sanders and the NOVO Folk Dance Company will begin the afternoon with an International Dance Show followed by audience participation led by Sanders. Andy Robinson will complete the afternoon with a children's discotheque. Admission includes free balloons. Homemade refreshments will be available. Children must be accompanied by an adult. Everyone is asked to wear a colorful costume.

The School of the New Moon, now in its fourth year, offers a nursery and early elementary school program. The recently constructed facilities include an octagonal open classroom structure, goat barn, pond, vegetable garden and playing field set on a wooded mountainside in Wittenberg.

Arrests, No Jail

Jack Williamson, proprietor of a stationery store on Broadway, will be appearing in court for the third time in less than two years when he answers charges of promoting prostitution.

Previously he had pleaded guilty to obscenity for selling pornographic materials in his store and had been convicted of unlawfully selling a machine gun.

If this same store proprietor is found guilty on this latest charge, he should not escape so easily. If convicted, he should receive the maximum jail term the law allows and should pay a heavy fine. The charge is only a misdemeanor but in our opinion, this alleged misdemeanor was despicable and against all the elements of a society which has seen such a drastic change in the past several years on the subjects of pornography and sex, both in the movies and on television.

If, as sources claim, there were as many as 15 women involved in this prostitution ring in the Kingston area, authorities should make a thorough investigation and clean up this vice before it takes a foothold in our city and county.

Prostitution, obscenity and the illegal sale of machine guns. If the new charge comes out the same as the other two — guilty — the defendant should not be let off with just a fine or suspended sentence. There are some who say that even jail would be too nice of a punishment.

Flu and the Tests

Dear Editor:

With many people coming down with the flu each year, the trend will continue each year with more and more strange symptoms. At the U.S. Army laboratories, they are experimenting in germ warfare where they have learned how to pollinate and cross breed germs of both the two and four-footed animals.

Whether the germs are released on purpose to learn their effect I don't know. It could be accidental and beyond control. Be as it may, one of these days they could solve the overpopulation problem via the hoof and mouth disease.

Disturbing MCPL Facts

Dear Editor:

The Sons of The American Revolution are an influential, patriotic group of Americans. They are interested in preserving the things their fathers fought to win, the things that have made America the foremost nation of the world, the things that have led America to do more to help other nations than any other country ever dreamed of doing.

Their Saguro Chapter of the SAL at Sun City, Arizona, has a very interesting letter—letter No. 18. Following is an important quote from it.

"In recent years there is a little-herd-of organization calling itself Members of Congress for Peace through Law (MCPL). It has become a powerful force in the legislative branch of the federal government. The following facts about the MCPL are disturbing and should receive the widest possible publicity.

1. Purpose: In addition to ultra-liberal legislation, the MCPL advocates and works for, "... general and complete disarmament (of the United States) under forceable world law ..."
2. Members: As of September 1975, the

Third Party System

Dear Editor:

In the medical profession, when there is an unfamiliar germ causing havoc; the germ is isolated and part of the disease (germ) is utilized in preparing the antidote.

After prohibition, our government opened regulated liquor stores; and only those lacking maturity continue to abuse. What is important is that the majority of us were not deprived of our glass of wine at dinner.

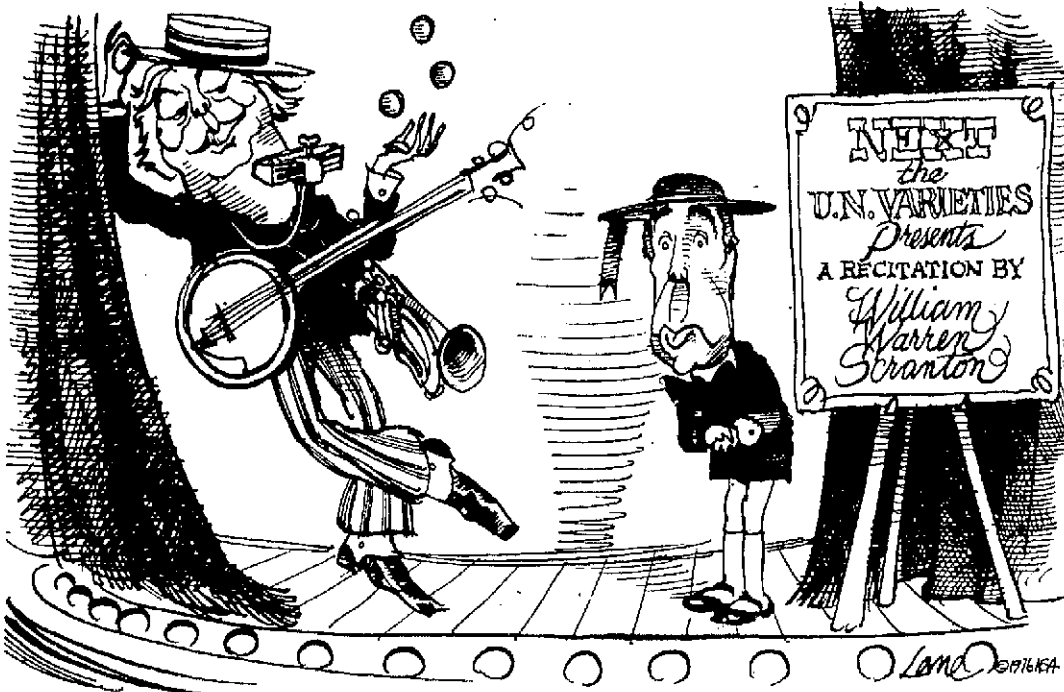

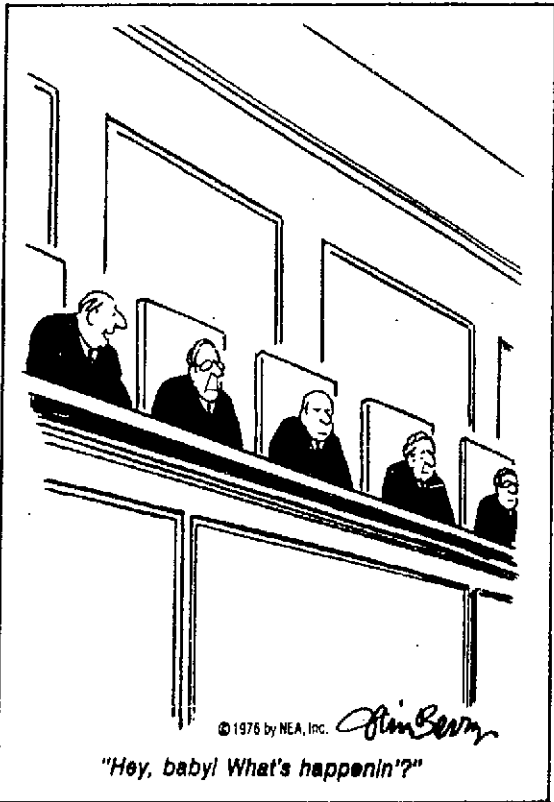

Our politicians are being dictatorially condemned for accepting "favors", at a time when we are suffering the consequences. That life-style became part of our mores—as is the attitude of cheating on income tax returns. "Because everyone is doing it"; HAD become the quote of the times—UNTIL WATERGATE—thus making abuse no longer seem wrong.

Up until the time that Richard Nixon devalued our American Dollar there was still balance in the world.

Lowering taxes depletes the funds that we so desperately need as computerization requires less and less manpower.

P.S. "Who put the band-aid on the door in the WATERGATE burglary—so that they ALL were caught?"

IRS May Declare Hughes Dead

WASHINGTON—Howard R. Hughes, the phantom billionaire, has been out of public sight for so long the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) may move to declare him legally dead.

Several federal agents, who have followed Hughes' movements, believe he is dead. As far back as Feb. 18, 1972, one agent declared in a speculative memo: "It is my belief that Howard Hughes died in Las Vegas in 1970 and that key officials in charge of running his empire concealed this fact at the time in order to prevent a catastrophic dissolution of his holdings."

The memo suggests that a "double" could easily have been substituted for the real Howard Hughes, since almost no one outside the reclusive inner circle has seen him in years. "The double no doubt has been schooled in Hughes' speech, mannerisms and eccentricities," the memo conjectures.

A pattern of "complete isolation" was established, with "only a few trusted servants" having direct access to Hughes, note the memo. The next step, it suggests, was to move the supposed imposter to a friendly foreign country. "This would be necessary, in the agent's opinion, 'to obviate the possibility of a government intrusion by search warrant.'"

The danger of exposing the masquerade would have lessened adds the memo, "with the passage of time and the double's isolation from any outsiders who knew the real Hughes."

This scenario has not been dismissed in Washington as complete fantasy. Other government investigators also suspect that the eccentric billionaire may be dead, although they lack conclusive proof that he is either dead or alive.

Spokesmen for the $2 billion Hughes financial empire call the speculation preposterous. They contend that the elusive Hughes is quite alive, sound in both body and mind. He is now residing they say, at the Princess Hotel in Acapulco.

The government has a deep interest in Hughes' welfare. If he had departed this world unannounced, someone owes the Treasury tens of millions of dollars in estate taxes. Those responsible for the hoax would also be subject to prosecution.

For them, too, the stakes would be high. As the memo points out: "The power and financial benefits inuring to any group in control of a $2 billion empire are manifest. The opportunities for the siphoning off of hundreds of millions of dollars are also obvious."

Alarmed over this possibility, House Monetary Affairs Chairman Ben Rosenthal, D.-N.Y., has privately urged the IRS "to determine whether Howard Hughes still exists."

The IRS is reluctant to compel a showdown with Hughes without "reasonable" evidence of fraud. But if the billionaire refused to meet personally with IRS agents to prove he is alive, a case could be made to declare him legally dead.

Our associate Bob Owens has spent several weeks, meanwhile, tracing Hughes' movements during the past six years. Here are the key findings:

—Sheriff Ralph Lamb investigated Hughes' sudden disappearance from Las Vegas on Thanksgiving eve 1970. The investigation led to Dr. Harold L. Feikes, who had been summoned to Hughes' penthouse the previous month to give him blood transfusions. The doctor warned that if Hughes had been taken anywhere except an intensive care unit, his life could be in danger, the sheriff to us. Feikes refused to comment.

—At the time Hughes left Las Vegas, he had seen no one outside his tight personal circle for more than a decade. During the next several months, a man purporting to be Hughes met face-to-face with a half-a-dozen outsiders. The first was Turner B. Shelton, then the U.S. ambassador to Nicaragua, who described Hughes as "about six feet, three inches tall, very thin, weighing from 140-150 pounds, with graying hair and wearing a neatly trimmed Van Dyke type beard."

—The last known visitors to call on Hughes were Nevada's Gov. Mike O'Callaghan and Gaming Board Chairman Phil Hanniflin. They also described him as tall, thin and graybearded and found him to be fully alert. The meeting took place in London in March 1973. No outsiders have visited him since that date, so far as we have been able to learn.

—Hughes has been able to travel from country to country without a valid passport. He reportedly lost his passport during the 1972 earthquake in Managua. His aides tried to obtain a replacement without submitting an up-to-date photo of Hughes. But this arrangement was refused by Passport Director Frances Knight.

—In September 1972, Hughes met with New York stockbroker Julie Sedlmayr and attorney I. Courtney Ivey about a stock deal. Significantly, the Securities and Exchange Commission demanded proof that Hughes was really alive. The two men filed affidavits about the meeting and a Treasury handwriting expert authenticated Hughes' signature on the stock documents. Sedlmayr and Ivey told us Hughes was mentally alert.

—Despite his fabulous wealth, Hughes had managed to get off without paying federal incomes taxes year after year. Sources with access to his returns tell us however, that once in the 1960s he was stuck with a $7 million tax liability. We have established that in some years, at least, Hughes didn't sign his own tax returns.

There is more to the Howard Hughes story, which we'll report in future columns.

The Health of Statesmen . . . III

The 1976 candidates, with one exception, enjoy good health. Most of the aspirants convinced their physicians to make the findings public. Others—Edmund Muskie, Ted Kennedy and Nelson Rockefeller—refused the information on the grounds that they are not candidates.

The only campaigner to decline the invitation of Editor Howard Cohn of "Medical World News" was Governor George Wallace. His doctor, Henry Hutchinson of Montgomery, Alabama, agreed to be interviewed.

BIRCH BAYH, 48: Extensive tests display vigorous health. The Senator has two small masses in left pectoral area, "smaller than last year." Has functionally systolic heart murmur.

Bayh has had a small node in right lung since 1967. Physicians report "it is no threat to your health at this time."

ROBERT BYRD, 58: Takes Maalox at bedtime for inactive duodenal ulcer. Avoids eating raw onions and beans. Suffers borderline glaucoma.

At a recent examination, the Senator evinced tremor. Doctors recommended sherry before meals. His habit is occasional beer and four cigars a day.

JIMMY CARTER, 51: Had difficulty swallowing. Found to be allergic to hops, beans, Swiss cheese. Slightly enlarged prostate. Cholesterol is in normal range at 239 mg per cent. Choking spells have stopped.

FRANK CHURCH, 51: Normal, as is true of the others, with few exceptions. Suffers multiple minor skin growths. Triglycerides slightly elevated at 159. Insignificant diverticulosis.

The Senator enjoys rich foods, displays small elevation of uric acid. Rectal polyp removed surgically. Weight 175. Physician advises "weight control."

FRED HARRIS, 45: As a teenager, suffered gunshot wound in leg while hunting. In law school, developed ulcer. At 5 feet, 9 inches, he weighs 198. Except for "significant weight problem," Harris is normal.

HUBERT HUMPHREY, 64: As a "non-candidate," he sent an informal medical report. Medical checkup two years ago revealed pinhead tumor in bladder. Had X-ray treatments. Cystoscopic examination at Bethesda and biopsy have since proved negative.

HENRY M. JACKSON, 63: Kidney stone removed surgically a year ago. Had pneumonia in 1945 and 1951. Has chronic nasal stuffiness; is known to be allergic to adhesive tape, strawberries, eggs, plated gold and wool. Had one-tenth of right kidney removed. Tests negative.

EUGENE MCCARTHY, 58: His doctor says "he is a very healthy man." Did not publish detailed results of examination. His father died at 98.

RONALD REAGAN, 65: Does well in medical tests. Has asymptomatic hiatus hernia, diverticula of the colon. Is chronically myopic, uses contact lens.

MILTON SHAPP, 63: Slight elevation of triglycerides to 196 mg per cent. Once suffered from gallstones. Otherwise, normally healthy.

SERGEANT SHRIVER, 60: Extensive tests, normal results. In October 1973, he was discovered to have leukoplakia on lower lip and underside of his tongue. Leukoplakia can be a precursor of cancer cells. Had it removed surgically. No recurrence.

MORRIS UDALL, 53: Has a glass eye. Had meningitis as a child. Had pneumonia last summer. Has apical systolic murmur of heart. Had skin cancer removed in 1975. His doctor says his health is "excellent."

GEORGE WALLACE, 56: Paraplegic, shot by assassin May 15, 1972. Spinal cord severed at first lumbar vertebra. Has sustained four major operations, several minor ones. Wears hearing aid. Sustained successive urinary tract infections, broke a leg last year.

Takes a powerful pain killer, Tegretol, three times a day. Smokes cigars, does not drink alcohol. Had prostate removed to relieve bladder obstruction.

He is incontinent, wears catheter on leg for collection of urine. Chronic depression has dissipated somewhat.

GERALD FORD, 62: Robust health. Has chronic trouble with knees. Lost 16 pounds since becoming President. Had hemorrhoidal surgery. His aides feel that publicized stumbles, head-bumping accidents, etc., "are all due to some alleged neurological problem."

After the extensive medical examination, Ford announced happily, "It proves I'm fit to be President."

Au Revoir, New Hampshire

WASHINGTON—As the sun sinks slowly into the west, we bid farewell to the lovely state of New Hampshire, graveyard of presidential dreams and land of broken political promises.

New Hampshire, you are the mother of all primaries, and the nation is now a safer place knowing where each and every one of you stands on abortion, busing, gun control, detente, unemployment, tax rebates and Social Security, not to mention the Democratic and Republican candidates who crisscrossed your cold and Loeb-infested land.

What would we do without you, New Hampshire? How could we possibly get the ball rolling in the presidential Super Bowl if you didn't exist?

Every night the rest of us gathered in our living rooms, glued to our television sets, and watched your state in all its glory. By now we know every slushy street in Manchester, every leafless tree in Crawford's Notch, every snow-capped hill in Concord. We never saw so many people chopping firewood in our lives.

Yes, New Hampshire, we know more about you than anyone ever thought he'd want to know. We know you have rugged independent people who speak their minds whether they're interviewed on ABC, CBS, NBC or public television. We've seen them in your supermarkets, your general stores, your gas stations and in your town halls, offering sage opinions on everything from Angola to the Lockheed bribe scandals.

The mystery is how people in New Hampshire had a chance to read about Angola or watch the news about Lockheed when they had to spend so much time talking to TV correspondents and newspapermen. The question that ran through all our minds as we watched you, New Hampshire, is: "When did your people sleep?" If they weren't attending a political rally, they were being polled by Harris and Gallup; and if they weren't being polled by Harris and Gallup, their phones were ringing all night long with calls from every campaign worker in the state.

The wonder of it all is how your citizens

could keep a straight face when the greatest politicians of our land grasped their hands and promised each and every one of them a rose garden.

Oh, what a show you put on, New Hampshire! It was better than Howard Cosell Live on Saturday Night; it was better than the Muhammad Ali fight from Puerto Rico; it was better than a Miss Teen-Age America beauty pageant.

You won our hearts, if not our minds, New Hampshire. As Theodore White will undoubtedly write in "The Making of the President 1976": "It all started in January when ( ) ( ) stepped out of his station wagon into the snow-covered road of Keene, N.H., a road that would eventually lead him to the White House."

And so it's time to bid "au revoir" to you, New Hampshire. We'd love to watch you for the rest of the winter and spring. But we've got to move on to Massachusetts and Florida and West Virginia, wherever the primaries will take us.

I guess we won't see anything of you for the next four years. But keep chopping that wood and keep those home fires burning with copies of the Manchester Union. New Hampshire, you may be forgotten, but you're not gone.

In 1980 we'll all be back again: the TV correspondents, the newspaper columnists, the pollsters, the campaign workers and, of course, the candidates telling everyone what a great people you have produced and what a wonderful thing it is to talk to real Americans.

I know it's going to be lonesome up there now with no one to talk to. Yet someone might come back in November just to see how your people voted in the national elections.

But I wouldn't count on it. New Hampshire, you may be the mother of primaries, but as a factor in the election, you have as much clout as North Dakota.

Gallup Poll

Many for Nationwide Primary

By George Gallup

PRINCETON, N.J.

With the New Hampshire primary marking the beginning of the nation's long and tortuous process of selecting the presidential nominees, attention again focuses on the idea of a nationwide primary election.

In the latest Gallup Poll, 7 voters in 10 (68 per cent) say they would favor a plan which would replace the many state races with a single national primary, allowing voters in all 50 states to choose the nominees by direct popular vote.

The present primary system has been under attack recently by critics who see it as a haphazard and inconclusive way of choosing nominees. One of the staunchest proponents of a national presidential primary has been Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, who recently urged that the present system be changed to allow the American people to choose their presidential candidates directly.

Some students of politics who favor such a change believe the results of a nationwide primary election should be merely advisory, with the party convention continuing to have the right to make the final selection.

The proposal for a nationwide primary election has had the backing of the American public for nearly a quarter-century. As early as February 1952 the Gallup Poll found Americans supporting such a plan by an overwhelming 6-to-1 margin. Each of five national surveys conducted since that time has shown a heavy majority in favor of the plan.

In all surveys, including the latest, the plan has had bipartisan backing. Currently, 71 per cent of Democrats, 65 per cent of Republicans, and 69 per cent of independents vote in favor of the nationwide presidential primary plan.

Support of this plan is also recorded in each of the four major regions of the nation.

Here is the question:

"It has been suggested that presidential candidates be chosen by the voters in a nationwide primary election instead of by political party conventions as at present. Would you favor or oppose this?"

Here are the results, nationwide and by political affiliation and region:

	Favor Pct.	Oppose Pct.	No Opinion Pct.
National.....	68	21	11
Republicans.....	65	26	9
Democrats.....	71	19	10

Independents.....	69	19	12
East.....	67	22	11
Midwest.....	67	22	11
South.....	68	19	13
West.....	74	21	5

The chief arguments given by students of the American political process who favor the idea of a nationwide presidential primary are:

• Under the present system, many Americans are denied the opportunity to vote directly for the candidate of their choice.

• Primaries frequently do not give a true measure of a party's strongest candidate because not all candidates enter each primary.

• The American people become jaded with presidential campaigns, which stretch over the better part of a year, from March to November. Surveys have found the public to favor shorter campaigns, such as those conducted in England.

• Political party conventions often in the past have been dominated by local party "pros" who pay little attention to the results of the vote in state primaries.

• Primaries are a grueling process leaving the candidates physically exhausted and their funds depleted.

• Crossover voting confuses the true support for candidates. In certain states, for example, Republican voters are able to vote in Democratic primaries and Democratic voters in Republican primaries.

Those who express opposition to the idea of a nationwide presidential primary offer these arguments:

• Under the present system a candidate has to face up to many trying situations—his mettle is tested—and the public can size him up better.

• Political conventions are better able to come up with compromise candidates and to see that candidates supported by minority factions get considered for the national ticket.

• The most frequently voiced criticism of a national primary has been the cost involved in conducting two and possibly three national campaigns—the national primary, possibly a run-off, and a general election. Others point to the possibility of voter fatigue.

The survey findings reported today are based on 1,570 adults, 18 and older, interviewed in person in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation during the period Jan. 30-Feb. 2.

Inside Supersecret Debriefing

Let's assume that Henry Kissinger conducts a supersecret debriefing of ex-President Nixon after the latter's return from China. Here is how it might go:

"Hello, Henry. It's good to see you again."

"Hello, Mr. Pres. I'm sorry. I mean..."

"That's all right, Henry. We're friends. Go right ahead and call me Mr. President."

"All right. Well, how did it go? What did you find out in China?"

"They couldn't have been nicer, Henry. Receptions, tours, talks, banquets, ballets, parades—the whole thing. When they host an official state visit they really do it well."

"It wasn't an official state visit, Mr. President."

"I was treated virtually as a head of state, Henry. Even the New York Times said so. I have the clipping right here."

"What I would like to know, Mr. President, is whether you learned anything new while you were there."

"Well, the truth is, Henry,

that they aren't at all happy with our foreign policy. They think detente with the Soviet Union is dangerous."

By the way, Chairman Mao gave me a message to deliver to President Ford."

"You can give it to me?"

"No, Mao said this message was to be delivered by me personally."

"Impossible. I'd better explain that President Ford was quite unhappy about your speech in China criticizing his foreign policy. It made big headlines here just before the New Hampshire primary."

"Oh, really? I'm sorry. You know how it is, Henry. You forget about American politics when you're abroad. You get caught up in all those receptions, tours, talks, banquets, ballets, parades, and the rest of the trappings of an official state visit."

"IT WAS NOT AN OFFICIAL STATE VISIT!"

"The New York Times said."

"I don't care what the New York Times said! I want to know what message Mao wanted relayed to the President."

"I'll tell you, but Mao wouldn't be happy. Also, it's embarrassing because it involves you."

"Me? How?"

"Mao doesn't want you as Secretary of State, Henry. He says you've sold out to the Soviet Union. He wants someone else—or else."

"Or else what?"

"He says they've developed some pretty big firecrackers in China."

"Did he say who he wanted instead?" Kissinger asks with narrowed eyes.

"He said they wouldn't accept anyone but me."

"That's what I thought. Well, frankly, I don't believe it. And neither will President Ford—the man who pardoned you for all crimes committed during your administration."

"Mao feared this sort of reaction," Nixon says. "That's why he decided to invite Governor Reagan as his guest this summer."

"WHAT?" Mao is going to give Reagan a boost before the Republican convention? Then if Reagan wins the nomination and election you'd be made Secretary of State, correct?"

How would I now, Henry? That decision would be up to Chairman Mao and President Reagan."

An Ancient Chinese Tactic

TOKYO (UPI) — People who wondered what Richard Nixon would do after Watergate finally have an answer.

Chinese leaders have given the former president a new political role as their unofficial spokesman to certain types of powerful Americans outside the government.

It is a tactic China often has used before in its relations with America, and especially with Japan.

That is the reason for Nixon's trip to Peking. Agreement certainly had been reached between Nixon and the Chinese before he ever left San Clemente Feb. 21. His astute daughter, Julie Nixon Eisenhower, doubtless was one of the go-betweens.

The nine-day tour of China is the first step in Nixon's new role. He went there to be launched as a certified China expert in the eyes of Americans.

Nixon probably will not be explaining China to ordinary Americans. Their feelings about Watergate rule that out. He will be talking to high level businessmen, China research experts, and opinion makers. Among people like this he can be effective.

Nixon certainly will be expert enough to impress anybody when he goes home Feb. 29. What American besides Nixon will have spent long hours in the company of the new acting Chinese premier, Hua Kuofeng?

Aside from Nixon's own daughter and her husband, he will be the only American to enjoy an exclusive interview with Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung since China's latest political shakeup.

He appears to have upstaged President Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger who spent hours last autumn cultivating Teng Hsiao-peng, then acting premier. Now Teng is out in the cold.

Ford and Kissinger also talked to Mao, who obviously didn't tell them everything. Their own intelligence people apparently were caught flat-footed by the latest Peking power struggle.

In the past, some very interesting people have played the type of role Nixon has assumed.

The late journalist Edgar Snow was the liaison man of the late Chinese Premier Chou En-lai to Americans interested in China in the 1950s and 1960s. Chou gave Snow exclusive interviews, and let him gather information on the closed Chinese nation that others could not get. This guaranteed wide sale of Snow's books.

Former French Culture Minister Andre Malraux played a role as liaison man to European intellectuals.

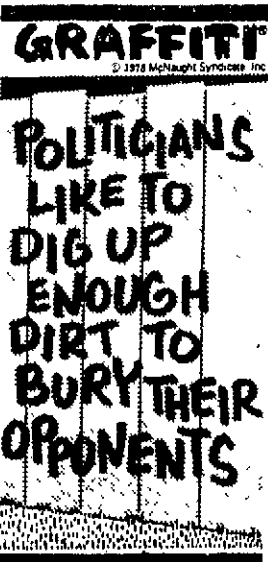

The tactic was developed most fully in Japan in the 1960s, when Chou was trying to win Japanese diplomatic recognition. When the late Prime Minister Eisaku Sato stayed stubbornly loyal to the anti-Communist Chinese regime on Taiwan, Chou bypassed him.

An Oxford educated Japanese nobleman, Prince Kinkazu Saionji, became Peking's spokesman—unofficial but authoritative—to Japanese news media and intellectuals.

Aiichiro Fujiyama, a sugar magnate and conservative member of parliament, was chosen to tell China's story to the Japanese business community.

They tilled the ground so well that when Nixon began his detente policy with China in 1972, Japan dropped Taiwan and switched recognition to the Communist government in Peking.

None of these people advocated communism for their own countries, and certainly neither does Nixon. They only argued the need for closer relations with China.

Heart To Heart

Your Heart Association Can Help

IF you are a club member, an employer, a church member or a person interested in public health, and you want to conduct a blood pressure screening, your Heart Chapter can help.

According to statistics 15,000 people in Ulster County have high blood pressure, 7,500 know it, and only half of these are receiving adequate treatment. Are you or your child one of those who do not know?

IF you are interested in attending a Free Blood pressure screening for the Public, please consider the following. Post 1219 American Legion in Tillson will be conducting a screening on Saturday, February 28, 1976 from 1:00 P.M. to 4:00 P.M. This is being sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Too Good to Be True?

A squirrel in Lincoln Park cautiously checks an ice cream cone before devouring it Thursday. Near record temperatures of 64 degrees brought a temporary spring to the city. (UPI)

LBJ's Farewell . . . But to Wrong Troops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The paratroopers roundly cursed the President while their generals sweated out a "farewell" charade in North Carolina eight years ago when the Army hoodwinked Lyndon Baines Johnson.

The Armed Forces Journal has finally told the story and an Army spokesman confirmed the basic facts Thursday.

Johnson, the Journal said, stood hand over heart and teary-eyed at Pope Air Force Base, N.C., on Feb. 17, 1968, watching what he thought was a planeload of gung-ho 82nd Airborne Division troops take off for a destination he thought was Vietnam.

Inside the plane, the Journal says, the stunned and furious troops — a group just back from Vietnam — were screaming things like, "you double-crossing——!"

At a nearby picnic ground, unknown to Johnson, the real Vietnam-bound bunch was getting drunk at a farewell beer bust.

Johnson, the Journal says, bade farewell to the wrong

troops — a battle-weary contingent hastily substituted for the partying unit by generals who wanted to keep both Johnson and the departing GIs happy.

After the President departed, the plane brought the angry soldiers back to base. The designated group left quietly the next day for Vietnam.

Drop All Charges Against Attica 10

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — State Supreme Court Justice Frank R. Bayger, commenting that "there can be no useful purpose served by continuing," has dismissed all charges against 10 former Attica prison inmates who had been accused of kidnapping guards during the nation's bloodiest prison riot in 1971.

Bayger's decision Thursday followed a motion to dismiss the charges "in the interests of justice" by chief Attica prosecutor Alfred J. Scotti.

Another State Supreme Court Justice, Carman F. Ball, took under advisement Scotti's request to dismiss charges against three other inmates and the only state trooper indicted in connection with the uprising which claimed 43 lives. Thirty nine died when state troopers and correction officers stormed the prison on Sept. 13, 1971.

"Personally I am not at all sure that justice will be accomplished by the granting of this motion," said Bayger. "However, in view of the unique prosecutorial responsibility associated with the Attica investigation, there can be no useful purpose served by continuing."

In seeking the dismissals of all but one pending indictment, Scotti harshly criticized the state's investigation of the rebellion.

"There is one standard of justice for all," the special deputy attorney general said.

"The name 'Attica' should be a symbol, not only of riot and death, but also of the capacity of our system of criminal justice to redress its wrongs," Scotti said in an eight-page statement, which included an attack on the state's investigation of the riot and the prosecution effort.

Work Detail in Olive

SHOKAN
The benefits and effects of the Town of Olive's work release program — where public assistance recipients are put to work on public works projects — will be the major topic at an "informational discussion" prior to Tuesday's town board meeting.

Olive was one of the first townships to introduce the work release program. When a person receives a welfare check, he or she is required to work for the town, at the minimum wage, until the amount of the welfare check is "earned."

The program, however, apparently isn't as smooth running as it sounds. One difficulty is that a person who receives public assistance must be a resident for a certain period of time before he or she can be required to work for the township. In other areas where the program has been implemented, officials have found that some welfare recipients move from town to town to avoid the work detail.

Olive is one of the few towns in Ulster County that has implemented the program. By comparison, the work release program has been implemented on a county-wide basis in Dutchess County. Olive officials have recommended that Ulster County do the same in order to improve efficiency and establish some continuity between individual towns.

Discussion at Tuesday's meeting will deal both with the overall benefits of the program, as well as its economic impact on the town.

The discussion period will begin at 7:30 p.m., followed immediately by the town board meeting. The new format is intended to give town officials an opportunity to explain specific programs and ideas outside the structured framework of the town meeting, and to give residents an opportunity to offer their ideas and suggestions.

Two other topics will be discussed before Tuesday's board meeting: whether there is enough interest to warrant scheduling of a public hearing on a proposal that would allow snowmobiles to travel on town roads, and a central telephone system for town police, fire and ambulance emergencies.

The meeting will be held at the American Legion Hall in Shokan.

Mills Road was named to the zoning board of appeals to fulfill the unexpired term of Edwin Davie.

The board accepted a letter of resignation from Edward R. Dunn of West Hurley, who leaves the town planning board after 17 years. Supervisor Raymond Jake Crosswell thanked him on behalf of the board for his service.

Mrs. Bonnie Westhoff of

West Hurley was reappointed to the planning board for a three year term ending Feb. 28, 1979.

The board took action to alleviate a dangerous traffic situation at Wall Street and Route 28 in West Hurley by voting to hire a special constable to direct traffic there when school buses are operating.

The board's next regular meeting will be at the West Hurley Firehouse on Monday, March 29, beginning at 8 p.m.

Saugerties Man Is Indicted for Knife Assault

KINGSTON
A young Saugerties man was indicted Thursday by the January term Ulster Grand Jury for first degree assault for an alleged knife attack on a 43-year-old woman New Year's Eve in the parking lot at Simmons Plaza in Saugerties.

Terrance X. Carney, 23, of Hilltop Apartments, was named in the one-count felony indictment handed up to Supreme Court Justice Robert C. Williams.

In detailing the incident, police said the victim, whose name has not been released, was leaving a store when a young man, later identified as Carney, asked her for a ride. When the victim refused, Carney allegedly slashed her on the face and neck with a linoleum knife, authorities said. It took 43 stitches to close the woman's wounds.

Carney was arrested Jan. 3 after being picked out of a lineup. Police said the linoleum knife, which was left at the scene of the attack when Carney fled, had his name scratched on the handle.

Others named in indictment handed up Thursday were:

- Moodye Snider, 21, of Bethpage, L.I., indicted on one count each of first degree rape and first degree sodomy in connection with an alleged sexual attack on a State University College at New Paltz coed last November.
- Snider was arrested Nov. 17 by state police BCI investigators several hours after the attack when the victim, who was riding with investigators, spotted him walking on Main Street in New Paltz and identified him as her assailant.

Police said the victim had been hitchhiking earlier in the day when Snider offered her a ride and then allegedly stopped the car, held a knife or screwdriver to her throat, and forced her to commit sexual acts.

- George Lamoreaux Jr., 17, of 71-A Wrentham Street, Kingston, indicted on one count each of second degree burglary and second degree grand larceny in connection with the December 6, 1975 theft of a coin collection valued at an estimated $35,000 from a Town of Saugerties resident. The coins were recovered by the Kingston Police Department.

- John Palen, 25, of 108 McEntee Street, Kingston, indicted on count of third degree burglary in connection with a Jan. 30, 1974 burglary in Kingston. Palen had been indicted on the charge previously, but the case was represented to the grand jury due to a technical irregularity in the previous indictment, according to First Assistant District Attorney Michael Kavanagh.

The grand jury dismissed the following charges:

- A first degree reckless endangerment charge against Ernest H. Martin, 67, of West Camp, in connection with an alleged shooting incident last October.

- A first degree assault charge against Raymond Hanaburgh, 21, of Palisades Park, N.J., in connection with a stabbing last August, in Rosendale. Kavanagh explained that the Ulster County Sheriff's Department was unable to locate the victim of the stabbing, Larry Wasdyke, 20, of Fairlawn, N.J., resulting in the dismissal. He said the case could be presented to the grand jury again should Wasdyke be located.
- A first degree robbery charge against Linwood Spearman, 35, of Newburgh, in connection with an armed holdup last September at the New Paltz

Shop-Rite store.

- A criminally negligent homicide charge against Johnny H. Pollard, 48, of Newburgh, in connection with a fatal auto accident Nov. 20, 1975 in the Town of Marlboro in which Richard Beruk, 15, of Milton died.
- A bigamy charge against Frank Pascariello, Jr., of New Windsor. The charge had been lodged by a Marlboro resident last October after Pascariello married the man's daughter.

The grand jury requested that the following cases be transferred to lower courts:

- A charge of third degree assault against Russell Kaegler, 43, of Milton, in connection with an incident Jan. 7 in the Town of Marlboro.

- A charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle against Mikel Wardlow of Ellenville.
- A charge of seventh degree criminal possession of a controlled substance against Norman Hagan, 23, of Oak Ridge Road, Ellenville.

Nyquist Dismayed

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The state education commissioner, while "dismayed" by an unprecedented court battle with the State University, insists he and the Board of Regents have the final word on SUNY's curriculum.

Commissioner Ewald B. Nyquist said Thursday he was "dismayed" at a decision by the State University trustees to fight his order terminating two PhD programs at the Albany campus because of their "low quality."

Although the dispute directly involves only the history and English doctoral programs at one campus, it also involves a fundamental question: Who has jurisdiction over SUNY's academic programs — the university or the Board of Regents and Nyquist?

Nyquist told a news conference after the Regents' monthly meeting that he and the Regents were willing to continue discussions with SUNY over ways to improve the two programs so they could be restored.

The commissioner also said he expected to issue integration orders for schools in Buffalo and Utica in March, to be effective this September.

"I will get a show cause order out in March," he said of Buffalo. "Precisely what day I can't say." He said the "same thing" applies to Utica schools.

Nicklaus Ties Marti In Delayed Round

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus birdied one of the two first-round holes he had to finish up this morning, after play was suspended because of darkness Thursday night, and moved into a tie with Fred Marti at 66 for the lead in the Tournament Players Golf Championship.

Nicklaus completed 16 holes when play was halted. First round competition had been suspended for nearly an hour and a half earlier Thursday because of rain.

When play was stopped, Nicklaus, the pre-tournament favorite, was a stroke behind

Marti who shot a six-under par 66 in the opening round of this $300,000 tournament.

Thirty-three of the 144 golfers in the field were still on the par 72 Inverary Course when play was ended for the day.

Don January, Tom Watson and J.C. Snead finished with 67s Thursday.

Nicklaus took last week off the tour to work on his game and get a little more familiar with a new set of clubs he is using this year.

"I wanted to get that club situation straightened out once and for all and I think I did," said golf's all-time leading money winner.

"For this early in the year, my game's not in too bad a shape," he said. "It's pretty good, actually."

Nicklaus, still looking for his first win of the year, said another reason he skipped the Los Angeles Open was because he wanted to be ready for this event just in case it eventually becomes a major tournament.

"Only time will tell whether it will become a major, but when it does, I'd like to have three or four wins already on the record," said the Golden Bear, who won the first TPC in Atlanta two years ago.

Marti never has won in 12 years on the tour and admitted he was "lucky" to shoot his 31-35-66.

"Every time I hit a bad shot, it landed where I could recover," he said. "And my putts were going in the middle of the hole—they weren't even going in the sides."

He said after he shot the 31, "I was anxious to play. I felt like I could bury them all."

Marti said he couldn't afford to worry about Nicklaus taking his lead away from him in the final two holes.

"I don't much worry about Nicklaus—it's quite evident he's going to play well," said the 35-year-old veteran.

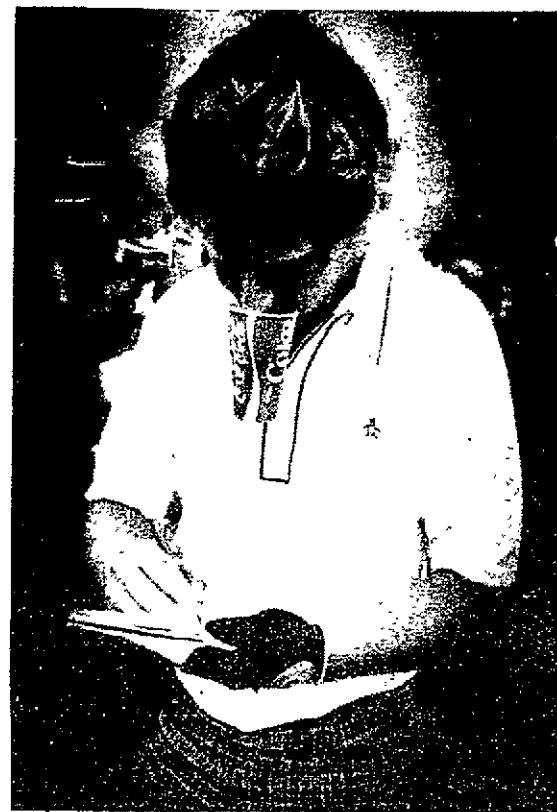

"I don't think he's worried about me, so I'm going to have to worry about myself and go out and play as well as I can," Marti said.

Marti had five birdies and no bogeys for his 31, playing the back nine first. Then he ran into trouble in the trees on the No. 2 hole and shot a bogey six.

He then hit putts of 18 and 15 feet for birdies on the par-3 third and par-4 seventh for his 66.

The round was delayed by rain for an hour and a half in the morning, causing the problem with darkness later in the day.

The rain kept scores up in the morning and the only lead among the morning starters were January. Two shots behind Marti at four-under-par 68 were Ed Snead, rookie George Burns, John Mahaffey and Phoenix Open winner Bob Gilder, another rookie.

Van Raps Technical

By UPI

The New Orleans Jazz, a young team in search of its first National Basketball Association playoff berth, had dropped a not-so-close decision, but all Coach Bill van Breda Kolff wanted to discuss was the technical foul his club drew for playing zone defense.

"All of a sudden, we're playing a zone defense," he tumbled Thursday night after the Washington Bullets' 118-108 victory. "After 58 games, we get a warning and then a technical. I guess they didn't do the same thing after they got called for it, referring to the fact that referee Bob Rakek also warned the Bullets but didn't call a technical."

Bullets Coach K.C. Jones said it was the first time he'd ever seen a zone called.

"But there have been warnings all over the place," he said. Nobody else had much to say on the matter.

Phoenix defeated Atlanta 115-97 in the only other pro basketball game Thursday night.

Phil Chenier hit 9-of-13 shots for 26 points to pace the Bullets, now a game behind first-place Cleveland in the Central Division. Wes Unseld, Dave Bing and Leonard Robinson added 17 each.

Maravich shot the Jazz to a 33-28 first quarter lead but the Bullets, led by Bing and Elvin Hayes, forged a 57-50 halftime lead. New Orleans cut the margin to 77-75 with 2:01 left in the third period. A close goaltending call on Jazz center Otto Moore gave the Bullets a four-point lead, then Bing made it five by converting a free throw when van Breda Kolff drew a technical, and the Jazz never again threatened.

"We were in the ballgame until that call," van Breda Kolff said. "My technical didn't serve its purpose."

Rookie Ricky Sobers scored a career high 27 points, set a team record with seven steals and also had seven assists for Phoenix, which scored its eighth win in 12 games. John Drew scored 32 points and Lou Hudson had 23 for Atlanta, which suffered its fourth straight loss on the road.

Rene Robert Happy Re 'French Connection'

By UPI

Rene Robert, for one, is happy the French Connection is back together again—and he celebrated the reunion Thursday night by scoring two goals in the Buffalo Sabres' 5-2 National Hockey League victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

"It's nice to be back together," Robert said. "You play with two guys for four years and all of a sudden they split us up—it's kind of tough. If you're proud of yourself as a hockey player it has to hurt your feelings a bit."

The Connection—Gil Perreault, Rick Martin and Robert—must have hurt Toronto goalie Wayne Thomas' feelings. They took part in four of five Sabre goals.

Perreault got his 33rd goal and added three assists, and Martin, while he didn't score, set up Robert's first goal with a pass from the blue line.

Martin, who was taken off the line Dec. 7, said there was no problem getting used to the other two.

"Things went well. We played together for four years and you get to know where everybody on the ice is. It was no problem," he said.

While pleased with the reunion, Robert feels it's not necessarily going to make life easier for the trio.

"I think there's more pressure now than ever before," he said. "You've got to push a little harder."

The Maple Leafs really have no one to blame but themselves for the reunion celebration at their expense. It was Buffalo's 6-4 loss in Toronto last Saturday that just about convinced Smith to bring the trio back together.

"When you're losing, you just can't stand pat," Smith said.

The Sabres broke to a quick 3-0 lead in the first 10 minutes as Peter McNab, Danny Gare and Robert scored. Gare's goal came on a power play while working with the Connection.

Boston defeated St. Louis 4-2. Philadelphia beat Minnesota 3-2. Detroit and California tied 1-1, the New York Islanders tied Kansas City 2-2 and Chicago dumped Los Angeles 6-2 in other National Hockey League games. Houston defeated New England 5-2 in the only World Hockey Association game.

Bruins 4, Blues 2

Jean Ratelle, Don Marcotte and Ken Hodge scored in the first period to send Boston on its way to a victory over St. Louis that extended their unbeaten streak to eight. Gregg Sheppard clinched the win with four seconds left by scoring into an empty net. It was the seventh straight road loss for the Blues.

Flyers 3, North Stars 2

Second-period goals by Reggie Leach, Larry Goodenough and Bill Barber lifted Philadelphia past Minnesota in a game enlivened by a 40-minute free-for-all during that session. The win gave the Flyers a 9-0-5 record over their last 14 games. Philadelphia outshot the North Stars 38-19.

Red Wings 1, Seals 1

Bill Hogaboam scored at 7:40 of the third period, earning Detroit its tie with California. The Seals took a 1-0 lead with 12:41 gone in the second period on Gary Sabourin's rebound goal.

Islanders 2, Scouts 2

Loren Henning scored at 7:19 of the third period as the Islanders rallied for their tie with Kansas City. Randy Roda and Gary Croteau scored to give the Scouts a 2-0 lead but New York narrowed the deficit to a goal when Bob Nystrom scored early in the third period.

Black Hawks 6, Kings 2

Dennis Hull blasted in two goals from long range and Pit Martin had three assists as Chicago presented Billy Reay with his 500th victory as Black Hawk coach in a win over Los Angeles. The triumph solidified Chicago's hold on first in the Smythe Division, where it leads Vancouver by eight points.

WHA

Rich Preston, Gordon Labossiere, Frank Hughes, Andre Hinse and Gordie Howe scored to lead Houston past New England. Fred O'Donnell and Tom Webster scored for the Whalers.

The Lonesome Wait

The uniforms are neatly hung waiting for Spring training to start at Montreal Expos training camp at Daytona Beach but the baseball players are nowhere to be seen. Harvey Stuns, clubhouse manager, for the Expos waits—and waits—for the arrival of the team. (UPI)

Bob Short Denies the Rumors

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bob Short, flat on his back in a Minneapolis hospital, says he should know better and not be so upset.

What has Short's blood boiling past the breaking point is a report that he and his partner—Bob Lurie—are having problems agreeing on terms to purchase the San Francisco Giants and they will be unable to complete the deal by next Monday's deadline.

"Those reports at the least are grossly exaggerated and at the extreme untrue," Short said. "What we have here are people with their finger in the mix. Well, I've got news for them, we will have our work done by Monday and we will wind up with a satisfactory agreement."

"I'm not exactly ecstatic over some of the conditions laid down by the National League, but I can live with them and so can Bob. We've talked about this before and we will talk about it again. There are some minor hangups but I don't see any that will prevent us from completing the purchase."

One of the hangups, reportedly, was a demand by the National League that Lurie have controlling interest in the club and be the Giants representative at league meetings.

"I heard that report," said Short. "If it's true then I stand on what I said—'bull'—". But I don't believe that's what they said. Anyway, Bob and I are in perfect agreement on how we want to run the club. Look, we assume we are buying one-twelfth of the league and not the whole league and we should be allowed to make our own decisions."

Leave It to Veeck to Find a Loophole

BILL VEECK MAKES A POINT

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bill Veeck found a loophole in the major league's ban on spring training camps, so the Chicago White Sox will open training camp on schedule.

But it won't be the usual kind of camp. To conform to the major league agreement, Veeck can't bring in any player on the White Sox roster.

So Manager Paul Richards and coaches will work with 23 players from the farm system plus two newcomer veterans of the major leagues who have not signed contracts.

They are Cleon Jones, once with the New York Mets, and Bob Oliver, late of the New York Yankees and Pittsburgh Pirates.

Veeck's action was taken in righteous wrath at the major league decision to keep training camps closed until an agreement is reached with the Players Association.

Earlier he said he would hold a camp regardless of the decision. Thus he was saving face by opening camp, and staying legal by keeping White Sox players out of it.

"We were threatened with penalties," he said. "Much as it grieves me to say so, I'm turning tail and running."

"It isn't the spring training I have envisioned. It isn't what I had in mind, but it is the best I can do."

"I have researched the subject enough to know there are a lot of very unpleasant things they could do, from fines to suspensions to even lifting the franchise. So the penalties are just too great for me to take a chance on it."

Veeck said his camp would not violate the owners agreement, and American League President Lee MacPhail agreed.

"As long as Veeck doesn't have anybody from his 40 man roster in camp, he is not breaking any rule," MacPhail said.

Most other major league teams reacted to Veeck's decision with the attitude that "it's his business." None of them planned to follow suit.

There was doubt that the Sox early training camp would benefit the team, although Veeck hoped some of his youngsters in camp, or Jones or Oliver, would show enough to warrant transfer to the Sox roster.

The early training, Veeck said, will give the players a chance to "show their wares, their ability," and increase their chance to make the Sox. Also, it will give Richards and Veeck a chance to look over players new to them.

Veeck indicated some bitterness toward the other major league owners, saying, "I'm sure seems to be only when I do what they want. That's expensive unity, but I am ending up doing what they want."

The camp will open with 10 pitchers, three catchers, seven infielders and five outfielders

Ulster Routs Nassau; Ray Younger Hits 43

STONE RIDGE

Ulster County Community College won't be top-seeded in the Region XV basketball championships which it hosts starting next Thursday in the Senate Gym. But, if you like to play a respectable long shot, you might put a couple on Coach Mike Perry's red-hot Senators.

With Ray Younger, Walt Bellamy and Joe McCall combining for fantastic shooting and free throw performance, the Senators crushed highly regarded Nassau Community Thursday night 113-87 for their 14th victory in 24 decisions and their second straight 100-plus point total.

Younger, the sensational former Ellenville High ace, racked up 43 points, only four below Jumpin' Joe Uhl's all-time UCC record of 47. He connected for 16 baskets and a perfect 11-for-11 from the free throw line.

Bellamy was runnerup with 32 points, with 12 of 13 from the foul line and McCall hit 21 points, seven of 10 on free throw conversions, as the Senators converted 31 of 37.

"Younger is just too much,"

said Coach Perry in describing. "He is quick and never stops and draws foul all over the place. Sometimes I can't believe he's for real." For Perry's sake, he had better be real. He'll be back for the 1976-77 campaign.

Perry pointed out that Ulster's 60-point first half was one of the best in several years and the 31 for 37 accuracy from the free throw line, "just about as well as we have ever done in that department."

Nassau rallied to tie Ulster 53-53 in the second half but by that time Ulster was coasting. Leon Ware was the other Ulsterite in double figures with 11 points.

Bill Harris led the Nassau squad with 20 points. Broderick added 17 and Laley 14.

"Our speed forced Nassau into all those fouls," Perry explained. "They simply couldn't keep up with Younger primarily and Bellamy and McCall."

Bellamy played all 40 minutes of the game against Nassau. In racking up 37 points earlier in the week, McCall sat out 13 minutes of the contest. Ulster closes out its regular schedule Saturday at 2 p.m. against the Oneonta State College Jayvees.

Seedings for the Region XV Tournament will be announced Sunday. In addition to host Ulster, the competing teams will be Farmingdale (17-7), Fashion Institute (20-4), Westchester (26-3), Staten Island (20-3), Kingsborough (12-8), New York City (15-7) and Manhattan (10-7).

Coach Ralph Arietta's Westchester Wescons who swept through the Mid-Hudson Conference undefeated and are nationally ranked are the odds on favorites to win the championship.

But, the way Ulster is going right now, it's pretty hard to bet against them.

Area Sports Briefs

NEW YORK

Eddie Hodas of the Huguenot Boxing Club remained alive in Golden Gloves competition by scoring a decision over Patrick Brown of the PAL in a 160-pound sub-novice bout.

Hodas now advances to the quarter-finals.

In other action, Alfie Bevier lost a decision to Paul Smith of the Empire Sport Club, and Joe LaForte of Huguenot, a heavyweight, was taken out in the second round by defending champ Earlous Tripp, unattached.

Saugerties LL Registration

SAUGERTIES

Saugerties Little League will hold registration for the 1976 baseball and softball seasons on Saturdays March 6 and 13 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Barclay Heights.

All boys and girls registering must have proof of age and birth date between August 1, 1963 through July 31, 1968. The programs available this season will include a Grasshopper League for eight year olds; 10 major and 12 minor league teams for baseball; a Cricket League for eight year olds, six major and eight farm league teams for softball.

A new senior softball league will be added to the Little League program for girls ages 13 through 15 whose birth dates are between August 1, 1960 through July 31, 1963. This program was organized by the Saugerties Athletic Association as the Colleen League last year. All girls interested in participating again as well as those who want to join this year must register on the above dates.

New Paltz Sign-up Dates

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz Baseball Association, Inc., will hold registration for the 1976 baseball and softball seasons for boys and girls of the New Paltz School District at the Middle School.

Schedule for registration: Saturday, Feb. 28, 1 to 4 p.m.; Sunday, Feb. 29, 1 to 4 p.m.; Tuesday, March 2, 7 to 9 p.m.; Wednesday, March 3, 7 to 9 p.m.

Boys must be between the ages of eight and 17 and girls must be between 10 and 17, all prior to August 1, 1976. All interested youngsters must register, even if previously registered in the league. A parent or guardian must sign the application form and all first-time applicants must bring a birth certificate. Registration fee is $5.

Adult volunteers for managing, coaching, scorekeeping, umpiring, and secretarial work are needed. Contact John Fillette, 255-8031.

Douglas, Caragher Reach 20

MILLBROOK

Dave Douglas and Brian Caragher each scored their 20th goals of the season in recent Dutchess Youth Hockey League play.

Douglas had three goals for the Pee Wees in a 4-3 win over Kent and losses of 8-1 to Troy and 3-2 to Pawling.

Caragher, a member of the Squirt team, tallied his 20th in a 3-1 victory over Pawling.

SAUGERTIES

The semi-annual SAA Night of Champions will be held at 3 p.m., Sunday, March 21 at the Flamingo Restaurant.

To be honored at this 10th such SAA function will be the champions and individual leaders of the soccer, girls' volleyball, men's volleyball, winter ball-court, biddy, junior, Sawyer, and Premier leagues.

Also on the program will be presentation of the Lawrence M. Cahill Award to a Saugerties High School senior for outstanding service to the Athletic Department.

This year's event will be a "mixer" rather than a banquet. Ticket prices have been lowered to $2. All SAA champions, participants, and the general public are urged to attend. Tickets are available from the following SAA officers: Fritz Beckert, Jack Keeley, Karl Lezette, Bill Meiswinkel, Tim Murphy, Jack Naccarato, and Joan Zuckerman. Those planning to attend are asked to make reservations or purchase tickets at least a week in advance. Reservations may be made through Joan Zuckerman at 246-4586.

Rainone Leads Competition

NORTH EASTON

Gregg Rainone, 13, skiing for Highmount Ski Center, continued to lead the competition in the under-14 Class III and IV racing circuit last weekend by dominating the Eastern New York Divisional Championships at Willard Mt.

Rainone captured a first and a second in Saturday's slalom competition and streaked to a pair of giant slalom victories on Sunday. He thus earned the top spot in the Eastern New York team.

Rainone went to Willard ranked first on the 15 member Rip Van Winkle Ski Council's boys team. He was one of seven boys on the squad who, along with top ranked Robin Heidt of Scotch Valley, qualified for the Eastern NY team.

Other qualifiers were Bill DeTurris of Hunter who placed fifth, Larry Danner (14th) and Eddie Levine (22nd), also of Hunter, John Messina (21st) and Charles Carrigan (25th) of Scotch Valley, and Steve Harbauer (20th) of Windham.

There are 25 boys and ten girls on the Eastern NY team. Heidt, as the RVW Council's top girl was an automatic selection.

This weekend the Eastern NY team will be a Greek Peak for the state championships at which a New York team of 20 boys and 12 girls will be selected to compete in the ESA Western Regionals. The regionals will be held at Windham March 6 and 7, and the regional team chosen will compete at the ESA championships at Waterville Valley, N.H.

End of Line Arrives For Some Area Cagers

KINGSTON

Tonight marks the end of the road for more than one high school basketball team. While the DCSL has one more set of games to play, the UCAL campaign will close for all those teams not involved in post-season play.

The DCSL slate shows Kingston at home to Ketcham, Poughkeepsie visiting Saugerties, Beacon at Spackenkill, Arlington at Lourdes and John Jay at Roosevelt. In the UCAL, Ellenville is at Highland, Coleman visits Poughkeepsie, Liberty goes to Marlboro, Red Hook is at Onteora, Pine Bush is at New Paltz and Wallkill is at Rondout.

Kingston will be treading cautiously against the invading Indians. Tuesday night's big victory over Poughkeepsie will have the Tigers primed for a letdown, but with the league title still in doubt KHS can afford no slips.

Deadlocked at 13-3 with Beacon for first place, the Tigers know a Beacon loss to Spackenkill is unlikely at best so they'll have to hold up their end by running their home court win streak to 16 games.

Ketcham was a KHS victim earlier in the year, but the Indians have changed their style since that game. RCK has gone with a youth movement, and the sophs have picked up the Ketcham scoring pace considerably.

The UCAL Division II games are academic -- Liberty has already wrapped up that race, but the story in Division I is different. Red Hook and Rondout currently share the lead with 9-6 marks and neither has any intentions of letting the other back into the championship game opposite Liberty.

Red Hook and RVC switched the opponents they beat on Tuesday, and both will be favored to notch victory No. 10. The Raiders, the defending divisional champs, stifled Wallkill's attack with an effective defense and won by 27 points Tuesday. Onteora, though, has size and an unpredictable character on its home court, so the game could be closer than Red Hook would like.

Rondout took the other route and hit the 100 point mark for the first time this year to whip OCS. That achievement, along with the home court advantage and the lure of the playoffs, should keep the Ganders riding high.

Section One Pairings

KINGSTON

The Dutchess County Scholastic League will send a contingent of 13 schools to this year's Section One basketball tournament which opens first round action on Wednesday.

Kingston High, which drew a fifth seed in the Class AA bracket, will open its quest for a title at home against New Rochelle. Sixth seed Roosevelt of Hyde Park, ninth seed John Jay and 11th seed Arlington are the other DCSL clubs in the double-A bracket.

Beacon and Poughkeepsie, seeded second and third respectively, represent the league in Class A. Both squads drew a first round bye and will begin quarterfinal play Friday night at Dutchess CC.

In Class B, Spackenkill is rated 11th and Lourdes is ranked last in the field of 13 teams. The Spartans will open at Pleasantville while the Warriors will go to JFK Somers for first round matchups.

Five Bi-Valley Conference teams are in the Class C competition with conference champ Pawling gaining the No. 1 seeding and a first round bye. Rhinebeck is seeded third and will open at home against No. 14 Pine Plains. Dover is ranked sixth and will host Briarcliff in the first round, and Webutuck, which opens at Bronxville, is seeded tenth.

Grin and Bear It

Nets Capture SAA Junior

The Nets completed a perfect season by surviving two overtimes to beat the Pistons, 58-57, for the championship of the SAA Junior Basketball League.

Trailing 32-24 going into the fourth period, the Nets rode a 15 point stanza by Chris Wilson to tie the score at 47 and send the game into overtime. A three point play by Wilson with 10 seconds to go evened the score.

The teams split 12 points in the first overtime, the Nets finally coming out on top at the end of the second extra session.

Wilson led the Nets with 32 points and 17 rebounds. Mark Sinnott had nine points and grabbed 19 caroms.

High man for the game was the Pistons' Mark Edmunds, who tallied 34 points. Dave Kime canned 15 points and snared 10 rebounds and Anthony Cashara picked off 15 rebounds.

Head for a price that's nice. The '76 Dodge Charger SE is priced lower than Grand Prix or Elite. And this year, SE is equipped to fit more people's budgets, so now it's even $140 less than last year. You don't only get good looks you get a good buy. This year, Dodge has four Chargers. And there's one Charger priced less than $4,000

*Prices based on a comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail prices for base models. Excluding state and local taxes, destination charges, and optional equipment. Whitewalls ($39) and vinyl roof ($114) extra.

If you have a head for cars,
head for Dodge.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Good fortune should accompany you and your associates today. Pick special friends to share your enterprises or activities.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
You may find the opportunity you've been looking for today to talk to someone who can advance your ambitious interests. Level with this person.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The good news you've been waiting for from loved ones may be coming today. If you leave home base, let others know where you can be reached.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Those who you have helped will be willing to reciprocate today. If you have any needs, don't go to an outsider.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Crowds aren't among the things you need to make you happy today. You need to be alone with one who enjoys you equally well.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Keep your priorities attuned to business or career today. Where others enjoy partying, you'll get a bigger bang out of making a buck.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
The bright lights beckon today. If you're not invited to a party, get out somewhere with an admiring companion of the opposite sex.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Generally this appears to be a fortunate day for you, with the kind of an ending you hope for in either career or love.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
You're lootloose and fancy

free today. You have a tendency to enjoy one group for a while, then flit to another.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
It's possible that Lady Luck may deal you a few more trump cards today than she does others. If you sense the advantage, grab it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Things that affect you personally could be very profitable today. It's possible you could benefit by heeding a past, unpleasant lesson.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
An unusual situation today, whereby material benefits may come to you, could suddenly appear without your bidding or knowledge.

your birthday
Feb. 28, 1976
You have often been kind and compassionate to others without thought of reward. This coming year your unselfish efforts could be repaid in a surprising, profitable way.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

By Jean Adams, Ph.D.

NO RESPONSE: (Q.) Back in 1967 I met a girl in the neighborhood. We got hooked to each other right away. The years went by and in late 1970 or early 1971 she moved. She said we couldn't keep going steady and I understood, but we told each other we'd keep in touch.

I haven't heard from her since. I wrote letters, I called over and over, and nothing happened. I've been trying to ask her if she has another boy friend but for some reason everything turns blank when I think of that. I'd like some suggestions. I'm 16 now. — Lonesome in Illinois

(A.) You had a very young and very good love. It lasted three years, which is quite a while. It is gone now. Chalk it off as a nice memory and turn your mind to other matters.

BEER JOINT: (Q.) Every day I go to this place down the road. (It is a beer joint.) There is a guy that goes down there. He is 19. He is not a big guy. He is a little guy. That's why I have a crush on him.

It seems that he likes me. He asked me how old I was. I said 13. He said "You are cool."

He stares at me all the time. My mama said age didn't matter, because my daddy is nine years older than she is. — Interested in South Carolina

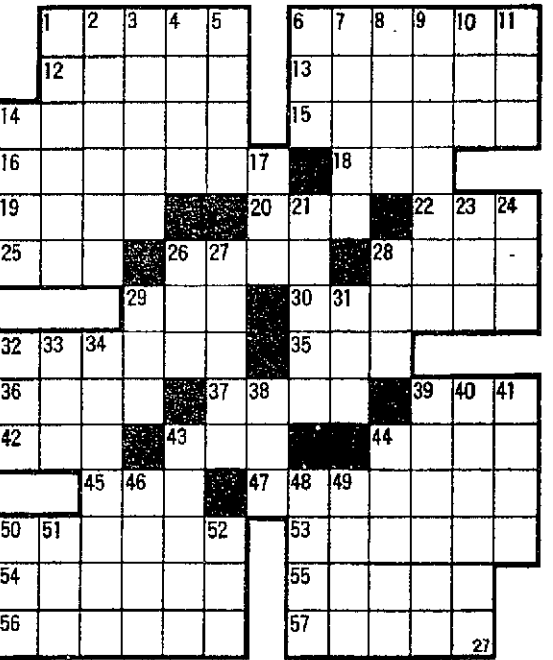

(A.) In adult situations, what your mother said about age usually is correct. You are not an adult, though. You are 13. And you are in danger of getting into trouble.

Stay away from the place down the road and from the 19-year-old who stares at you and sweet-talks you.

(Write to Dr. Jean Adams, care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Every letter is read, but because of the great number received Dr. Adams cannot send personal replies.)

It was caught early and thrown out, but before this happened, one pair had achieved some real notoriety. North made one of those shaded third-hand bids. South responded with an unsound two notrump and North compounded the felony by going to game.

West opened the five of hearts. Dummy played low and the defense started with four heart tricks. Then West led the three of clubs. East won and led back a low club. South played low and the defense added four club tricks. They still had to get another so South was down five.

Stiff Ulster Fine for the Wrong Garbage

By Tim Schuster
TOWN OF ULSTER
It could cost a guilty person $5,000 or six months in jail for bringing the wrong garbage to the Town of Ulster's one designated landfill site, according to a new law passed by elected town officials Thursday night.

"It's got some teeth in it," said Supervisor Carmine Sabino at the preceding public hearing, referring to the law, and not the garbage. The largest tooth is directed at those professional collectors who might haul in a load of "outside" trash, defined as "any garbage, rubbish, or other articles originating elsewhere than in the Town of Ulster."

A few collectors questioned provisions of the new law at the sparsely attended hearing, but there were no loud voices raised in protest against most provisions of the law.

Sabino admitted there is still some dumping at the Ulster Landfill site of outside trash, by collectors, but there will soon be garbage pickers reviewing loads for evidence of abuse.

Basis of the generation of this law is some furor about Spada Trucking, which hauls City of Kingston trash, using the Ulster site.

Sabino noted prior to the hearing that the 45 acres used by Ulster has a life expectancy of "about 10 years," with hopes for new approaches to the problem on the line by then. Talks of a regional landfill site have "fallen by the wayside," he added.

Collectors will pay a flat $200 fee, good "for a lifetime," to the town for a permit, with another $100 if their business is to include regularly such large items as tires, refrigerators or stoves. Every resident will pay a $1 fee, also good for a lifetime, and will be issued a plastic ID card, Clerk Robert Morehouse said.

A resident asked if the new law would be enforced. "They didn't before," he claimed, saying that "there's cars running up there at 10 or 11 o'clock at night."

Sabino said, "We never had fees before; we never had fines before. This makes illegal dumping a misdemeanor . . . It's nothing to fool around with." The supervisor said the town had tried years before to close off the dump with chains and gates, but vandals had loosed their wrath on that setup and destroyed property. Without any gate now, "we find it much more orderly," he added.

Sabino was asked why the town pays a person $250 a year to get rid of junk cars through a depot when the town could probably sell them to area junk dealers and make money. The supervisor claimed that "government cannot compete with private enterprise" in recycling as efforts have shown recycling glass and paper in the town have not worked out. The depot for junk cars will be maintained as a service to residents, he said.

The maximum $5,000 fine is for violations of collectors of garbage, rubbish and waste materials. A maximum $500 fine is for violators licensed to deposit solid waste, such as refrigerators. A person or firm violating other provisions may be guilty of a misdemeanor and a $100 fine. All may lose their right to dump in the town.

Said a representative of Sperl and Son, Inc., collectors: "This fee will probably end up being added to the customer's cost. Is it really necessary?"

Answered Sabino, "I can't see a $200 lifetime cost necessary to raise fees. If you're in business for 10 years it's just $20 a year."

And a warning to potential violators: "There will be somebody there checking loads," the supervisor added.

Teenagers Are Arrested For Many Area Burglaries

KINGSTON
In unrelated cases, Kingston Police Department detectives on Thursday arrested four city teenagers on charges stemming from several Kingston burglaries and Hurley State Police arrested two Shandaken teenagers in connection with three burglaries in that township last week.

City detectives arrested James B. Mack, 18, of 17 Hone Street, two 15-year-olds and one 13-year-old, and charged them in connection with five incidents, three of which occurred last summer.

Mack was charged with three counts each of third degree burglary and petit larceny and one count of third degree criminal possession of stolen property. He was held for city court action. The juveniles will be petitioned into family court.

The arrests were made in connection with three burglaries last summer, including one in which extensive damage was done to an Island Dock building, a burglary last Monday at the Seven-Up Bottling Company building at 40 Bruyn Avenue in which a radio was reported taken, and the theft of some $500 from a locker at the YMCA building, 507 Broadway, on Feb. 7.

In Shandaken, Trooper Joseph Mikesh arrested a 16-year-old and a 15-year-old Thursday night in connection with burglaries at three Town of Shandaken summer residences last week.

Police said hunting and camping equipment was taken in the burglaries. The 16-year-old, who was not identified because he is eligible for youthful offender status, was released in the custody of his mother following arraignment. The juvenile will be petitioned into family court.

Escape
A Saugerties truck driver escaped serious injury early today in a car-tractor-trailer crash in Pennsylvania in which the driver of the car was killed.

Authorities said Harold Yetter, 48, of Saugerties was injured slightly in the crash but did not require hospitalization.

Killed in the crash on Route 209 in Bushkill, Pa., was Hector Rivera, 25, of Allentown, Pa. Troopers said he apparently lost control of his car and it crossed the roadway, striking the truck head-on.

Mild temperatures this week have brought on the brush fire season early in Ulster County. Five fire departments were called out Thursday on brush fires.

Head-on Crash
A Kingston man was admitted to the intensive care unit at the Benedictine Hospital Thursday afternoon after sustaining injuries in a two-car head-on crash on Sawkill Road in the Town of Ulster.

The condition of the injured man, James Forster, 68, of RD 2, Box 41, Kingston was not available today.

State police said Forster was driving on Sawkill road at about 2:20 p.m. when a car operated by John Eccleston, 28, of Kingston crossed the centerline and collided head-on with Forster's car. Eccleston was ticketed for failure to keep right.

Both men were taken to Benedictine Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance. Eccleston was treated and released at the hospital.

$11,000 Share Tabled

KINGSTON
Ulster County Community Action Committee's present financial and internal mixups prompted the Ulster County Legislature Thursday night to postpone appropriating to UCCAC its $11,000 share of the $129,000 nutritional program for the elderly.

The move to table the matter until the legislature's March 11 meeting was made by Minority Leader Louis M. Klein, D-Dist. 6, and seconded by William R. West, R-Dist. 2, who alluded to UCCAC's present position as "ambiguity surrounded by confusion."

The community action committee is in the throes of unraveling developments regarding loans, composition of its board and determining its leadership.

Legislator Melvin Mones, R-City, who also serves as a county representative of the UCCAC board, said he feels it "will be some time" before the committee's problems will be solved. He described a recent meeting as "chaotic" and he doesn't think public funds should be channeled through UCCAC at this time.

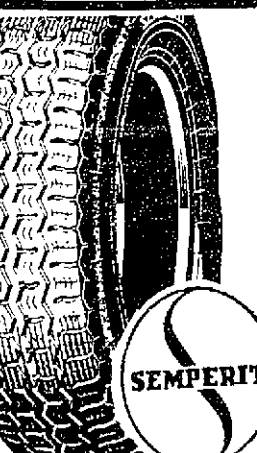

Noting that the committee's nutritional program won't suffer in the interim, since it is also funded by the state, Mones said it was a good program and that he has nothing against it, only questioning UCCAC as a conduit for county funds.

It has been previously suggested that the county's Program for the Aging Committee study the nutritional program with an eye toward diverting the $11,000 in funds to the Ulster County Office for the Aging with the express purpose of having it conduct the program rather than UCCAC.

The legislature also agreed to approve bids for the renovation of the Ulster County Court House and old jail and to authorize the issuance of $276,000 in serial bonds and $15,000 in capital notes to pay for the cost of reconstructing the library at Ulster County Community College. The board agreed to hire architect Albert E. Milliken to prepare plans and specifications.

Authorization also was given for payment of $6,774, for work at the New Paltz Pool site, where drainage problems required additional funds.

The board voted unanimously to protest the closing of the Campus School at State University College at New Paltz.
